■ So often the only prescription needed

You're called out in the middle of the night. The child has violent earache. She's terrified. And she's crying. And her parent's are at their wits' end. They are all concerned with only one thing — for you to stop the pain. But you know that to cure the symptoms, you have to attack the organisms that cause the infection. And you have to do it quickly — first time if possible.

Penbritin is the answer. In treating otitis media, slow or inadequate response can lead to dangerous complications, but Penbritin minimises this risk with its extremely broad spectrum of activity and bactericidal action. There are other broad spectrum antibiotics active against the organisms that cause otitis media, but they merely inhibit bacterial growth. And often the after effects of these antibiotics can be undesirable. Penbritin kills bacteria and does it with the safety of a penicillin.

The pleasant taste of Penbritin Syrup also ensures that children will happily take the full prescribed course of treatment, even after the pain has stopped.

In the treatment of otitis media, Penbritin is the answer. And so often the only prescription needed.

Availability: Penbritin (ampicillin B.P.): Paediatric Tablets containing 125 mg.; Capsules, 250 and 500 mg.; Syrup, 125 mg./5 ml.; Syrup Forte, 250 mg./5 ml.; Injections, 100 mg., 250 mg., 500 mg.

"... any facet of the patient's behaviour could improve, even those which one might consider as 'ingrained habit problems'."

"The manufacturer's claims that this drug is a potent neuroleptic are justified."

"Most remarkable is its often surprising effect on the patient's subjective condition, an effect which is most unusual in drugs of the phenothiazine group."

"The side-effects were rare and slight and its acute toxicity seems to be low."

selectively improves blood flow in the skin

Strain-gauge plethysmography is one of several techniques for evaluating blood flow in limbs. These tracings were produced using this technique: the steepness of the slopes of the tracing is representative of blood volume. In this instance the patient suffered from Raynaud's phenomenon in both hands. The tracing above shows blood flow in the finger before treatment, and that below after treatment with OPILON (thymoxamine). The dramatic increase in blood flow is as much as fifteen times.

Opilon is a specific alpha adrenergic blocking agent and its action is confined almost entirely to the periphery. Clinical evidence such as that described above, shows its beneficial influence on blood flow in the skin and superficial tissues. Opilon is not related to the nicotinic acid derivatives and unlike the beta adrenergic drugs, such as isoxuprine, does not affect cardiac rhythm.

Opilon is indicated where peripheral ischaemia is evident, such as Raynaud's phenomenon, chilblains, Ménière's syndrome, acrocyanosis and excessively cold hands and feet. Opilon may also be used to maintain nutrition of the skin, important in many occlusive peripheral disorders.

Tablets of 40 mg thymoxamine in bottles of 50 and 250.

For these and other coronary patients 'Atromid'-S 500 has become an established part of treatment. Over 10,000 such patients in the United Kingdom alone are now being treated with 'Atromid'-S.

Extensive long-term trials have demonstrated a marked reduction in serum lipids and correction of thrombogenic abnormalities. 'Atromid'-S has also produced marked reduction of xanthomata and of the hard waxy deposits in exudative diabetic retinopathy. Treatment with 'Atromid'-S is extremely safe since side effects are minimal and infrequent.

The new 500 mg. capsule adds considerably to the ease of administration.

VARICOSITY?

She'll willingly take your advice if it means wearing fashionable Burson Lightweights

A woman's psychological need for fashion often makes her reluctant to accept your advice to wear elastic stockings. Burson Lightweights have been specially created to provide the answer.

Undetectable in wear, they are truly acceptable to the most fashion-conscious woman—yet are completely effective in relieving the pain and discomfort of a mild varicose condition and are approved by the N.H.S.

Made of alternating strands of strong, supple elastic with strands of sheer nylon, Burson Lightweights combine strength and resilience with stretch in both directions. Horizontal stretch eases the pressure of distended veins; vertical stretch aids the natural flow of blood back to the heart. Available under N.H.S. (on the EC 10 form) in six normal stocking sizes scientifically adjusted to fit all leg shapes, they come in a pleasing shade.

Thus, in specifying Burson Lightweights when prescribing for mild varicosity, you will ensure your patient's relief from discomfort—whilst preserving her confidence and femininity.

