

ASTHMA

A lifetime of freedom begins with Intal

Before INTAL, a diagnosis of asthma often meant a life sentence of constantly aborting attacks with bronchodilators, anti-histamines or steroids. Patients were constantly at risk from the relentless progress of lung damage and lived in perpetual fear of an asthmatic episode.

The discovery of INTAL (Sodium Cromoglycate BP) represents a turning point in the management of this distressing complaint. Newly diagnosed patients, as well as those of long standing, benefit from this entirely new approach to therapy. INTAL actually prevents the onset of asthmatic attacks, and is notably free from serious side effects.

By preventing asthma attacks the possibility of consequent lung damage may be avoided enabling the patients to lead a fuller, happier life. If they remember their daily INTAL – they can forget their asthma.

INTAL—supplied in SPINCAPS[®] (each containing 20 mg Sodium Cromoglycate BP). For use in a special insufflator—SPINHALER[®].

Ceporex 250mg q.d.s. means success in bronchitis

In a recent clinical trial* conducted among General Practitioners, 156 bronchitic patients were treated with Ceporex 250mg q.d.s. Both chronic and acute conditions were treated, mainly of mild to moderate severity. Success rate with this economical dosage regimen was high – 80% in acute bronchitis and 81% in chronic bronchitis. In bronchitis, Ceporex 250mg q.d.s. can reduce the risks and improve the results.

Dosage recommendations for Ceporex

As indicated in the table below, the dosage requirements in some infections can vary considerably from patient to patient. However, most cases of urinary tract and skin infections, sinusitis, otitis media and bronchitis treated in General Practice respond well to a dosage of 1 gram a day.

Guide to adult dosage (oral)

	15–30mg/kg/day or 250mg q.d.s.	30–60mg/kg/day or 500mg q.d.s.	60–100mg/kg/day 1G t.d.s. to 1.5G q.d.s. or 2G t.d.s.
Urinary tract infections	Acute simple cystitis	Chronic, recurrent or complicated cystitis and pyelonephritis	Prostatitis (3G daily)
	Acute simple pyelonephritis 250–500mg q.d.s. Asymptomatic bacteriuria 250–500mg q.d.s.
Ear, nose and throat infections	Acute tonsillitis Acute pharyngitis	Chronic sinusitis Chronic otitis media Peritonsillar abscess Mastoiditis
	Acute sinusitis 250–500mg q.d.s. Acute otitis media 250–500mg q.d.s.
Respiratory tract infections	Bronchitis 250–500mg q.d.s.		Pneumonia† Lung abscess†
Skin and soft-tissue infections	Furunculosis Lymphadenitis Lymphangitis Superficial wound infections	Cholecystitis Cholangitis	Infections with less sensitive gram-negative organisms, and deep or serious infections†
Gynaecological and obstetrical infections	Uterine and adnexal infections and acute mastitis		More severe infections or those with less sensitive organisms
Osteo-articular infections			Acute or chronic osteomyelitis and acute septic arthritis (4 grams daily)†
Severe systemic infections			Septicaemia† Bacterial endocarditis†
Dental treatment in heart disease	Temporary replacement of penicillin
Veneral diseases (If penicillin is unsuitable)	Gonorrhoea : a single dose of 3 grams cephalixin with 1 gram probenecid is usually effective in males, and 2 grams cephalixin with 0.5 gram probenecid in females Syphilis : 500mg q.d.s. for two weeks

†Dosage may be reduced later depending upon the response, and the sensitivity of the organism.

Ceporex is cephalixin, a semi-synthetic antibiotic derived from cephalosporin C. It is acid-stable, and well absorbed after oral administration. Ceporex has a broad range of bactericidal activity, has little toxicity, and is apparently not nephrotoxic even in high dosage.

