MICROPATHOLOGY OF THE TEMPORAL BONE

The organisation of this book is atlas-style with descriptive histopathology for each figure on facing pages. With each temporal bone section a high-power magnification of the significant cellular detail is inserted. A three-dimensional illustration of the cut through the temporal bone accompanies each photomicrograph. The atlas fills a major gap in the literature of otology.

CONTROVERSY IN INTERNAL MEDICINE II

This book presents a collection of 31 contemporary controversies, a stimulating mixture of socioeconomic, scientific and "bread-and-butter" disputes. 30 of these 31 topics are examined from at least two viewpoints; one topic is covered by only one discussion since its alternative has not attracted an exponent. Comments by one of the editors follows each topic.

TODD-SANFORD CLINICAL DIAGNOSIS BY LABORATORY METHODS 15th Edition

This is a complete, up-to-date revision with advances in the critical areas of laboratory medicine, embracing haematology, blood banking, chemistry, toxicology, urinalysis, microbiology as well as virtually all the organ systems. Wherever possible, obsolete information and unuseful approaches have been discarded in place of more current methodology and clinical laboratory studies. In addition, every opportunity has been taken to suggest or point out future directions in laboratory medicine.

Unlike some of the atlases on hand surgery, which are superficial and incomplete, Dr. Poznanski has written a true monograph on the normal variations and abnormalities of the hands that manifest systemic disease. There is no similar book in existence. The hand is a diagnostically useful region. Because of its thinness, films can be obtained without screens, which allows excellent visualization of fine structures. The hand is also remote enough from the body so that it can be radiographed freely without as much concern cheapt radiotion decrees. much concern about radiation doses.

BRITISH MEDICAL JOURNAL ADVERTISEMENT

"Bread is a good food and, in my opinion, we should be a healthier people if present trends were reversed and we began to eat more bread and less of other foods?

Who said that? An impoverished baker? An overweight jam-butty enthusiast? Neither. In fact, it was said recently at a nutrition conference in London by an eminent medical nutritionist, Reader in Physiology at one of our leading Universities and a wellknown medical author of a standard work on human nutrition and dietetics.

Nor was he trying to demonstrate any eccentricity: the same kind of observation is being made by more and more nutritionists on more and more public platforms.

"The nutrients bread supplies, particularly B vitamins, iron and calcium, are among the nutrients most likely to be lacking in other foods. Bread is, of course, a source of protein too" says Dr. Sally Parsonage, food scientist and nutrition expert writing in the journal Slimming and Nutrition.

The new-look loaf

What has changed, then? How has the schoolbovs' "filler" suddenly become a vital ingredient in the nation's dietary needs? The answer is, nothing has changed: bread has played an important part in keeping Britain healthy for centuries, and at no time was this more evident than during the Second World War. The truth is that since the war, with increasing affluence, certain foods have gained status at the expense of others. In the process the real value of bread has been ignored, but there are increasing signs of an improved understanding.

Man cannot live by bread alone. True for bread - as for any other single food. But the fact remains that, on a dietetic level, he could have a very good try. According to the National Food Survey's latest published figures, even on the present consumption (34.4 oz. or about 11 large loaves per person per week) bread is a major source of essential nutrients and energy. In the average daily diet, bread and flour supply more thiamine

What do you pay for what you get?

In large population areas, the standard 28 oz. wrapped, sliced white loaf can normally be bought for  $14\frac{1}{2}p$  or less. To keep the price down to this level, bread has been subsidised since March. Before we decide what  $14\frac{1}{2}p$  means in terms of food value, it would be wise to consider just what that amount of money buys in other foods in nutritional terms.

(See table of Comparative Nutritional Values)

How the Government uses its loaf

Today's white loaf has been recognised by successive Governments as being vital to a nation's health. Since 1947, an independent Food Standards Committee, set up by the Government, and comprising eminent medical and scientific authorities, has regularly reviewed all the factors governing the composition of bread and flour, and sets strict standards. The latest report on bread and flour was published in May 1974.

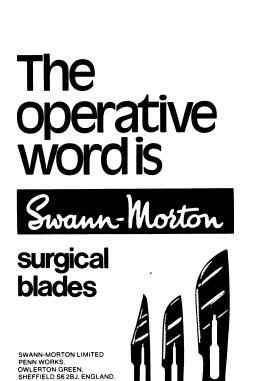

Essential minerals and vitamins, which would otherwise be reduced in the milling of wheat into white flour, are replaced to maintain the nutrient value of every loaf sold. There is probably no item of food more carefully scrutinised by impartial experts to ensure a wholesome and nutritional product. 'Good bread' says the eminent medical nutritionist 'is an essential item in a good meal'.

Dr. Sally Parsonage goes further and writes that "A sandwich of two slices of buttered bread, 3 oz. cheese and a sliced tomato provides the same protein and vitamins as a bowl of tomato soup, 3 oz. boiled gammon, gravy, peas and a boiled potato." There's food for thought.