Trade Mark

A double-blind comparison of Ferrodic with ferrous sulphate, both preparations containing 50 mg of ferrous iron and 12.5 mg ascorbic acid, in the treatment of iron-deficiency anaemia, showed that exactly equivalent haematinic effects were obtained with the two drugs. However, 'not only did Ferrodic cause side effects in a significantly smaller proportion of patients than ferrous sulphate, but the severity of such side effects was also significantly less with Ferrodic'.

(Practitioner, 1967, 198, 848)

A very similar double-blind, clinical comparison of Ferrodic and ferrous sulphate has recently been published. The Author's purpose was to confirm the haematinic effectiveness and low incidence of side effects of Ferrodic, in view of its palatability and relative freedom from toxicity. The results again showed Ferrodic to have an equivalent haematinic effect to that of ferrous sulphate but 'side effects occurred in a significantly higher proportion of subjects who received ferrous sulphate'.

(J. Therap. and Clin. Res., 1967, 1, 4.)

a good day's work demands a good night's sleep

Progress brings a growing complexity to everyday life; the once simple task becomes sophisticated and arduous; the day's work calls for increasing skill and concentration – and, at bedtime, people find it harder to 'unwind' . . . they find it difficult to get off to sleep or just don't sleep well.

Melsed is highly suitable for such people. It is a non-barbiturate hypnotic which will induce from six to eight hours of sleep – restful sleep, closely resembling the natural pattern. There is no initial phase of excitation after taking Melsed, and no residual drowsiness upon awakening. Cumulative effects are very unlikely at normal dosage, and there is a comfortably wide margin between therapeutic and toxic doses. Melsed is methaqualone, in capsules of 250 mg.