Antibacterial activity

Ceporex is bactericidal to many gram-positive and gram-negative micro-organisms. It acts more rapidly against the latter than against gram-positive organisms and appears to be completely stable to staphylococcal penicillinase. Most strains of Staphylococcus aureus (including penicillin-resistant types) are susceptible, but the rare methicillin-resistant strains are usually resistant to Ceporex. Other sensitive organisms include Streptococcus pyogenes, Diplococcus pneumoniae, Corynebacterium diphtheriae and most strains of Streptococcus viridans. Str. faecalis varies in its sensitivity. Sensitive gram-negative organisms include most strains of Escherichia coli, Klebsiella pneumoniae, Proteus mirabilis and many strains of Haemophilus influenzae. Neisseria gonorrhoeae and N. meningitidis are highly sensitive. Salmonella and Shigella spp. are also sensitive.

Ceporex is rarely active against Proteus morgani or Pr. vulgaris and is inactive against Aerobacter aerogenes, Mycobacterium tuberculosis and Pseudomonas aeruginosa (pyocyanea). Bacterial resistance develops slowly in a step-wise manner on repeated subculture.

Pharmacology

Absorption of Ceporex is probably from the duodenum after oral dosage and is rapid and nearly complete. If the antibiotic is given immediately after a large meal, absorption is slower and the peak serum levels are slightly reduced, but the total amount absorbed is unchanged. The peak serum level usually occurs between one and two hours after administration. The serum half-life of Ceporex is normally about one hour. In the new-born, serum levels are likely to be higher and more prolonged. Binding to serum protein is low, and reversible. The extent varies from zero to 30% depending upon the method of estimation.

Concurrent administration of probenecid usually raises peak serum Ceporex levels by 50 to 100%.

Ceporex is excreted in unchanged active form in the urine by glomerular filtration and by tubular secretion. Between 80 and 100% of a dose can be recovered from the urine within 24 hours (mostly within the first six hours).

The mean urinary concentration of Ceporex after one oral dose of 250mg falls from a peak of about 1,000 micrograms/ml to about 40 micrograms/ml over twelve hours.

About 3 to 5% of Ceporex is excreted in the bile, where concentrations are one to four times the concurrent concentration in the serum. The peak concentration in the milk after a dose of 500mg is about 5 micrograms/ml.

Precautions

In patients treated with Ceporex, a false-positive reaction for glucose in the urine may occur with Benedict's or Fehling's solutions, or with 'Clinitest' tablets, but not with 'Clinistix'.

Ceporex is usually tolerated well by patients allergic to penicillin, but cross-reaction can occur occasionally.

As with other antibiotics, Ceporex should be administered with caution in patients with a history of allergy, especially to drugs. When renal function is markedly reduced, Ceporex will accumulate in the serum and tissues unless dosage is suitably reduced.

Laboratory experiments with animals and clinical experience show no evidence of teratogenicity, but as with all drugs, caution is needed during pregnancy.

Contra-indication

Hypersensitivity to cephalosporins.

Adverse reactions

A small proportion of patients receiving Ceporex may experience gastrointestinal disturbances such as nausea, vomiting, diarrhoea, anorexia and general abdominal discomfort. As with all broad-spectrum antibiotics, superinfection (sometimes monilial) can occur, and may present as vulvo-vaginitis. Reversible neutropenia has occurred in a few patients, but is very rare. Generalised drug rashes – urticarial or maculopapular – are uncommon.

Administration and dosage

Ceporex is administered orally. Treatment should continue for at least two days after the temperature has returned to normal and symptoms have subsided. However, in chronic, recurrent or complicated upper urinary tract infections a course of at least two weeks' duration may be necessary.

When renal function is considerably impaired, the dosage should be reduced. If the creatinine clearance is 20 to 50ml/minute, the adult dosage of Ceporex should not exceed 3 grams/day; if between 5 and 20ml/minute, not more than 1.5 grams daily; if the clearance is below 5ml/minute, dosage should not exceed 500mg/day.

Patients receiving intermittent dialysis should be given an additional 500mg of Ceporex after each dialysis, i.e., a total dosage of up to 1 gram on that day.

Ceporex 250mg q.d.s. means success in acute urinary tract infections

New clinical data* shows that Ceporex 250mg q.d.s. has produced a satisfactory response in acute urinary tract infections. This economical dosage regimen can therefore be used to treat a range of infections which includes acute cystitis as well as acute pyelonephritis and asymptomatic bacteriuria.

