GYNAECOLOGY IN GENERAL PRACTICE

from the British Medical Journal

As in other branches of medicine, the pattern of gynaecological problems likely to be encountered by the general practitioner will probably change in the future. Moreover, many doctors now in practice were taught little about some of the topics which are important today and are likely to become even more so.

In 1971 the B.M.J. published a series of articles in the "Medical Practice" section discussing the management of various gynaecological disorders in a domiciliary setting. These have now been collected together as a booklet entitled Gynaecology in General Practice and provides a useful and up-to-date account of gynaecology in general practice.

Superior to either ampicillin or tetracycline as judged by reduction in sputum purulence or sputum volume.<sup>1,2</sup>

"...not only are the two primary pathogens, Strep pneumoniae and H influenzae, sensitive, but so are the secondary invaders such as klebsiella which often replace them after antibiotic treatment."<sup>3</sup>

Excellent in chil

Amoxil is an excellent antibiotic for the commonly occurring bacterial infections in children. For a start, Amoxil is pleasant to take. The citrus-flavoured syrup or paediatric suspension pleases even the fussiest of patients.

Then Amoxil can get to work. Its broad spectrum of bactericidal activity and outstanding oral absorption<sup>1</sup> ensure the high serum levels necessary for a rapid response. In fact, just three daytime doses give 24 hour therapeutic effect.

children's infections.

It is not surprising, therefore, that Amoxil's extensive clinical trials have proved it so reliable: a recent study<sup>2</sup>, involving 150 children, demonstrated a success rate of 94%.

Add to this Amoxil's penicillin safety and low treatment cost and you really have an excellent antibiotic for children – and for grown-ups too.

Further information on Amoxil (regd) is available from Bencard, Freepost, Brentford, England.

Prescribing information

Dosage: Adults 250 mg three times a day.

Children – up to 10 years: 125 mg three times a day. In the case of severe infections the dosage should be doubled.

Presentation: Amoxil capsules 250 mg. Amoxil syrup 250 mg/5 ml, 100 ml bottle. Amoxil syrup 125 mg/5 ml, 100 ml bottle. Amoxil Paediatric Suspension 125 mg/1.25 ml, 20 ml bottle with pipette. Amoxil presentations contain amoxycillin as the trihydrate.

Contra-indication: Amoxil is a penicillin and should not be given to penicillin-hypersensitive patients.

Side effects: No serious side effects have been reported in extensive clinical trials. Those side effects which were encountered were mild and of a transitory nature.

Nobrium is the most recent product of the vast Roche international research programme into anxiety. It has a precise action which curbs anxiety at the source—the amygdala in the limbic system of the brain.<sup>1</sup> Nobrium also damps the transmission of anxiety into the body by its action on the hypothalamus. As other brain structures are virtually unaffected,<sup>1</sup> the incidence of side-effects is remarkably low.

This precise action is highly effective in anxiety and the many conditions caused by or associated with it. In clinical trials Nobrium has consistently produced success rates of between 80 and 90%, in a wide range of conditions including psychosomatic disorders of the gut, heart or lungs; organic disease complicated by anxiety; phobias; menopausal syndrome; and alcoholism.

TRAINING

IN COMMUNITY MEDICINE INTER-REGIONAL SCHEME

A two-year programme of in-post training is planned to begin in September, 1973, to assist doctors to prepare for a career in community medicine and for the membership examination of The Faculty of Community Medicine of the Royal Colleges of Physicians. It is being offered by the University of Manchester in collaboration with health service authorities. The University will provide a progressive and co-ordinated series of courses covering the four main modules of epidemiology and medical statistics, behavioural sciences, principles of health services management and medical advances in the health service. The courses will extend over six terms for 2½ days each week and together will be the equivalent of approximately 25 weeks over a period of two years. During the two years doctors will be expected to gain appropriate in-service experience in training posts in health service authorities. For this purpose training posts will usually be offered in one of the two Regions participating in the scheme. For those entering the course in September, 1973, two posts are offered by the Manchester Regional Hospital Board and two by the Liverpool Regional Hospital Board. Although trainees will be in contract with the Hospital Boards, the in-service training experience may be provided at various levels within the health services including (to the 1st April, 1974) local authorities.