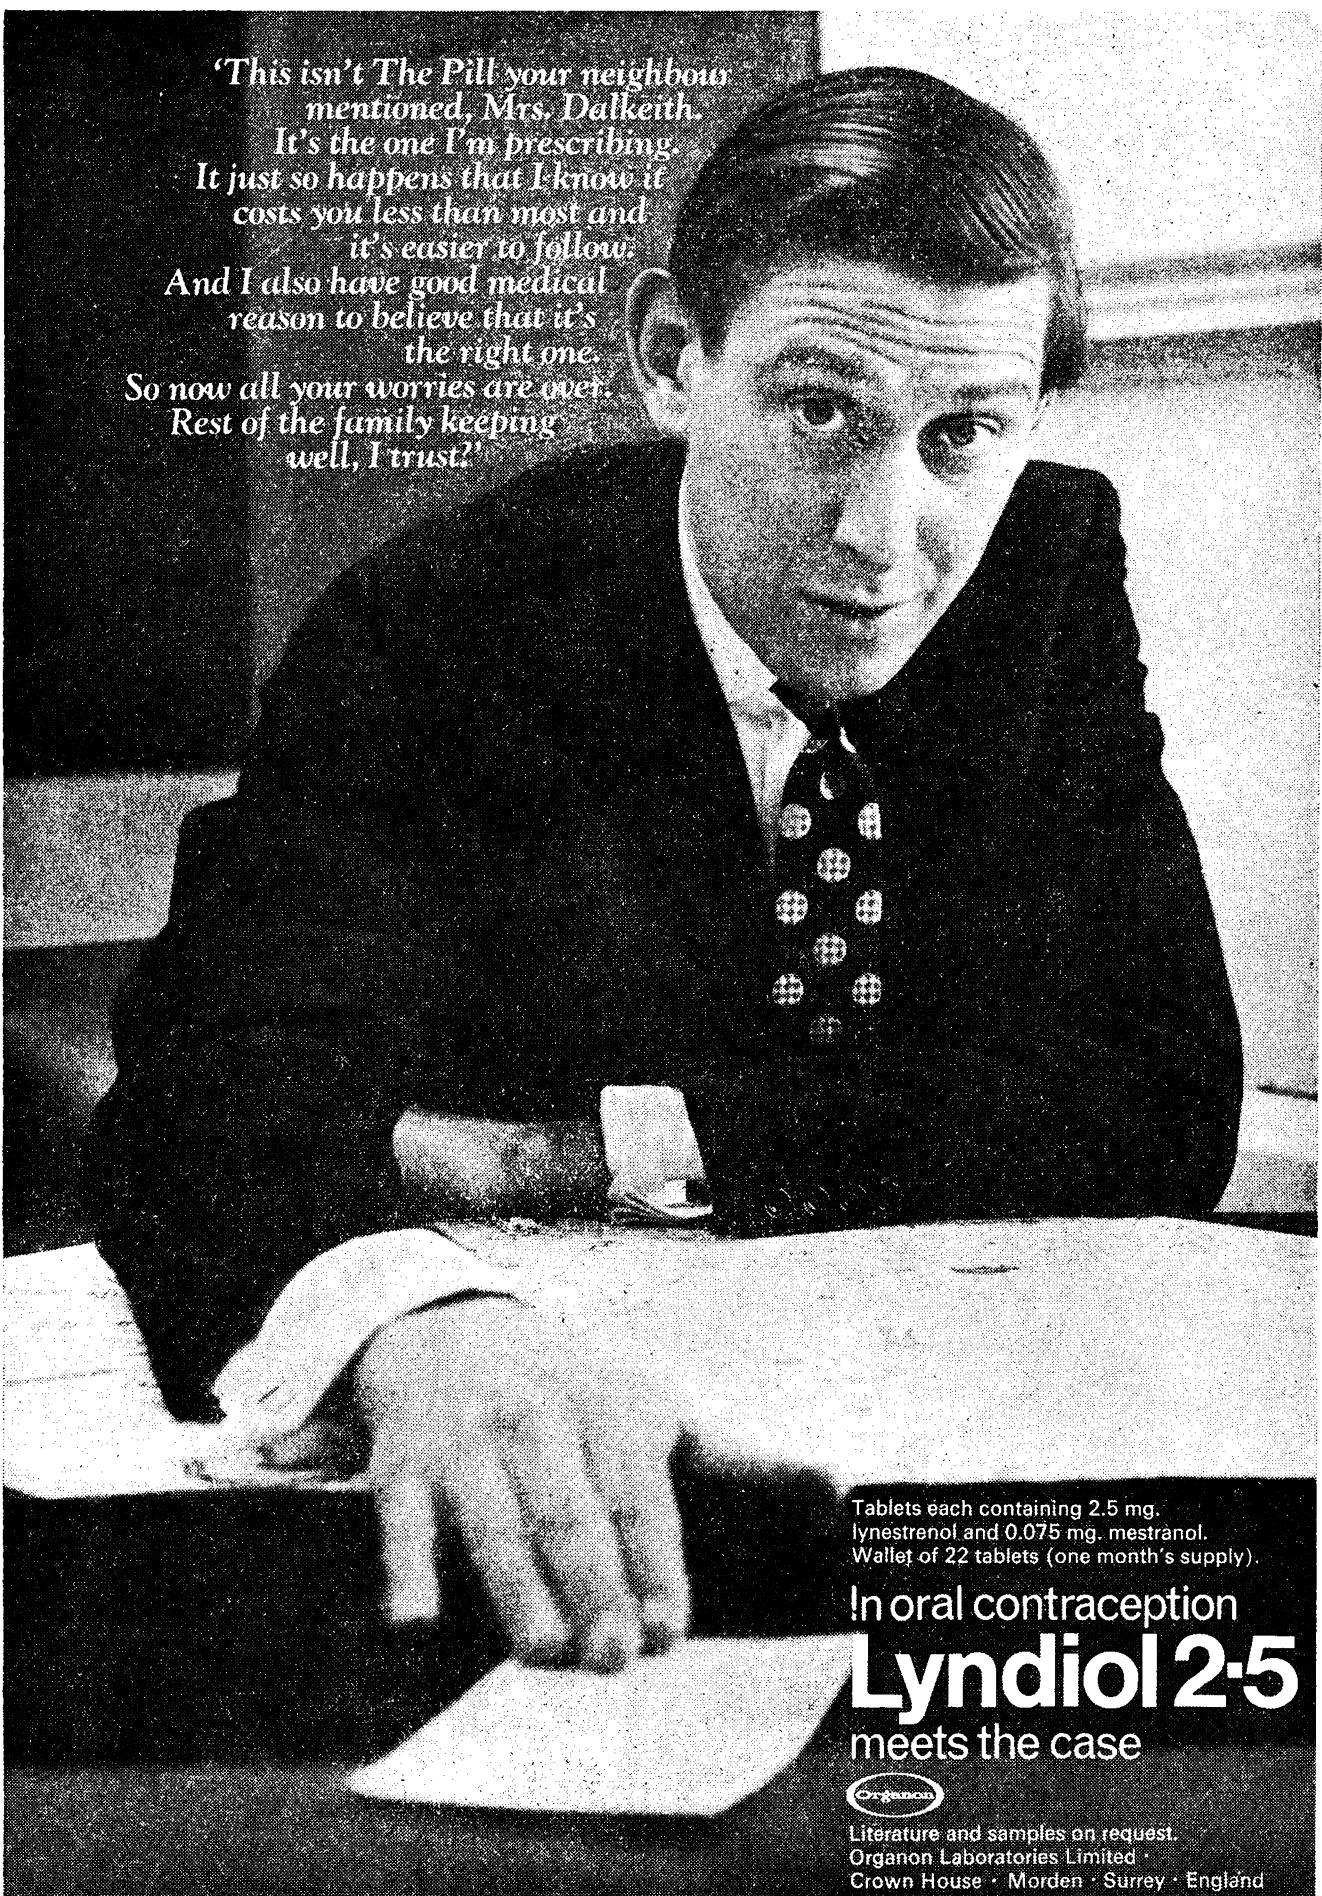

Melsed meets the demand!

'Anxiety is frequently intermingled with depression ...'

Clin. Trials J., 1965, 2, 317 (Nov)

When symptoms of anxiety and depression co-exist, the anxiety is usually easy to recognise, but the depressive state is often less obvious.

In anxiety-depressive conditions, 'Tryptizol', a well-established antidepressant with an intrinsic tranquillising action, has proved of considerable value. In many cases, the patient becomes calmer, mood is lifted, and sleep and appetite improve.

bethanidine sulphate

A recent 2½-year study¹ has confirmed that 'Esbatal' (bethanidine sulphate) provides a more acceptable form of therapy for the patient than other antihypertensive drugs in current use. Control of blood pressure was achieved with 'Esbatal' in about three-quarters of the hypertensive patients treated—and side-effects were rare.¹ In comparing 'Esbatal' with guanethidine and methyldopa the authors considered that 'Esbatal' was to be preferred for beginning treatment in any new hypertensive patient.¹ Better acceptance of 'Esbatal' by the patient, again compared with guanethidine and methyldopa, was also demonstrated in another trial where 'Esbatal' scored the highest rating for patient preference.²

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

Influenza - the changed situation

The appearance in the Far East of a new strain of influenza virus (A2/Hong Kong/1/68) must have a radical effect on 1968/69 immunisation programmes. It has been reported that, although strains of the new virus cross-react to some extent with previous A2 strains, they show a marked antigenic change.

The U.S. Public Health Service reports that "Low levels of antibodies against the current strain (A2/Hong Kong/68) can be demonstrated in the sera of the persons who had documented influenza during the past influenza epidemic. Similar observations have been made in groups of persons vaccinated with the currently available commercial vaccines. Current vaccines may provide only limited protection against A2/Hong Kong/68. Better protection against A2/Hong Kong/68 will require a newly formulated vaccine." (Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Report, 