

Why upper respiratory infections are Penbritin Territory

Penbritin offers you broad-spectrum activity with the safety of a penicillin. This extra activity is useful because certain Gram-negative organisms, for example H. influenzae, are beyond the range of traditional penicillins and may prove troublesome.

Unlike some broad-spectrums such as tetracyclines which merely inhibit organisms, Penbritin destroys bacteria and minimises the risk of relapse or complications. Also many respiratory bacteria have now become resistant to the tetracyclines. No such problem has arisen with Penbritin after more than eight years of clinical use.

Toxicity and side-effects (such as tooth staining) are further factors which limit the usefulness of some antibiotics. However, Penbritin is a penicillin and can confidently be prescribed for children, for neonates and in pregnancy. More than 1,600 published references have demonstrated its lack of toxicity for all age-groups.

Penbritin is available in highly acceptable presentations – capsules, tablets and syrups. This acceptability encourages patients to finish the prescribed course of treatment, even when the symptoms have gone.

For many hypertensive patients, 'Hydromet' may be the most convenient treatment. 'Hydromet' contains both methyldopa and hydrochlorothiazide, a combination already widely used in this country for the treatment of hypertension.

'Hydromet' offers the patient these advantages:

- the convenience of a single tablet
- satisfactory control of blood pressure usually possible on a lower dosage of methyldopa
- in some severe and resistant cases, a greater antihypertensive response than with methyldopa alone
- the diuretic action of hydrochlorothiazide, of additional value when hypertension is complicated by heart failure and oedema

Molecular roulette is not Duphar's game

Duphar research aims solely at the development of original molecular structures which represent therapeutic advances. Before we develop any product we must be assured that it will fill a definite gap in the therapeutic armamentarium. By adhering to this policy Duphar have succeeded in making their contributions to four carefully selected fields of medicine—gastroenterology, obstetrics and gynaecology, cardiovascular and respiratory pathology. In these areas we have acquired depth of knowledge and expertise—and it is to these areas that we will continue to devote the major part of our resources.

An aid to oral hygiene

Maintenance of oral hygiene during the post-operative period, especially among geriatric patients, is obviously essential. But at the same time this can prove to be somewhat time-consuming for the nursing staff.

However, recent experience in a London hospital has shown that the patient can help to provide his own nursing care, with the minimum of effort.

This experience covers patients who are fed intravenously and post-operative cases who find normal eating and drinking difficult. These patients often exhibit signs of mouth infection very quickly, and treatment for this can often cause considerable discomfort.

A more pleasant treatment is possible in many cases, for it has been found that giving the patient chewing gum promotes salivary gland activity. Patients are encouraged to chew gum at two-hourly periods, and this treatment frequently allays the symptoms and produces a considerable improvement in the condition of the tongue and mucosa. Quite striking results have been noted after carrying out this treatment for a 24-hour period.

Clinimycin Syrup is the ideal way of giving oxytetracycline to the very young and the elderly patients. The syrup has a pleasant fruit flavour and provides a uniform suspension which ensures accurate dosage every time. Clinimycin is one of the least expensive oxytetracycline syrups and its orange colour makes it readily identifiable. Quite a few good reasons for remembering Clinimycin Syrup when prescribing for your very young and elderly patients. Of course, if you feel that tablets are the answer, Clinimycin tablets are still among the smallest and least expensive of oxytetracycline tablets available.

A Doctor in the RAMC enjoys the best features of two professions— wide clinical experience and the rewarding life of an Army Officer.

IT TAKES a long, long period of intensive (and expensive) teaching to turn a medical student into a Doctor. Then, as far as Society is concerned, it's up to the Doctor to justify his training.

As far as the Doctor is concerned, of course, it's hardly as simple as that. First of all, he has his medical ambitions to consider. Does he want to be a General Practitioner? Does he want to specialise? What are the chances of his doing what he really wants to do? And second, he has—very reasonably—to consider his private life. Will he be able to afford to get married? To have children? To have a decent house to live in, and decent holidays to recharge his batteries?

Good medicine—and a good life

If he answers these questions in the context of service in the RAMC, he will discover some good reasons for considering practising his medicine in the Army. To serve for three or five years will give him varied clinical experience, and the chance to make up his mind if he wants to make his career in the Army.

Among the medical reasons is the close integration of all aspects of medical care—preventive medicine, general and hospital practice—with surgeries organised by groups, and supported by hospitals. Medical Officers can personally follow up the cases of patients admitted to hospital. Surgeries are very well equipped—and are, of course, financed by the Army, not by the Doctor. The Army also provides a trained staff for each surgery; an RAMC Medical Officer's wife does not have to do any secretarial chores.