Infectious diseases remain as much a medical challenge as ever and the articles collected in book form under the title A New Look at Infectious Diseases cover many aspects of diagnosis and treatment. The widespread use of newer antibiotics, and increased risk of spread by travel are all dealt with, as well as the problems of diagnosis produced by present day doctors' unfamiliarity with many diseases, which were formerly so common and widespread.

ANDROCUR . . . . SCHERING CHEMICALS LTD

The recent report in the Sunday Times on the treatment of Broadmoor patients with hormone drugs to supress sexual desire describes how a male patient had to have a breast amputated. The article stated that this followed treatment by Androcur (Cyproterone Acetate) but the following points have since been made clear:

- 1. The drug used was not Androcur.
- 2. No patient has required mastectomy because of treatment with Androcur.
- 3. Androcur is only available in tablet form and cannot be administered by implantation as reported in the article.

Are your asthmatic patients still at risk?

Asthma may appear to be a fairly straightforward condition.

With several alternative treatments.

But what are the snags?

Bronchodilator aerosols are normally used only during the attack and may leave the lungs open to damage before they take effect.

Moreover, they don't always work and there is a possibility of misuse and overdosage.

Steroids always present the danger of side effects and should probably be reserved for those patients for whom there is no alternative.

Only Intal prevents the attack and eliminates these problems.

With Intal, there is no danger of side effects, no risk of misuse and no diminution of therapeutic effect.

Put them on Intal. Give them a fighting chance.

COMMERCIAL APPOINTMENTS

Medical Strategist

Commercially-minded physician

This is an opportunity for a young physician who has a broad experience of medicine, probably gained in general practice, and who is now seeking a position both academically and commercially

Our clients, Smith Kline & French Laboratories Limited, are one of the world's leading pharmaceutical companies, with a sizeable research centre at their UK headquarters in Welwyn Garden City, Herts. Their need is for a physician who will provide an authoritative intellectual input, stretching beyond the purely medical, to the formulation of marketing strategy and tactics for an important group of products.

Specifically, his or her duties will include:

- Careful study of published papers and other reports on specific groups of medicines.
- Provision of informed medical opinion and judgment to marketing and commercial staff.
- Attendance at conferences and symposia to keep at the forefront of medical knowledge in the relevant product fields.
- Planning, organisation and evaluation of clinical trials to investigate new indications for existing products.

The right person will recognise that some of the most interesting therapeutic advances have taken place as a result of the careful study of unanticipated actions of drugs in general use. Examples include Amantidine the antiparkinson agent which was originally introduced as an antiviral, and the B-blockers which are increasingly finding favour as anti-anxiety agents. He or she, will appreciate the immense new indication potential for well tried and accepted medicines.

Ideal age 28-35

The man, or woman, we seek for this appointment will be a fully registered and broadly-based medical practitioner, probably within the age range 28-40. Personal qualities are as important as formal qualifications, and applicants should have an alert and incisive mind, a strong sense of medical purpose and a drive to achieve.

The position is an important one in the commercial development of the Company: it commands an excellent salary, strongly progressive on merit; attractive bonus, pension and life assurance schemes; a Company car; good amenities with pleasant countryside for home and family; and generous removal expenses.

Please write for additional information and an application form, or 'phone if you would like to discuss the position further:

AYLESBURY AND HIGH WYCOMBE DISTRICTS
Department of Mental Health of the Elderly

CLINICAL ASSISTANT

Up to 9 clinical assistant sessions are available at Tindal General Hospital, Aylesbury, the headquarters and assessment unit of the Department of Mental Health of the Elderly.

This Department has been in existence for four years and has made rapid developments in hospital and community services. There are two consultant psychiatrists, and registrars rotate into the Department from the main psychiatric hospital. The clinical assistant at present in this post acts as overall co-ordinator of the running of the assessment unit, as well as helping with domiciliary and pastoral visits.

Though some previous experience in psychiatry would be an advantage it is not essential. Arrangements can be made for the holder to be involved in psychiatric training locally, in Oxford, or in London; the present holder has obtained both D.P.M. and M.R.C.Psych. whilst working in the Department, which has category II accreditation from the Royal College.

Mental health of the elderly is an expanding field, yet with few formal training posts available, so that this post offers real prospects of further progress if so desired. There is a small night duty involvement with the post; this need not involve living-in, provided the person appointed is within reasonable distance of Tindal General Hospital.

International Career Opportunities

The international headquarters of the Boehringer Ingelheim group, situated on the banks of the Rhine near Mainz, and with research laboratories in Germany, France, Austria, Italy, Japan and North America are expanding their international medical department to match the substantial research facilities, which have been particularly successful in the synthesis of original compounds.

We are looking for physicians to work in Germany with experience in the fields of ischaemic heart disease, chronic obstructive airway disease, hypertension, the relief of pain, disorders of the central nervous system and other important fields of medicine.