In urinary tract infections, Ceporex 250mg q.d.s. can reduce the risks and improve the results.

The Future General Practitioner

Learning and Teaching

General or family practice is a special subject. This book is written by six experienced teachers selected by the Council of the Royal College of General Practitioners. It is intended chiefly for teachers, but it will also be valuable to those who are learning and to all who are concerned about the place of family practice within a country's medical services.

A syllabus is developed in five main parts:

Health and Diseases
Human Development
Human Behaviour
Medicine and Society
The Practice

Throughout the book the authors have tried to indicate ways in which the teacher may approach the task of passing on what he had learned by his own experience. The theme is the search for objectives which will satisfy the needs of learner and teacher. The belief is that this search will benefit the future family practitioner and through him the community of his patients.

Septtrin rated top in major British survey¹ of urinary pathogen sensitivities

Six clinical bacteriology laboratories—in Glasgow, Liverpool, Hull, Cardiff, Guildford and Salisbury—tested widely used antibacterials against a total of 23,491 urinary isolates (all species). Both out-patient and in-patient strains were included.

The results showed that trimethoprim/sulphamethoxazole (SEPTRIN[®]) outscored all other oral preparations:

Percentage sensitivity of isolates. Summation of six centres.

In-patient		Out-patient
Trimethoprim/sulphamethoxazole	88	Trimethoprim/sulphamethoxazole	93
Nitrofurantoin	82	Nitrofurantoin	88
Nalidixic acid	81	Nalidixic acid	87
Ampicillin	63	Ampicillin	79
Sulphonamide	56	Sulphonamide	65
Tetracycline	50	Tetracycline	65

These results complement clinical findings of the superiority of SEPTRIN over ampicillin, previously reported in urinary infections.^{2,3} when the "hot" infection cools down...

Hiprex

helps keep the patient from coming back

Hiprex meets the need for acceptable, effective follow-up treatment aimed at maintaining antibacterial activity in the urinary tract, eliminating infection completely, and so preventing recurrence.

Antibiotics, sulphonamides and other agents can all give prompt relief of acute symptoms. But all too often the infection is left smouldering, only to flare up again perhaps months later.

And however successful the initial treatment, the patient remains at risk from re-infection. Yet this risk diminishes with time. The longer the patient remains free from infection, the less chance there is of recurrence.

Long-term therapy with Hiprex — after the "hot" infection has cooled down — can help to buy this valuable time.

Composition Each tablet contains hexamine hippurate 1g. Indications The treatment of urinary tract infections, such as pyelitis, cystitis and urethritis, but excluding acute pyelonephritis. The treatment of chronic pyelonephritis, and as maintenance therapy after successful antibiotic treatment of acute pyelonephritis. The treatment of asymptomatic bacteriuria, including that occurring during pregnancy. Prophylaxis before and after urological surgery. Dosage Adults: 1 tablet twice daily. Children: 6-12 years: $\frac{1}{2}$ tablet twice daily. In refractory cases, the dosage may be increased to: 1 tablet three or four times daily in adults; $\frac{1}{2}$ tablet three or four times daily in children aged 6-12 years. Tablets may be halved but should not be crushed. Alkalinuria Some patients may have an alkaline urine as a result of a predominantly vegetarian diet or occasionally due to Proteus or Pseudomonas infection. In these cases, additional acidification may be necessary to lower the urinary pH to the level required to degrade the hexamine moiety. Administration of ascorbic acid 2g. daily in divided doses (either as powder or as tablets) is recommended in these cases. Side-effects Occasionally, rashes, gastric irritation, or irritation of the bladder may occur. With prolonged administration at high dosage, the latter may lead to haematuria. All side-effects are reversible on withdrawal of the drug. Treatment of side-effects If the symptoms of infection such as painful micturition or bladder irritation do not subside within seven days of starting treatment, or if such symptoms develop on prolonged treatment at high dosage, this probably indicates drug-induced bladder irritation. Prompt relief can be obtained by the consumption of copious quantities of water and 2-3 teaspoonfuls of bicarbonate of soda. Contra-indications Hepatic insufficiency, severe dehydration, severe renal failure (serum creatinine level > 5 mg.%) or metabolic acidosis. Hiprex may be used where mild to moderate renal insufficiency is present. Hiprex is also contra-indicated as the principal therapeutic agent in acute parenchymal infections of the kidney. Hiprex should not be administered concurrently with sulphonamides owing to the danger of crystalluria, or with alkalinising agents such as mixtures of potassium citrate.