17, 35.) In effect, this means that people in this country will have no natural immunity against the new strain. The report also recommends that special risk patients should be protected against previous strains as soon as possible, and that they should be re-vaccinated with a monovalent vaccine containing the new strain directly this becomes available.

ADMUNE-AQ (of which ample supplies are already available) is formulated to protect against the strains previously encountered in Great Britain. The first part of the recommended immunisation programme can therefore be carried out now.

For the second recommended stage we are producing a monovalent vaccine containing 7,000 H.A. units of A2/Hong Kong/1/68. This new vaccine will be called ADMUNE-MONO 68.

There are reports that the new Hong Kong strain has already appeared in Japan and the Philippines and there is an obvious risk that it may appear in this country. Members of the Medical Profession will be notified as soon as supplies of ADMUNE-MONO 68 become available, so that the second part of the immunisation programme can be carried out.

An aid to oral hygiene

Maintenance of oral hygiene during the post-operative period, especially among geriatric patients, is obviously essential. But at the same time this can prove to be somewhat time-consuming for the nursing staff.

However, recent experience in a London hospital has shown that the patient can help to provide his own nursing care, with the minimum of effort.

This experience covers patients who are fed intravenously and post-operative cases who find normal eating and drinking difficult. These patients often exhibit signs of mouth infection very quickly, and treatment for this can often cause considerable discomfort.

A more pleasant treatment is possible in many cases, for it has been found that giving the patient chewing gum promotes salivary gland activity. Patients are encouraged to chew gum at two-hourly periods, and this treatment frequently allays the symptoms and produces a considerable improvement in the condition of the tongue and mucosa. Quite striking results have been noted after carrying out this treatment for a 24-hour period.
