Engineering in Medicine

B. McA. Sayers, S. A. V. Swanson,
and B. W. Watson

The applications of technology to medicine have developed rapidly in recent years. In this book the authors outline the field of work, which is wider and more diverse than is generally realized, discuss the prospects for future development, and consider the problems of allocating available resources. £3.25 Science and Engineering Policy Series

The Synaptic Organization of the Brain

Gordon M. Shepherd

This text gives a systematic review of the vast amount of information that has accumulated (largely through microelectrode and electron microscope studies) on the structure and function of nerve cells in the vertebrate brain. Its purpose is to consider the traditional concepts of neuronal organization in the light of the new data that have resulted from the explosion of knowledge in neuroanatomy and neurophysiology. Illustrated paper covers £3.80 Oxford Medical Publications

Neurological Pathophysiology

Edited by Sven G. Eliasson,
Arthur L. Pinsky, and
William B. Hardin, Jr.

This volume is about the pathological mechanisms behind clinical neurological disorders. Normal brain development is described and the causes of developmental disorders of the central nervous system are considered, such as poor nutrition, metabolic and congenital malformations, and trauma in the neonatal period. The book then goes on to cover disorders of nerve and muscle, disturbances of autonomic and visceral function, disorders of movement, cortical function, special senses, and the effects of trauma and infections. Illustrated paper covers £3 Oxford Medical Publications

Histology

A Textbook and Atlas

J. A. G. Rhodin

This textbook for anatomists, lecturers, and postgraduate students combines the descriptive legends of an atlas with a concise text. The light microscopy preparations are almost exclusively taken from human or monkey tissues, while electron microscopy preparations are taken mostly from rats and cats. Human tissues are used where they differ considerably from those of lower mammals. Illustrated £9 Oxford Medical Publications

The Initiation of the Heartbeat

Denis Noble

This is the only introductory textbook available on the mechanism of initiation of the heartbeat and it aims to explain the advances made since the recent introduction of the voltage-clamp technique. It is based on lectures given to second-year medical and physiology undergraduates, and will also be of interest to clinical cardiologists, as the possible clinical importance of recent work is emphasized. £4

Gastrointestinal Pathophysiology

Edited by Frank P. Brooks

This textbook deals with the mechanisms of gastrointestinal disease, focusing on a relatively small number of diseases where enough pathophysiology is known to contribute to a practical approach to their diagnosis and treatment. After a discussion of common gastrointestinal symptoms, each chapter has a section on definition, symptoms and signs, aetiology, pathophysiology, diagnostic considerations, and therapeutic considerations. Illustrated paper covers £3 Oxford Medical Publications

Medical Microbiology in the Tropics

Enyinnaya Nnochiri

Written by a teacher with wide experience of tropical Africa, this book provides a concise and factual account of the essential principles of the subject with special emphasis on diagnosis, management, and prevention of the commoner and more significant infections prevalent in warm climates. Although written primarily for medical students in tropical Africa, the book meets the needs of practitioners, students, hospitals, and dispensaries in all tropical countries. Illustrated paper covers £6 Oxford Medical Publications

Neurological Complications of Oral Contraceptives

Edwin R. Bickerstaff

The evidence for and against the existence of a relationship between the use of oral contraceptives and cerebrovascular disease, involuntary movements, migraine, and epilepsy, is here presented. The author draws upon observation from his own study, both ten years before and ten years after the introduction of the Pill, of cerebrovascular disease in young women. Illustrated £4

Why forbid the patient coffee?

Thanks to H-A-G Decaffeinated Coffee even in cases of Insomnia, Palpitations, Disorders of the Heart and Circulation, Excitability, Gastritis and Peptic Ulcer, Gallstones, certain Diseases of the Liver the patient need not forego his favourite beverage.

* THE H-A-G DECAFFEINATING PROCESS.
Swelling the green beans by steam pressure enlarges the pores and exposes the maximum surface to the highly volatile caffeine solvent (not trichlorethylene) which is flushed through the beans, carrying the caffeine with it. The surplus solvent is removed by a final steam flushing. The beans are then roasted in the normal way.

H-A-G coffee is available in 3 forms, Beans, Ground and Instant.

Liberal samples of Ground or Instant will be sent free and post free to any Doctors applying to:

This is what we call practising medicine.

A career in Naval medicine can be a rewarding experience. Opportunities to specialise abound. And perhaps above all else, there is an immense satisfaction to be gained from the wide variety of work you will be involved in.

At sea, for instance, you could be anywhere from the Mediterranean to the Pacific Ocean. Looking after the health and well being of the company of a modern warship.

And though you could spend as long as the first twelve months of your five year Short Service Commission on board different ships, you need have no fear of losing contact with mainstream medicine. For no matter where you are, you will be kept informed of current medical opinion.