The Mental Health Service After Unification

This report from a Tripartite Committee of the Royal College of Psychiatrists, the British Medical Association and the Society of Medical Officers of Health discusses the organization of the Mental Health Service in the context of the forthcoming reorganization of the National Health Service.

The Committee has taken the mental health needs of a population unit of $\frac{1}{4}$ million on which to base a realistic appraisal of the Government's present policy and the role of doctors, nurses, social workers, voluntary workers, and others in this field.

Constructive proposals are made for an essential framework of requirements in hospital and in the community, and guidelines are laid down for all those concerned with mental health and related social work and community services.

Peugeot 504: cordon bleu recipe for a 2-litre saloon.

Before he buys a Peugeot 504, our typical customer takes a look around the 2-litre market. He has certain essential ingredients in mind. Ingredients like imaginative design, brilliant engineering – and prestige.

He checks out specifications and prices, and sees that, on paper, the 504 stands out a mile. The specification describes an advanced car. The list of standard equipment reads like most lists of extras. And the price promises unbelievably good value for money.

It whets his appetite.

So he drives one. First he notices how the door shuts with a solid, expensive clunk. He opens and shuts it again. "Clunk". Then he's treated to all sorts of surprises. Reclining seats that put his favourite armchair to shame. Built-in adjustable headrests. Seat belts. Heated rear window. And through-flow ventilation. They're all standard.

He switches on and starts up. The salesman tells him when the engine's running (it's so quiet).

Then the salesman probably tells him how The Times compared its suspension refinement with the Jaguar XJ6. And how the fuel injection version does 0-60 in 11.2 seconds. And . . . but he's not listening. He's absorbed in the unique feel of the car.

Threading through traffic, he remarks on the light, powerful brakes (they're servo discs all round). Out on the open road he tells the salesman how stable it feels at seventy, and how well within its stride (the salesman points out he's doing eighty-five), and how smoothly it rides over rough roads, and how relaxing it is to drive.

He sells it to the salesman for the duration of his drive.

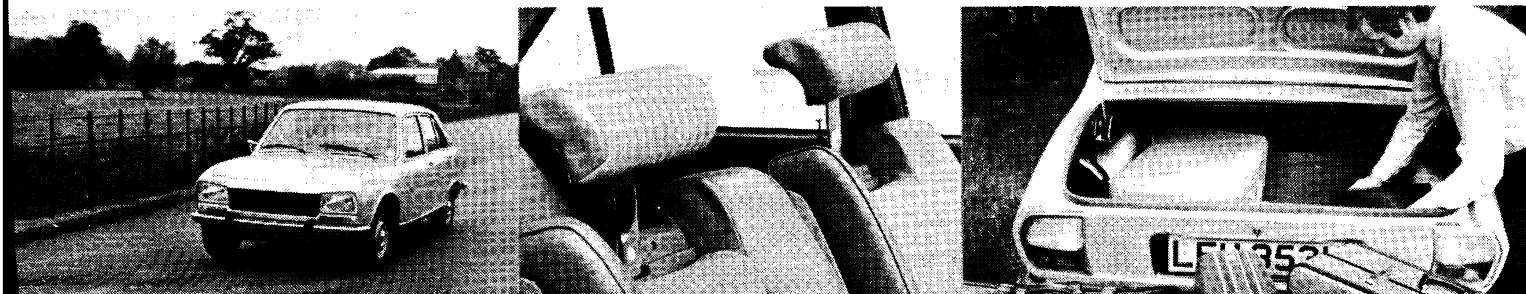

And now that he's acquired such a strong taste for the car, he asks the price again. Just to make sure.