The training posts established will be equivalent to Registrar in the clinical specialities (salary £2,634 x £162 (4) — £3,282), where doctors currently earning higher salaries are appointed it will be at the discretion of Boards to allow protection of salary. Doctors on the course will have their contracts transferred automatically to the appropriate health authority on the 1st April, 1974. Applications are invited from registered Medical Practitioners who have had at least two years' post-registration experience. Application forms and further particulars may be obtained from the Senior Administrative Medical Officer of the Hospital Board of the Region which is the applicant's first choice, but should also indicate whether the applicant would wish to be considered for the other Region. Applications should be received not later than 14th July, 1973.

Are you in your pre-registration year? -or recently fully registered?

Before you commit yourself to your permanent pattern of life, consider what the RAF has to offer

The chance to practise total medical care, as a GP

Your first job would probably be a Junior Medical Officer on a large RAF Station. There would be at least one other doctor. Between you, you would have a 'list' of 2000 to 3000 people - servicemen and their families. You would meet all the usual clinical problems of a GP - and get plenty of experience in paediatrics. As well as this, you would be actively involved in the practice of aviation medicine and gain experience in the preventive, occupational and social fields.

Conditions of work are extremely good. You would have a consulting room in a specially built Medical Centre - like a small hospital with its own treatment room, theatre and resuscitation room, and wards for a dozen or so short-stay patients. There is a full secretarial and nursing staff. Your clinical freedom would be absolute.

The chance to specialise, too

Because General Practice is so highly developed in the RAF, this does not mean you have no chance to specialise. The contrary is true. 47% of all RAF doctors are now working in specialist departments. On a 'full career' contract you have every opportunity to reach consultant status in your late or middle thirties, perhaps earlier.

The chance to study for higher qualifications

Any RAF doctor, whether specialist or GP (as long as he is not on the very shortest of contracts) can apply for six months study leave on full salary. On a permanent commission, he may have up to two years' external study leave.

The chance to travel

The RAF operates in many different conditions and climates. Abroad, the RAF doctor looks after RAF personnel and their families and, very often, the local population as well. Your gain in clinical experience would be marked.

The chance of a good social and family life

The RAF is a young community, with a full and active social life. There are facilities for almost every kind of sport and, which is most important, the time to enjoy your family while you are still a young man. Living conditions are excellent. If you are single you live in the Officers' Mess, which has all the amenities of a good hotel. If you are married, you will nearly always have a furnished house that goes with the job; rent for this is very modest, and it can save a large financial outlay at the beginning of your career.

A realistic pay scale

Pay is based on the average earnings of a civilian GP. Immediately after full registration, the present basic salary is £3942; after 5 years it rises to £4767; after 13 years to £5898. There are various other allowances; for instance, with children at boarding school the figures are £363 (net) for one child, £795 (net) for two children, £1314 (net) for three children. There are tax-free gratuities of £1500 after 3 years, or £3000 after 5 years. After service of 16 years or more there is a pension, payable for life, and a generous terminal grant.

For full information please write, giving your age, nationality, and date of full registration, to Group Captain D. G. M. Hills, OBE, MB, BS, DTM, RAF, Ministry of Defence, 1-6 Tavistock Square (724 KS1), London, WC1H 9NL. Or visit your nearest RAF Careers Information Office.

Below, a Senior RAF Medical Officer, at a flying Station in Germany. From time to time he flies as a passenger in combat aircraft, to gain experience of his patients' working environments. Basically, his job is to run a 4-doctor partnership covering two health centres with a total list of 6,000 patients. As well as the usual GP functions he has important responsibilities in environmental health and public health, and among his other preoccupations is the local operation of the RAF's aeromedical evacuation service for Germany, and the establishment of an aeromedical training centre. His own Station is a base for Harrier 'jump-jets', which must be ready to disperse at short notice into small, concealed groups. This doctor has been much concerned with the medical implications of this, and has set up a Mobile Field Medical Centre, with specially equipped cross-country ambulances.

Associate Medical Director

Canada · negotiable above £10,000 · ideal age 30-40

Our client, a major European pharmaceutical Company, wishes to appoint a physician to lead an important clinical research team at its Canadian subsidiary in Montreal.

