Confidence is born of experience. And experience with Penbritin in the treatment of urinary tract infections has established an outstanding record of effectiveness and penicillin safety.

In contrast to the trimethoprim-sulphonamide combination products, Penbritin can be prescribed with confidence even when your patient is pregnant.

After two years of work

It is probably the most exhaustive study ever made of anti-obesity treatment.^{1,2} It took more than two years of work from start to finish. 134 overweight patients completed treatment. All were women living in the Edinburgh area.

The study compared two agents. One was fenfluramine. The other—Duromine (phentermine). Each patient was treated for 36 weeks. Duromine—even when given only every other month—was remarkably successful in helping patients keep to a diet. Mean weight loss was 26.3 lb.—striking confirmation of previous results with Duromine.³

In contrast, fenfluramine given in a similar manner was “less effective, and more likely to produce troublesome side-effects”. In particular, significant withdrawal depression was observed with fenfluramine.^{1,4}

Side-effects Slight dryness of the mouth or a tendency to early wakening may be experienced from the higher dosage. Contra-indications Duromine is contra-indicated in patients under treatment with monoamine-oxidase (MAO) inhibitors.

GYNAECOLOGY IN GENERAL PRACTICE

from the British Medical Journal

As in other branches of medicine, the pattern of gynaecological problems likely to be encountered by the general practitioner will probably change in the future. Moreover, many doctors now in practice were taught little about some of the topics which are important today and are likely to become even more so.

In 1971 the B.M.J. published a series of articles in the "Medical Practice" section discussing the management of various gynaecological disorders in a domiciliary setting. These have now been collected together as a booklet entitled Gynaecology in General Practice and provides a useful and up-to-date account of gynaecology in general practice.

The Citroën GS

You've always wanted one. We tell you why.

Styling. More to it than meets the eye.

The Citroën GS is a car which gets noticed. Its lines are trim and sleek, like those of an aircraft or a ship.

Starting with a clean sheet of paper, Citroën's designers set out to create a new medium-sized car which was aerodynamically efficient.

So successful were they that the GS has about half the wind resistance of the average car. And twice the eye-appeal of more conventional, less individual designs. You'd never guess one of the designers was a computer.

Comfort. Proved Hydropneumatic suspension.

Switch on, and you feel the GS rising up. This is the famous Citroën Hydropneumatic suspension coming to life. Bumps are absorbed by the interaction of a fluid and a gas. The floor of the car stays on the level, no matter how light or heavy the load or how irregular the road surface.

This suspension alone separates the GS from all other cars in its class. It's exclusive to Citroën, and has been proved to be reliable and supremely effective over literally millions of miles.

Performance. Advanced, high efficiency engines.

On the road, the GS moves smoothly and rapidly.

The light alloy air-cooled engine—1220 or 1015 cc—was a brand-new design for the GS.

Its performance is a revelation. The GS 1220 accelerates from 0-50 mph in a short 10.6 seconds. It has a top speed of approximately 95 mph for continental driving when conditions are right.

Safety. Sure handling, 4-wheel disc brakes.

Suspension, front wheel drive and rack-and-pinion steering combine to make GS handling predictable and safe.

Brakes are dual circuit, with discs on all four wheels.

Equipment. Most 'extras' are standard.

Electronic rev counter, clock, cigar lighter, trip counter, 2-speed wipers, electric washers, efficient heating/ventilating system—all these are standard, as is the famous Citroën padded one-spoke steering wheel.

Seats are contoured for comfort. Front seats are fully-reclining. All four doors have an armrest. Visibility is panoramic. The boot is vast: 16.4 cu ft, and all usable because of its original flat-sided 'shoe-box' shape.

The GS Estate. Loadcarrier with a difference.

Few dual-purpose cars do two jobs well. The Citroën GS Estate does.

Its Hydropneumatic suspension adjusts to the weight carried. Lightly-laden or using its 53 cu ft loadspace to the full, the GS Estate still drives and feels like an expensive saloon. And looks like one. The GS Estate shares the saloon's good styling, and all the other GS features.

A test drive? No problems.

Your Citroën dealer will be delighted to arrange a test-drive. Or write for a brochure to Citroën Cars Ltd, Dept C105, Trading Estate, Slough SL1 4QA.

A MULTI-PURPOSE DIURETIC

that helps to conserve the body's natural potassium

'Moduretic' owes its versatility to the complementary actions of its active constituents:

Hydrochlorothiazide—the well-established thiazide diuretic.