That's when he becomes a Peugeot customer.

Clinical Research

£12,000+

Our client, Mead Johnson & Company, seeks a British-qualified physician to join the Medical Research Department of their new Research Center in Evansville, Indiana, U.S.A., as a Senior Investigator.

Mead Johnson is part of the Bristol-Myers Group and, in addition to its key role in the field of paediatric nutrition, it manufactures a growing range of prescription pharmaceuticals. Current areas of clinical interest include cancer chemotherapy, immune suppression, rheumatic disorders, contraception, cardiology, dermatology and psychotherapeutics.

The man, or woman, appointed is likely to have had two or more years' post-registration experience in medicine and therapeutics, and must be interested in making a career within the pharmaceutical industry. Personal qualities are most important and should include a keen mind, sound clinical judgment, an outgoing personality, a strong interest in therapeutics and a positive responsiveness to variety, challenge and hard work.

The work will involve initiating, coordinating, evaluating and reporting clinical trials of new and established products; lecturing to and liaising with medical and professional groups; and attending medical functions on behalf of the Company.

Tenure of a part-time Clinical Assistantship or a similar outside clinical interest is also encouraged.

The position carries an attractive salary and generous fringe benefits, including comprehensive health care and free life assurance.

The Company is situated in pleasant countryside by the Ohio river, in the heart of the American Midwest. Evansville itself is a modern town with a population of some 140,000 enjoying good educational and medical facilities and harmonious community relations.

Following initial selection in the U.K., suitable candidates and their wife/husband will be flown out to the Company facilities in the U.S.A., where they will be able to spend several days.

If you meet the requirements and would like to discuss the opportunity further, please write or 'phone:

Dr. A. E. F. Chandler (Reference TME),
Talentmark Limited, 14 New Burlington Street,
London W1X 1FF. Tel: 01-437 6244.

ADMINISTRATIVE

SOUTH-EASTERN REGIONAL HOSPITAL BOARD

PRINCIPAL ASSISTANT SENIOR MEDICAL OFFICER
Medical Information Services

The South-Eastern Regional Hospital Board wish to appoint to their Headquarters staff a medical officer in information services in the grade of Principal Assistant Senior Medical Officer. The overall responsibility of the person appointed will relate to a wide spectrum of medical information services and will, in particular, involve responsibility for the study of medical care information in Livingston New Town.

It is anticipated that candidates for this appointment will be experienced in epidemiological techniques and will be interested in medical records, in general, and informed on computer handling of such records.

The successful candidates will be expected to contribute to the work of a multi-disciplinary team which will advise on the use of data currently collected in the hospital service in the evaluation of services provided and in its epidemiological significance, and will consider, in the light of the impending reorganisation of the National Health Service, the integration of existing and development of new information systems.

It is likely that a suitable candidate will be offered an attachment to the Department of Social Medicine of the University of Edinburgh. Salary £4,836 x 279/6 — £6,510. Applicants, giving the names of three referees, by 14th October, 1972 to the Secretary, South-Eastern Regional Hospital Board, Scotland, 11 Drumsheugh Gardens, Edinburgh EH3 7QQ, from whom further particulars may be obtained. SERVICES

Flying. As well as being responsible for the medical care of aircrew, RAF doctors are encouraged to fly and thereby gain first-hand knowledge of the operational environments. Their responsibilities can also include aero-medical evacuation, by the RAF's remarkable long-range airborne ambulance service, using Britannias and VC10s of Air Support Command. In 1970 approximately 2000 patients were flown back to the United Kingdom. Equipment on the aircraft is most elaborate, and can include Radcliffe ventilators, dialysis machines, air-conditioned oxygen cots and a number of items specially designed by RAF consultants. A doctor—say a physician, a surgeon or an anaesthetist—may often be needed as part of the team to 'special' a patient.

Are you in your Pre-Registration Year —or recently fully registered?

Before you commit yourself to your permanent pattern of life, consider what the Royal Air Force has to offer.