Then, take the personal reasons. The Army helps Medical Officers with families in many ways. Most are provided with furnished houses at low rents. There are all sorts of allowances: for marriage; for educating children at boarding school in Britain (not taxable while the parents are stationed abroad); for moving house; for living abroad, and others. There is the companionship and community spirit of Army life. And there is six weeks' paid annual leave with no need to provide a locum.

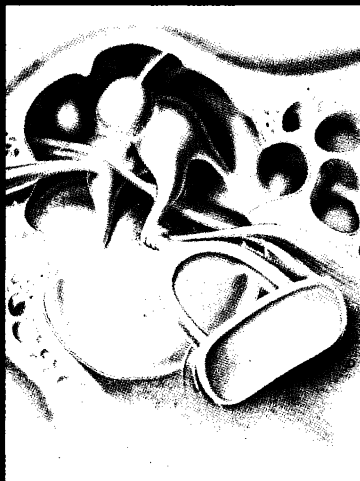

£3,000 tax-free after 5 years

The RAMC needs both Regular and Short Service Officers. Normally, to be a specialist, a Doctor has to become a Regular Officer; the Army pays for all his post-graduate training, and though it's no easier to rise to a Consultancy in the RAMC than in civilian life, RAMC specialists tend to do very well. Approximately 36% of all Officers do in fact specialise. GPs can be Regular or Short Service; and 3 or 5 years as a Short Service GP in the Army is something every young Doctor should consider seriously. In that time, he will have a good chance of travel; be well paid and housed; and leave with a useful tax-free gratuity (£1,500 after 3 years—£3,000 after 5) to help start him off in his civilian practice.

For doctors who prefer, there is now a Special Regular Commission to complete 16 years' service (which may be extended or lead to a Permanent Commission). Some former service may be reckonable. Promotion, pay and allowances are the same as for Permanent Officers, as is retired pay and terminal grant for Officers of equivalent rank and service. Specialist training will be according to Service requirements in the specialty applied for.

For further information about Regular or Short Service Commissions in the RAMC, or to arrange a visit to see RAMC Officers at work, write to: Colonel E. L. O. Hood, MB, Ministry of Defence (AMD2), Dept. 996, Lansdowne House, Berkeley Square, London, W1X 6AA

Women Doctors

Thinking of returning to practise?

Hospital work can offer you special advantages.

You may not have been in active practice for a while for family or other reasons. You may be thinking of taking up professional work again, either now or within a year or so.

The hospital service can offer you very real advantages besides providing refresher training for doctors intending to take up or return to hospital posts. Hospitals realise that women doctors with personal or family commitments will wish to undertake part-time rather than full-time work, and will try their best to arrange this. Some hospitals can provide married accommodation and day-care for young children.

If you are interested, now or for the future, please write to the Senior Administrative Medical Officer at the Regional Hospital Board, who would like to know what sort of work you would like to do and your qualifications. You can get the address from the Secretary of your local hospital.

FULL ANTISPASMODIC EFFECT FROM PRACTICAL
DOSE OF EPHEDRINE-PLEASANTLY FLAVOURED

FOR asthma and bronchitis

TESTS show that 2-Diethylaminoethyl- α -phenylbutyrate Citrate has a more pronounced bronchodilatory effect than ephedrine. Three parts of 2-Diethylaminoethyl- α -phenylbutyrate Citrate producing the same effect as 5 parts of ephedrine. It acts more rapidly than ephedrine, reaches maximum effect somewhat later and falls away at a slightly slower rate. With a mixture of the substances the curve of bronchial dilation showed that the effect produced was considerably greater than when double the quantity of each substance was administered separately.

4 mg. OF THE MIXED SUBSTANCES

simplify the prescribing problem in oral contraception

'Simplicity for the patient' has long been a watchword in the development of oral contraceptives. Now we can add 'simplicity for the doctor' – because with Orlest/Norlestrin you can reduce the choice of an oral contraceptive to its most basic form. If your initial assessment suggests that the woman has a too progestogenic hormone pattern, Orlest will tend to correct the balance. The too oestrogenic woman will respond best to Norlestrin.

Of course, simplicity for the patient has also been a prime consideration in formulating these twin contraceptive formulae. Norlestrin is designed to be taken in the well-known 3 weeks on, one week off pattern; while Orlest is presented as a full four-week regimen with seven inert tablets following the 21 active ones.

Norlestrin 21 tablets each containing norethisterone acetate 2.5 mg. and ethinyl oestradiol 0.05 mg.

Orlest 28 tablets, 21 each containing norethisterone acetate 1 mg. with ethinyl oestradiol 0.05 mg., and the remaining 7 tablets inert. Full information is available on request.