The position should appeal particularly to an internationally-minded man with a desire for wider challenge and horizons: he will assume a position of responsibility with one of the leading pharmaceutical companies in Canada and will help to develop and direct clinical evaluation projects in a wide range of therapeutic fields. Current areas of clinical interest include psychotropics, cardiovascular agents, analgesics, anti-rheumatics, antibiotics, oral diuretics and hormones.

On completion of any initial training required, the man appointed will have a team of two physicians and three paramedical staff reporting to him, which he will be expected to lead with integrity, enthusiasm and imagination. He must also be able to deputise for the Medical Director, to whom he will report.

The successful candidate will probably be in his thirties, and will have a successful record in clinical medicine and a strong interest in therapeutics. An appropriate higher qualification, previous experience of medical trials or knowledge of French would be advantageous, but not essential. Personal qualities should include initiative, drive, leadership and a positive responsiveness to variety and challenge.

The position carries a highly attractive salary (negotiable above £10,000) together with other important benefits including a company car, bonus, good health care and life assurance schemes, and about 4 weeks' holiday per year. Tenure of a part-time Clinical Assistantship or a similar outside clinical interest is also encouraged.

The Company itself is situated in modern buildings surrounded by trees and fields, within a few minutes' drive of the main residential areas of Montreal.

The Future General Practitioner

Learning and Teaching

General or family practice is a special subject. This book is written by six experienced teachers selected by the Council of the Royal College of General Practitioners. It is intended chiefly for teachers, but it will also be valuable to those who are learning and to all who are concerned about the place of family practice within a country's medical services.

A syllabus is developed in five main parts:

Health and Diseases

Human Development

Human Behaviour

Medicine and Society

The Practice

Throughout the book the authors have tried to indicate ways in which the teacher may approach the task of passing on what he had learned by his own experience. The theme is the search for objectives which will satisfy the needs of learner and teacher. The belief is that this search will benefit the future family practitioner and through him the community of his patients.

When skin irritation is more than just an itch cool it with Ficoid®

It burns. It itches. It won't go away. It makes the patient irritable. Maybe it gets under your skin a little, too. And it happens all the time.

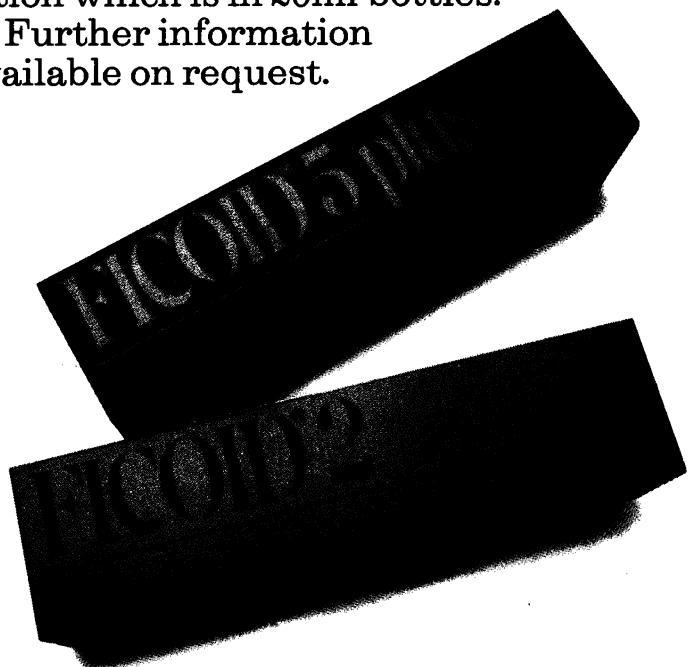

Ficoid is the way to sort it out. In the Ficoid range of topical preparations you'll find just the right formula for the occasion.

Basically, Ficoid is a topical steroid: fluocortolone. It comes in two strengths. It comes with clemizole hexachlorophenone as antibacterial cover; and it comes as cream or ointment.

Ficoid is cosmetically elegant and good value for money. The patient will like it for its cool, soothing texture; even more when it relieves the irritation and burning. To you, Ficoid offers a dermatologically sound product range designed to simplify the treatment of common skin conditions.

For ease of prescribing all the Ficoid range comes in 30g tubes, except the lotion which is in 20ml bottles.

Further information available on request.
