In urinary

three

98%
sensitive to Bactrim*
Roche<sup>1</sup>

In a recent multicentre trial which included over 6,000 outpatients, the three most common causative organisms in urinary infections were reported to be E. coli, Proteus mirabilis and Klebsiella aerogenes. In one of the centres more than 98% of these organisms were sensitive to Bactrim Roche, whereas only 65% were sensitive to ampicillin and 70% to sulphonamide.<sup>1</sup>

90% clinical success in recent double-blind trial<sup>2</sup>

"The extreme effectiveness of Bactrim in controlling and curing over 90% of patients with urinary infection in hospital suggests that this combination will become a most efficient agent in treating urinary infections, and therefore probably be the therapy of choice in most instances."<sup>2</sup>

When a child has tonsillitis Ceporex Syrup reduces the risks and improves the results

Tonsillitis treated with penicillin can result in diarrhoea. And penicillin-hypersensitivity rashes are another problem which can complicate therapy.

Ceporex (cephalexin) is ideally suited for tonsillitis treatment. It is clinically as effective as penicillin G against the beta-haemolytic streptococci, but is less likely to produce side effects. It is very well tolerated by children of all ages and can normally be used in penicillin-hypersensitive patients. And Ceporex also achieves a rapid result since it produces high blood levels within an hour of administration, penetrates the tissues quickly and is not metabolised in the body so it remains fully active to fight infection.

Ceporex Syrup has a pleasant blackcurrant flavour which encourages children to finish the course. It comes in two strengths for children: 125mg and 250mg.

Children get on well with Ceporex Syrup

Ceporex safety

"Considering its efficacy and the relative freedom from side effects, we conclude that it is as good a drug as penicillin G and certainly is a valuable addition to the therapeutic armamentarium of beta-haemolytic streptococcal infections in children."<sup>1</sup>

(89 children with beta-haemolytic streptococcal infections.)

"The response to therapy was uniformly good, and no significant toxic effects were encountered."<sup>2</sup>

"Cephalexin appears to be a highly effective drug in the treatment of bacterial pneumonias of older infants and children who are able to take oral medication. The drug has the added advantage of low toxicity."<sup>2</sup>

(55 children with bacterial pneumonia.)

Ceporex speed

"The clinical response to cephalexin was prompt. Fever subsided within the first 24 hours after initiating therapy."<sup>3</sup>

(50 children with pneumonia.)

"A rapid therapeutic response was noted."<sup>4</sup>

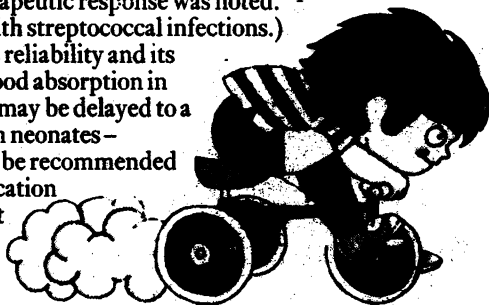

(85 children with streptococcal infections.)

"... due to its reliability and its exceptionally good absorption in infants - which may be delayed to a certain degree in neonates -

cephalexin may be recommended as the oral medication of choice against

positive organisms in newborns."<sup>5</sup>

Less side effects with Ceporex

"No side effects from cephalexin were noted. The medication was accepted without difficulty. There was no nausea, vomiting, diarrhoea, and no rashes were observed."<sup>2</sup>

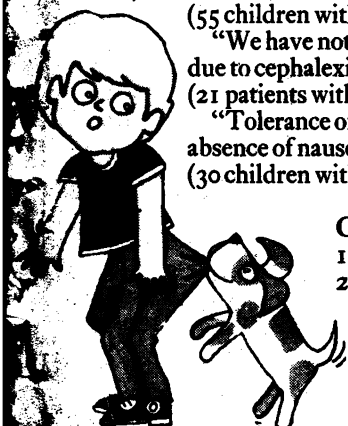

(55 children with bacterial pneumonia.)

"We have not encountered any side effects due to cephalexin."<sup>6</sup>

(21 patients with cystic fibrosis.)

"Tolerance of the drug was satisfactory with absence of nausea, vomiting or diarrhoea."<sup>3</sup>

(30 children with pneumonia.)

What's better than having your key staff in your office?

When you have a Magneta direct speech intercom system, you get through to your staff in 2 seconds, as opposed to 12 seconds on the internal telephone. You talk at the touch of a button. No delays, no waiting. And you don't have to stop what you're doing while you're talking, neither does the called person, who can stand up to 30 feet from the instrument and talk away.

There are two systems from which to choose, varying from the very simplest to the most sophisticated multi-station installations.