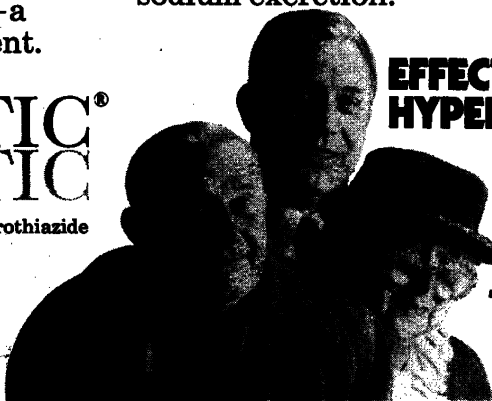

Amiloride hydrochloride—a potassium-conserving agent.

Besides moderating the kaliuretic effect of hydrochlorothiazide, amiloride has an additive diuretic effect; the results of some studies reflect a synergistic effect on sodium excretion.

Brufen

a significant price reduction

Brufen, the first compound for the treatment of rheumatic disease to be developed entirely by British research, is now widely accepted as a significant contribution to current therapy and usage of this effective, well tolerated anti-arthritic drug continues to increase.

From September 1st 1973, the N.H.S. Price of Brufen is reduced by 25%. 100 Brufen tablets now cost £1.88 instead of £2.50. At the average dosage, treatment with Brufen will now cost 7.2p daily.

We feel sure that doctors — particularly those who have observed the benefits of Brufen in practice — will appreciate this reduction in prescribing costs.

Brufen is ibuprofen, available as tablets containing 200 mg and as a Suspension containing 100 mg in each 5 ml.

Rat exposed to SO₂, showing hyperplasia of mucus-producing cells

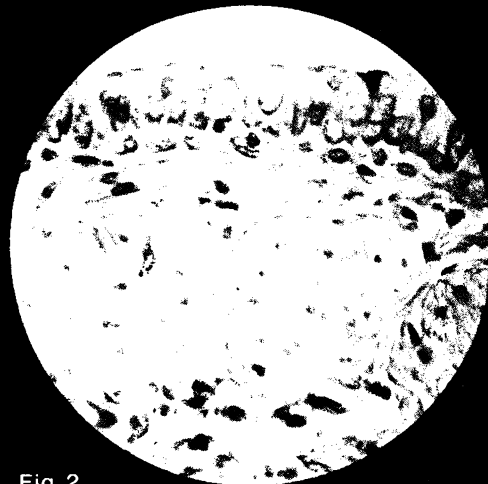

Fig. 2
Rat exposed to SO₂, but also treated with Mucodyne—the hyperplasia is greatly reduced reduces hyperplasia of the respiratory mucosa.

MUCODYNE presents a completely different concept in the treatment of mucus congestion. Experimentally, it has been shown to reduce the pathological increase in mucus-producing cells. Clinically it reduces the volume of bronchial secretions and restores pathologically sticky mucus to a more normal consistency. A consistency that enables it to be removed more easily. And more quickly. Recent British evidence* has shown that MUCODYNE shifts sticky mucus 4 days faster than bromhexine. For your next congested patient therefore this mucodynamic action of MUCODYNE will mean relief comes that 4 days earlier.

restores a bronchial secretion the cilia can cope with.

Some awkward questions to ask next time you're buying a new car

Whatever you buy, it'll set you back a lot of money. This, unfortunately, is unavoidable.

But you might suffer more set-backs once you've bought the thing. Like a host of delivery faults, and expensive repairs.

Which is the price you pay for taking too much on trust.

Fortunately, it's avoidable. Simply find out what the car went through at the factory. Ask about the attention to detail, the checks and double-checks, the testing of the finished product.

This tells you how conscientious the manufacturer is, and gives you a fair idea of the car's long-term performance and reliability prospects.

The better it's made, the better it goes – and the longer it keeps going.

So before you reach for your cheque book, it's in your interest to ask the dealer these questions:

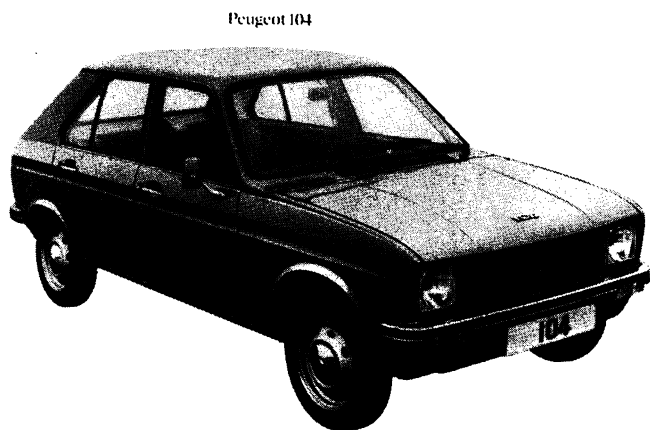

1. Is each and every stressed part (e.g. crankshaft, connecting rods, steering arms) and every casting (e.g. gearbox housing) crack-tested and inspected before installation and assembly?
2. Is every engine run on a test-bed before it's cleared for installation?
3. Is every gearbox tested in each gear before it gets the go-ahead?
4. Is the body protected against rust by an electrophoretic process while totally immersed in an aqueous solution?
5. Is every car taken from the end of the assembly-line to a test-track and driven by highly qualified test-drivers over pavé, slab pavement, shallow steps, uneven flagged pavement; through a wiggle-wobble test, a braking tunnel (for dry braking performance), chevron ridges and a whole series of lumps and bumps?
6. Is every fault that shows up in the track-test rectified, however minor?
7. Is the car then checked and tested again?
8. Are a number of cars selected at random each day and road-tested for at least 60 miles?
9. Is at least 12% of the manufacturer's work force employed on quality control inspection?
10. Is the manufacturer one of the biggest in Europe?

If all the answers are an unqualified "yes", you're at a Peugeot showroom.

If not, you know where to go.

PRACTICES (Executive Councils)

INNER LONDON EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

NATIONAL HEALTH SERVICE

THAMESMEAD

The Thamesmead Joint Health Services Advisory Committee has pioneered a programme of integrated health care based on health centres for the residents (eventually about 50,000) of this riverside development in the London Boroughs of Greenwich and Bexley. The first group of general practitioners is already operating at the Lakeside Health Centre.

Applications are now invited from general practitioners of suitable experience and personal qualities to lead the way in building up a second team to serve the next area of Thamesmead in which the population is expected to grow to about 12,000 within the next five years. This team will be based on a well equipped temporary health centre working closely with nurses, health visitors, hospital and other staff employed from April, 1974, by the Bexley/Greenwich Area Health Authority and will be members of the Department of General Practice at Guy's Hospital Medical School. It will eventually be one of several groups occupying the main health centre which will be the main base for teaching and research and which in addition to the usual facilities will provide a wide range of specialist and diagnostic services.

The doctor now to be appointed will be offered a suitable academic appointment in the Department of General Practice at Guy's and given the opportunity of taking an active part in teaching and research.

A Type D Initial Practice Allowance which takes the form of a guarantee that the doctor's income will be made up to an amount agreed with the Executive Council will be payable provided that the successful applicant has been qualified for about ten years, of which two have been in hospital appointments, and five in a busy general practice in this country. He should be experienced in maternity work and be acceptable for the Obstetric List. The successful applicant will be expected to take up his appointment in January, 1974.

This position requires travel both within Asia and on occasions to Europe and the U.S.

Following a period of successful service in this position the incumbent will be considered for career growth re-assignments to other management centres in Brussels, Nairobi or Coral Gables, Florida or our New York headquarters.

Applicants should be medically qualified and possess an appropriate postgraduate degree. Initial preference will be shown towards those with experience in clinical research, drug trial methodology or teaching. Final selection will place considerable emphasis on the applicant's managerial potential and ability to assimilate into a commercial enterprise.

Intal is well established as a highly effective treatment for allergic asthma in the young.

But what of the late-onset patient—the dad who suddenly starts wheezing, blowing up balloons, at the kids' party?

Can Intal help him? Clinical studies^{1,2} show that a surprisingly high proportion of patients over 40 also benefit from Intal, even where there is no clearly defined allergic component.

And it does it all with a specific local action.

Name these IUCDs

The drawbacks to the initial and continued acceptance of the IUCD by the patient are only too familiar. They include spotting after insertion, and heavy bleeding and prolongation of the menstrual period, which result in removal in 7-15% of cases^{1,2}. The majority who stay with the coil have periods heavier by as much as half or more³, and the problem of excessive menstrual bleeding may manifest itself for the first time a year or so after insertion².

Epsikapron® (aminocaproic acid) provides control of IUCD bleeding. It has been shown, for instance, to reduce the severity of menstrual blood loss in IUCD patients by an average of 52%⁴.

With Epsikapron, more patients accept the IUCD—and more happily.

Epsikapron, the leading preparation in its field, is a product of pioneer work carried out by Kabi, the fibrinolysis specialists.

P. L. Nos. 0022/5004 and 0022/5005.

Contraindication:

Renal insufficiency.

Side effects:

Occasional gastrointestinal disturbance or orthostatic reaction when treatment starts.

Dosage:

3g of aminocaproic acid (1 sachet of Epsikapron effervescent powder or 10ml syrup) 4-6 times daily during menstruation. To minimise IUCD "spotting", 3g 4 times per day for 7 days following insertion of the coil.