After this, the choice is yours. Post graduate medical training and a career in the clinical disciplines at one of our naval district general hospitals. Haslar or Plymouth, for instance, with their wide spectrum of clinical material drawn from naval personnel, their dependants and the local civilian population as well. There are also naval hospitals in Malta and Gibraltar with opportunities for exchange appointments elsewhere.

Or you might prefer occupational medicine in our research orientated naval dockyards. Aviation medicine with its accent on rotary wing support of the Fleet. And for those with an administrative turn of mind, community medicine.

Royal Naval expertise in maritime medicine is recognised world wide and research into underwater medicine, nuclear medicine and the closed submarine environment is centred at the Institute of Naval Medicine at Alverstoke.

Naval general practice in well staffed and equipped medical centres extend as far afield as Malta and Hong Kong. And new training schemes are now under way in the United Kingdom.

Should you be moved or sent abroad at any time, all expenses will be paid by us. We will help you with accommodation (at very reasonable rents) and provide allowances for the education of your children, if you have a family.

If you enter the Royal Navy immediately after registration you will be given the rank of Surgeon Lieutenant and a salary of £5,997, rising to £6,716 after four years.

On the other hand, if you are older (up to the age of 39) and more experienced, we can offer you a number of opportunities in general practice and the specialities. And, depending on your post-registration experience, you could enter as a Surgeon Lieutenant Commander at a salary of £8,015.

Then, at the end of your five year Short Service Commission you could leave with a tax free gratuity of £3,000.

But if it is mutually agreeable, you could apply for a Full Career Commission or a 16 year pensionable commission. The choice is yours.

In the meantime if you would like further information, write giving details of your age and qualifications to

Surgeon Commander L.C. Banks, R.N.,

Director General (Naval),

BOC Roberts Venous Flow Stimulator tackles the problem of d.v.t. where it starts

Every patient undergoing surgery is at risk from deep vein thrombosis. According to the Registrar General's reports, the incidence of death from d.v.t. - induced post-operative pulmonary embolism, is steeply rising.

It has been demonstrated* that the occurrence of deep vein thrombosis can be dramatically reduced by the application of intermittent calf compression per-operatively to prevent venous stasis. This procedure is, however, successful only when the pressure cycle conforms to blood flow dynamics. Critical considerations are:

- The duration and magnitude of the applied pressure.
- The timing of the pressure cycle to give vessels the optimum time to refill between compression phases.

Only the BOC Roberts Venous Flow Stimulator meets these criteria precisely and automatically. Clinical trials indicate that the apparatus can eliminate over 75% of cases of post-operative d.v.t. without the need for chemical intervention.

If you would like to know more about this equipment, please write or telephone us at the address below.

Your heart risk patients may find it hard to give up smoking, boring to take more exercise, and depressing to stick to a diet.

But they'll find they like Flora.

Many authorities throughout the world are in no doubt that a causative relationship exists between a raised blood cholesterol level and coronary atherosclerosis.^{1,2}

Therefore, to lower blood cholesterol is a sound objective in the management of the patient. This can be achieved by reducing the intake of saturated fats in the diet and by partial substitution by polyunsaturated fats.^{3,4,5}

Flora is higher in polyunsaturated fats than any other leading margarine,* and is low in saturated fats. It is an effective, easy and palatable component of a lipid lowering diet.^{6,7}

For the patient with coronary heart disease the recommendation of Flora margarine is logical, clinical advice.

If you would like further information about Flora margarine and recipes in which it may be used by your patients with coronary heart disease, please write to: Flora Information Service, 25 North Row, London W1.

Flora - an essential part of the heart care régime.

Fibre in the Diet: is it only a precaution against constipation?

The medical profession has long accepted fibre in the diet as a prophylactic and therapeutic measure against constipation. But fibre—or lack of it—is now a key factor in much current thinking on other pathological states.

A number of leading gastroenterologists believe that those diets with a low-fibre content, which induce constipation, may also eventually lead to other diseases: diverticulosis, cancer of the colon, haemorrhoids in pregnancy and ischaemic heart disease.

Certainly more evidence will be needed to support their hypotheses before they can be regarded as conclusive, but it is now widely accepted by those who subscribe to them, that a daily intake of 2–3 grammes of cereal fibre is a reasonable precaution.

Kellogg's All-Bran provides dietary fibre in palatable form; it can be enjoyed as a breakfast cereal or as a cooking ingredient; it is not habit forming; and a 1–2 oz. serving a day will raise the dietary fibre intake to a satisfactory level and can safely be prescribed for the treatment of constipation for those with a low-residue diet and as an aid to the digestion of any normal person.

If you would like further details, please send for Kellogg's 'Significance of Fibre in the Diet'.

Its sections include: 'The Composition and Milling of Wheat'; 'Processing and Composition and Nutritive Value of Kellogg's Products'; 'Diet and Disease' and a full bibliography.