The tasks involved include: co-ordination of our medical programme worldwide, and provision of expert advice in the particular field of the speciality by keeping abreast of modern thinking and research and by personal attendance at Symposia and Workshops. Playing a role in the conception and realisation of new ideas in therapy, particularly in relation to the marketing needs of individual countries.

Some proficiency in German is desirable and comprehensive tuition in the language for you and your family would be available.

You would join an existing international team and a substantial salary and generous pension scheme are offered, and full assistance for you and your family in relocation in Germany.

Please write in confidence to: Dr. J. H. Shelley, C. H. Boehringer Sohn, Ellesfield Avenue, Southern Industrial Area, Bracknell, Berks. RG124YS.

Cardiovascular Disease in the Tropics

Edited by A. G. Shaper, M. S. R. Hutt, Z. Fejfar

Cardiovascular disease is a major problem in many developing and tropical countries and this collection of essays by 36 members of the International Society of Cardiology draws attention to the fascinating and complex situation in the tropical world. The book presents the present state of knowledge regarding many conditions previously thought to be peculiar to the temperate and developed countries and also deals with those disorders peculiar to the tropical situation. The differences in geographic distribution and natural history of many cardiovascular problems between temperate and tropical countries provide unique opportunities for research into the nature of these problems. The book is intended not only for doctors and students in tropical countries but for cardiologists, physicians, pathologists and epidemiologists everywhere, who are concerned with the international problem of cardiovascular disease. It provides an up-to-date review suitable both for clinical and epidemiological work and for further research into these disorders.

Medicine in a Tropical Environment

Edited by A. G. Shaper, J. W. Kibukamusoke, M. S. R. Hutt

Medicine in a Tropical Environment is intended for medical students and doctors working in tropical and developing countries. The essays bring together specific problems of the tropical environment which have been the subject of recent investigation, and the authors write on them from personal experience. Little of the material on which the essays are based was available more than five years ago. The book should stimulate the interest of students, doctors, and non-medical scientists in trying to solve some of the problems raised in almost every chapter. To doctors in temperate climates preparing themselves for medical work in developing parts of the world Medicine in a Tropical Environment is essential reading.

And now a logical developmentnew for the control of nasal symptoms in allergic rhinitis

Beconase NASAL SPRAY

- Provides fully effective control of nasal symptoms
- Employs a convenient and accurate drug delivery system
- ☐ Is free from the risk of systemic steroid side effects
- ☐ Reduces or obviates the need for antihistamines or topical vasoconstrictors and can eliminate the burden
- of sedative side effects and rebound congestion
- Consequently improves the quality of life for the patient with seasonal or perennial allergic rhinitis

Allergic rhinitis whether seasonal or perennial is a prevalent disease problem affecting a large number of people. Current drug treatments in the form of oral antihistamines and topically applied vasoconstrictor solutions are often not fully effective or are associated with a high incidence of unwanted side effects notably drowsiness and rebound congestion.

Oral or parenteral corticosteroid preparations are the most effective treatments for allergic rhinitis but, as in asthma, clinicians are reluctant to prescribe them because of the serious systemic side effects that may occur.

Beclomethasone dipropionate administered by metered-dose aerosol is now known to be as effective in asthma as systemic corticosteroids without causing their side effects. Administered intranasally as Beconase Nasal Spray it has been shown to be extremely effective in the control of seasonal and perennial allergic rhinitis again without causing the systemic side effects commonly occurring with corticosteroids.

"The effect of a daily dose of 400 mcg beclomethasone dipropionate aerosol intranasally has been investigated in a double-blind cross-over trial in 29 patients with hay fever. The effect on nasal symptoms was so pronounced in 25 patients that further symptomatic treatment was unnecessary."

(Brit. med. J., 1973, 4, 464)

PRESCRIBING INFORMATION

Indications. Beconase is indicated for the prophylaxis and treatment of perennial and seasonal allergic rhinitis, including hay fever.

Dosage and Clinical Use. The recommended maximum dosage is one application into each nostril, four times daily. Not for use in children.

Beconase is only for intranasal use. Other treatment may sometimes be necessary to control eye symptoms.

The effect of Beconase is not immediate and this should be explained to the patient. Full therapeutic benefit requires regular therapy.

Side Effects. No major side effects attributable to Beconase have been reported but occasionally sneezing attacks have followed immediately after use of the aerosol.

Contra-Indications. There are no specific contra-indications to the use of Beconase.

Precautions. Infections of the nasal passages and paranasal sinuses should be appropriately treated but do not constitute a specific contra-indication to treatment with Beconase.

Care must be taken while transferring patients from systemic steroid treatment to Beconase if there is any reason to suppose that their adrenal function is impaired.

Unnecessary administration of drugs during the first trimester of pregnancy is undesirable.

Presentation. Beconase is a metered-dose aerosol which delivers 50 mcg of beclomethasone dipropionate BP per actuation into a specially designed nasal applicator. Each canister of Beconase provides 200 sprays.