PROBLEMS OF THE NEWBORN

from the British Medical Journal

Many doctors outside the neonatal and paediatric field may be unaware of the rapid advances made in the care of the newborn in the last decade. Last year the B.M.J. published a series of articles discussing the diagnosis and management of common conditions affecting newborn babies. The articles have been revised by their authors and collected together as a booklet, forming a useful guide to both serious problems and more everyday topics which confront doctors in their practice.

Septrin rated top in major British survey<sup>1</sup> of urinary pathogen sensitivities

Six clinical bacteriology laboratories—in Glasgow, Liverpool, Hull, Cardiff, Guildford and Salisbury—tested widely used antibacterials against a total of 23,491 urinary isolates (all species). Both out-patient and in-patient strains were included. The results showed that trimethoprim/sulphamethoxazole (SEPTRIN®) outscored all other oral preparations:

Percentage sensitivity of isolates. Summation of six centres.

In-patient		Out-patient
Trimethoprim/ sulphamethoxazole	88	Trimethoprim/ sulphamethoxazole	93

Nalidixic acid	81	Nalidixic acid	87
Ampicillin	63	Ampicillin	79

Can you spot the difference?

For a start let's identify what they are - house dust mites. Allergy to them is now widely regarded as the major cause of house dust asthma, and immunisation is gaining increasing support as the treatment of choice.

The one on the right is Dermatophagoides pteronyssinus, clinically the most important British house dust mite. On the left is Dermatophagoides farinæ - its North American cousin, which has been available from us for some time.

Bencard are pleased to announce the availability of their Dermatophagoides pteronyssinus house dust mite extract. This is the only commercially available extract of the predominant British house dust mite and represents an important addition to the Bencard range of allergy products.

The extract is suitable for diagnosis by the prick test method and for use in specific desensitising vaccines (S.D.V.), either alone or with other allergen extracts.

Another first from Bencard.

The case for treating chronic urinary tract infection with Hiprex

Hiprex can eliminate urinary infection in eight out of ten patients

Hiprex is effective against the organisms which most commonly cause urinary tract infection. Success rates of more than 80 per cent have been reported in clinical trials.

Hiprex can end the frustration of treatment failure

Unlike other agents, notably antibiotics, sulphonamides and nalidixic acid, Hiprex is unlikely to produce bacterial resistance—a major cause of treatment failure. Hiprex has proved effective even when other treatment has failed.

Hiprex is especially suitable when long-term treatment is indicated

Hiprex does not lose its effect during prolonged use and for this reason is of particular value in persistent and recurrent urinary infections. Minor side-effects have been reported in fewer than four per cent of patients, and no serious adverse reactions have been reported. Treatment costs are kept low—as little as 4p a day.

Hiprex improves the prospects of co-operation in long-term use

Published reports stress that Hiprex can overcome the major difficulty of ensuring uninterrupted therapy. All but refractory cases respond to a simple twice-daily dosage, normally without need for special measures to acidify the urine.

Composition Each tablet contains hexamine hippurate 1 g. Indications The treatment of urinary tract infections, such as pyelitis, cystitis and urethritis, but excluding acute pyelonephritis. The treatment of chronic pyelonephritis, and as maintenance therapy after successful antibiotic treatment of acute pyelonephritis. The treatment of asymptomatic bacteriuria, including that occurring during pregnancy. Prophylaxis before and after urological surgery. Dosage Adults: 1 tablet twice daily. Children: 6-12 years:  $\frac{1}{2}$  tablet twice daily. In refractory cases, the dosage may be increased to: 1 tablet three or four times daily in adults.  $\frac{1}{2}$  tablet three or four times daily in children aged 6-12 years. Tablets may be halved but should not be crushed. Alkalinuria Some patients may have an alkaline urine as a result of a predominantly vegetarian diet or occasionally due to Proteus or Pseudomonas infection. In these cases, additional acidification may be necessary to lower the urinary pH to the level required to degrade the hexamine moiety. Administration of ascorbic acid 2 g. daily in divided doses (either as powder or as tablets) is recommended in these cases. Side-effects Occasionally, rashes, gastric irritation, or irritation of the bladder may occur. With prolonged administration at high dosage, the latter may lead to haematuria. All side-effects are reversible on withdrawal of the drug. Treatment of side-effects If the symptoms of infection such as painful micturition or bladder irritation do not subside within seven days of starting treatment, or if such symptoms develop on prolonged treatment at high dosage, this probably indicates drug-induced bladder irritation. Prompt relief can be obtained by the consumption of copious quantities of water and 2-3 teaspoonsful of bicarbonate of soda. Contra-indications Hepatic insufficiency, severe dehydration, severe renal failure (serum creatinine level  $> 5$  mg.%) or metabolic acidosis. Hiprex may be used where mild to moderate renal insufficiency is present. Hiprex is also contra-indicated as the principal therapeutic agent in acute parenchymal infections of the kidney. Hiprex should not be administered concurrently with sulphonamides owing to the danger of crystalluria, or with alkaling agents such as mixtures of potassium citrate. Basic N.H.S. price 100 tablets £2.00 Hiprex, registered trade mark. Full information is available on request.