APPOINTMENTS

Applicants for medical appointments are advised to check whether the post advertised is included in the Important Notice and to scrutinise carefully the remuneration and terms of service offered. Any member who is in doubt about these terms in relation to B.M.A. agreements should consult the Secretary of the Association.

Advertisers are reminded that the Race Relations Board insists that no descriptive term implying racial, national, or ethnic characteristics may be used in any advertisement. Further, readers are advised not to apply for any appointment which discriminates between applicants on grounds of creed or sex.

HOSPITAL APPOINTMENTS

Applicants should state names, address, age, nationality, and qualifications, and enclose (unless otherwise specified) one copy of each of three recent testimonials, with a short statement of experience and appointments held. Applications should be sent at once if no closing date is given: Canvassing disqualifies (Statutory Instrument, 1974, No. 361).

All National Health Service hospital appointments are in accordance with the Terms and Conditions of Service of Hospital Medical Staff.

Further details concerning standards of residential accommodation, telephone charges, removal allowances, study leave and other matters should be obtained from the Hospital Secretary; or by B.M.A. members from the Secretary, British Medical Association.

In particular, they will find full details of facilities provided in most hospitals in the United Kingdom in the current edition of the Hospital Gazetteer. If such details are not included members are advised to consult the Secretary of the B.M.A.

Applicants requiring hospital married accommodation are strongly advised to obtain, prior to interview, clarification in writing from the employing authority as to whether such accommodation will be available on appointment.

No advertisement may stipulate that a non-resident must live less than 10 miles from a hospital. Advertisements for post-registration house officers, senior house officers and registrars should state clearly whether the post is resident, i.e. compulsorily resident.

In all advertisements grade should be clearly indicated. Normally a consultant vacancy must be advertised as (a) part-time with the number of sessions clearly stated, or (b) whole-time with the option of maximum part-time.

In the view of the BMA, an advertiser should not insist on possession of English higher qualifications in preference to Scottish or Irish qualifications (or vice versa).

The menopause is a 'natural' occurrence for almost every woman, and it is dreaded by most because of the unpleasant symptoms that so often accompany it.

These symptoms can range far beyond the usual hot flushes and nocturnal sweating to include such problems as insomnia, irritability and depression. And they can all, totally or in part, be attributed to the failure of the adrenal cortex to respond quickly enough to the dramatic decline in ovarian oestrone output during the climacteric.

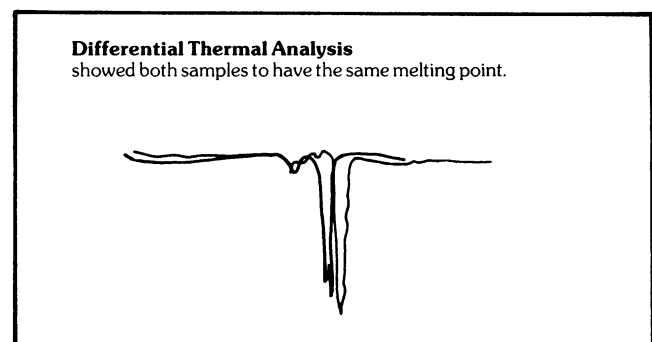

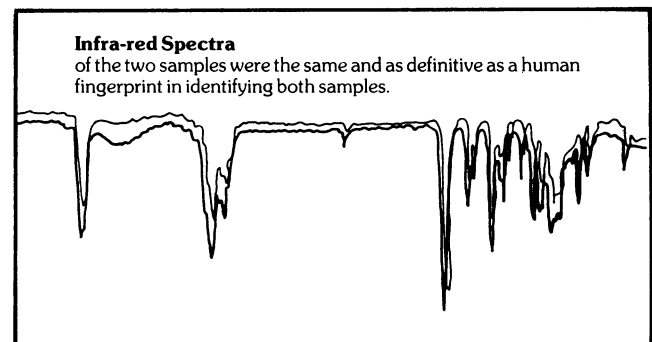

Few doctors these days would disagree with the need to alleviate these symptoms by partial oestrogen replacement therapy, until such times as the adrenal cortex catches up.

Oestrogen replacement therapy has, of course, been practised for some time using Conjugated Oestrogens and Esterified Oestrogens. Both are derived from a 'natural' source—pregnant mares' urine—and apart from varying quantities of sodium oestrone sulphate also contain a high percentage of sodium equiline sulphate (a more potent equine hormone) and can also contain other unspecified oestrogens.

Ideally, you would wish to put back exactly what the body has been producing naturally—and nothing more. Harmogen has been formulated to do just that. The oestrone in Harmogen is pharmacologically identical to human oestrone. Only a small amount of piperazine has been added as a stabiliser, but this is pharmacologically insignificant and separates from the conjugate on ingestion.

In a recent series of highly sensitive tests, comparing the oestrone in Harmogen with human oestrone, the results confirmed unequivocally that the two were identical.

- oestrone provided in medication
- oestrone produced in humans