The chance to practise total medical care, as a GP

Your first job would probably be a Junior Medical Officer on a large RAF Station. There would be at least one other doctor. Between you, you would have a 'list' of 2000 to 3000 people—servicemen and their families. You would meet all the usual clinical problems of a GP—and get plenty of experience in pediatrics. As well as this, you would be actively involved in the practice of aviation medicine and gain experience in the preventive, occupational and social fields.

Conditions of work are extremely good. You would have a consulting room in a specially built Medical Centre—like a small hospital with its own treatment room, theatre and resuscitation room, and wards for a dozen or so short-stay patients. There is a full secretarial and nursing staff. Your clinical freedom would be absolute.

The chance to specialise, too

Because General Practice is so highly developed in the RAF, this does not mean you have no chance to specialise. The contrary is true. 47% of all RAF doctors are now working in specialist departments. On a 'full career' contract you have every opportunity to reach consultant status in your late or middle thirties—perhaps earlier.

The chance to study for higher qualifications

Any RAF doctor, whether specialist or GP (as long as he is not on the very shortest of contracts) can apply for six months study leave on full salary. On a permanent commission, he may have up to two years' external study leave.

The chance to travel

The RAF operates in many different conditions and climates. Abroad, the RAF doctor looks after RAF personnel and their families and, very often, the local population as well. Your gain in clinical experience would be marked.

The chance of a good social and family life

The RAF is a young community, with a full and active social life. There are facilities for almost every kind of sport and, which is most important, the time to enjoy your family while you are still a young man. Living conditions are excellent. If you are single you live in the Officers' Mess, which has all the amenities of a good hotel. If you are married, you will nearly always have a furnished house that goes with the job; rent for this is very modest; and it can save a large financial outlay at the beginning of your career.

A realistic pay scale

Pay is based on the average earnings of a civilian GP. Immediately after full registration, the present basic salary is £3942; after 5 years it rises to £4767; after 13 years to £5898. There are various other allowances; for instance, with children at boarding school the figures are £363 (net) for one child, £795 (net) for two children, £1314 (net) for three children. There are tax-free gratuities of £1500 after 3 years, or £3000 after 5 years. After service of 16 years or more there is a pension, payable for life, and a generous terminal grant.

For full information please write, giving your age, nationality, and date of full registration, to Group Captain J. G. Donald, OBE, MB, ChB, MRCP, DTM&H, RAF, Ministry of Defence, 1-6 Tavistock Square (724KB7), London, WC1H9NL. Or visit your nearest RAF Careers Information Office.

ST. VINCENT'S HOSPITAL Sydney

DIRECTOR COMMUNITY MEDICINE
A Department of Community Medicine has been established at St. Vincent's Hospital, Sydney, to co-ordinate and initiate community health programmes within and outside the Hospital. The St. Vincent's Hospital is a major Teaching Hospital of the University of New South Wales, and the Department of Community Medicine will be involved within the Hospital in undergraduate training as part of the hospital's philosophy of a comprehensive approach to patient care.

The Hospital is seeking a Director with experience in general practice; a dynamic approach to Community Medicine, and preferably with a higher qualification in Medicine or Surgery, or Membership of the Royal Australian College of General Practitioners.

The Director will be given the opportunity to develop the Department in conjunction with clinical and community programmes already established; he will be encouraged to initiate and participate in research into community health problems and the distribution of health care. Facilities exist for the establishment of at least one community clinic on property adjacent to the Hospital. The Community Clinic would be the base for supply of supportive and domiciliary services to general practitioners adjacent to the Hospital to assist them in their practices if they so desire.

It is anticipated that the Department of Community Medicine will develop a formal link with undergraduate medical education of the University of New South Wales and the Director will be expected to establish liaison with the Medical Faculty of that University and the Public Health Authorities of the State of New South Wales.

Salary range will be $13,180 to $18,260 according to years of service.

Applications close on 31st December, 1972.

Further information may be obtained from the undersigned to whom written applications including the names of three referees should be directed. Dr. M. P. Cleary, General Superintendent, St. Vincent's Hospital, Darlinghurst, N.S.W., 2010, Australia. (H8083) 118