Two extra minutes of your time could add years to her life

Her complaint is a burnt arm – but what is her blood pressure?

'... no doctor should miss an opportunity to record the blood pressure of a young or middle-aged patient who is a rare visitor to the surgery.'<sup>1</sup>

'Screening for hypertension has attracted less detailed discussion than screening for diabetes, anaemia, cervical cancer, glaucoma, or phenylketonuria. This is surprising, since it is common, dangerous, affects an economically important age-group, is usually symptomless, and is treatable at primary-care level with proven effect on mortality.'<sup>2</sup>

'Generally ... [high blood pressure] comes to the attention of the doctor only when it is severe enough to cause symptoms, or when some major complication has supervened. Such cases represent no more than the tip of the iceberg, and epidemiological and actuarial studies have shown that the far more numerous cases of less severe hypertension represent a major hazard to life and health.'<sup>3</sup>

'A man of 40 with a blood pressure of 160/100 mm. Hg has approximately two-and-a-half times the chance of dying before he is 65 than has a man of the same age with a blood pressure of 120/80 mm. Hg.'<sup>4</sup>

A lifetime of freedom begins with Intal

Before INTAL, a diagnosis of asthma often meant a life sentence of constantly aborting attacks with bronchodilators, anti-histamines or steroids. Patients were constantly at risk from the relentless progress of lung damage and lived in perpetual fear of an asthmatic episode.

The discovery of INTAL (Sodium Cromoglycate BP) represents a turning point in the management of this distressing complaint. Newly diagnosed patients, as well as those of long standing, benefit from this entirely new approach to therapy. INTAL actually prevents the onset of asthmatic attacks, and is notably free from serious side effects.

By preventing asthma attacks the possibility of consequent lung damage may be avoided enabling the patients to lead a fuller, happier life. If they remember their daily INTAL – they can forget their asthma.

INTAL – supplied in SPINCAPS® (each containing 20 mg Sodium Cromoglycate BP). For use in a special insufflator – SPINHALER®.

Some are designed to provide regular income; others offer capital growth. Either may or may not be taxable.

Both may incorporate life assurance and the income tax relief then obtainable can further improve the attractiveness of the investment.

COMMERCIAL APPOINTMENTS

MD in commerce

Throughout all the activities of our Medical Services Division, there runs a common and very heavy responsibility; that of establishing and maintaining a highly ethical medical standard. However good our pharmacists, however professional our marketing men and salesmen—their work must always be tempered by the advice of trained medical people. Naturally enough, they're called Medical Advisers, and we need just such a person now. You can expect to be involved in all aspects of our work, from the administration of new drugs to volunteers, and clinical trials, to supportive work for products already marketed. Your advice will be sought, and heeded, in research, development, and marketing activities. So there are some obvious qualities required. You must hold a British medical degree, preferably for at least five years. You must have a strong, even resilient, personality. And you must be able to communicate, lucidly and persuasively with people of varying types at all levels. Other doctors, researchers, salesmen, product managers—you'll have to handle them all. Quite often, too, there'll be times when a strong commercial instinct will prove invaluable.

On the academic side, we'll encourage you to take opportunities of keeping abreast with the progress in medical science, including your attending symposia, and participating in a weekly clinical session.

No easy job, but one that's well rewarded with an attractive salary determined according to previous experience, a company car, and a non-contributory pension and life assurance scheme. Some of your work—in liaison with university, hospital and general medical contacts—will mean travelling in this country and in Europe. As for the future, our personnel development policy will allow you a variety of opportunities in both scientific and commercial fields.

GYNAECOLOGY IN GENERAL PRACTICE

from the British Medical Journal

As in other branches of medicine, the pattern of gynaecological problems likely to be encountered by the general practitioner will probably change in the future. Moreover, many doctors now in practice were taught little about some of the topics which are important today and are likely to become even more so.

In 1971 the B.M.J. published a series of articles in the "Medical Practice" section discussing the management of various gynaecological disorders in a domiciliary setting. These have now been collected together as a booklet entitled Gynaecology in General Practice and provides a useful and up-to-date account of gynaecology in general practice.