Sustanon makes a man a man again

in body and in mind

When gonadal activity is inadequate the young or middle-aged male may demonstrate diminished genital structure, and response, to the point of impotence. Understandably the repercussions reach far beyond the purely physical – often playing havoc with the patient's psyche, marriage and career.

Every physician knows how complex is diagnosis of the condition, with the patient frequently hiding the facts not only from his doctor but from himself. Even when the diagnosis is established, therapy is not straightforward and many factors must be considered. Nevertheless with Sustanon a clear, early and sustained response may occur at all levels, physical, mental, and emotional.

Sustanon is preferable to testosterone propionate as of course no single testosterone ester provides both lengthy activity and rapid onset of action. This Sustanon does. Its prolonged activity is such that only an occasional injection is needed to maintain the required therapeutic level.

Sustanon '100'

2 weeks' activity – contains 100mg testosterone per ml:

Testosterone Propionate B.P. 20mg
Testosterone Phenylpropionate B.P. 40mg

The incident recreated here is taken from an actual report of the results achieved with Brufen. Many such reports about Brufen have been received, and provide convincing evidence of the very real benefits which this highly effective antirheumatic agent can bring to the arthritic. To those restricted by an arthritic condition, Brufen means the freedom of reduced stiffness, improved joint flexion and an extended range of pain-free movement. There is also a remarkable freedom from adverse effects, and Brufen is so well tolerated by the gastro-intestinal tract that the first dose of each day can be taken on an empty stomach, as soon as the patient is awake.

Now offensive waste need no longer cause distress

The Comex Unit is designed for sufferers from complaints such as ileostomy, paralysis & mental retardation

The basic Comex Unit (illustrated) is a wholly expendable sanitary disposal unit.

Its advantages are:—

1. The Unit is a convenient size and shape.
2. The Unit, when full, can easily be carried by a lady.
3. The interior is pre-treated with a disinfectant. In addition, each time the lid is closed a plastic dispenser releases a measured amount of disinfectant on to the contents. All waste is thus impregnated with a concentrated disinfectant which is not acid and is harmless to skin and clothes. Development of germs, bacteria and unpleasant odours is thereby prevented.
4. The size is adequate for 4 weeks use without loss of efficiency.
5. The contents, once placed inside, are not visible.
6. When full, the Unit is sealed and disposed of through the normal household refuse collection.

Modifications of the basic Comex Unit are available for different complaints. Our trained staff will gladly discuss your problem without obligation; the Canman Advisory Panel is always available to consider and make recommendations on new applications of Comex Units. FOR FURTHER DETAILS PLEASE CONTACT:—

ANTIBIOTICS AND THE INTESTINAL FLORA

Treatment with broad spectrum antibiotics suppresses the normal flora, which may be replaced by abnormal resistant organisms causing diarrhoea.

This change can be prevented or reversed by the implantation of Lactobacillus acidophilus which has been rendered antibiotic-resistant, and is thus able to multiply freely under these abnormal conditions. The products of growth of the organism are inimical to that of many other bacteria^{1, 2} and thus contribute to its rapid preponderance over other species.

Oral treatment with antibiotic-resistant L. acidophilus in the form of ENPAC has been shown to eliminate Candida from the faeces of infants with antibiotic-induced diarrhoea, with relief of symptoms succeeded by rapid gain in weight^{3, 4} and greatly to reduce the numbers of staphylococci in the faeces of patients treated with tetracyclines.⁵

Pyopen destroys

Pseudomonas pyocyanea

The photo-electron micrographs (7,500 x) show cells of Pseudomonas pyocyanea (aeruginosa) before and after overnight exposure to 50 µg/ml Pyopen (carbenicillin), demonstrating the formation of the aberrant 'long' form.

Proteus species

The photographs show the bactericidal action of Pyopen on cells of Proteus rettgeri (x 7,500: overnight exposure to 20 µg/ml). Pyopen destroys other Proteus species, Proteus morganii, Proteus vulgaris and Proteus mirabilis in the same way.

Clinical activity against these refractory Gram-negative organisms, coupled with the characteristic safety of a penicillin, makes Pyopen unique among antibiotics.

Full information on Pyopen is available on request.

Beecham

Our discovery and development of the semi-synthetic penicillins has given us an international reputation. World wide sales have provided revenue for increased research which has broadened our pharmaceutical interests both in antibiotics and other medicines.

We now have three widely different opportunities for registered medical practitioners. All of them demand men with active minds and well developed skills in achieving things through others. Each require people who welcome change and want to influence it.

Attractive starting salaries will be offered together with a share of the Group's profits and one of the best non-contributory pension and life assurance schemes available.

Medically Qualified Toxicologist, Brockham Park near Dorking

We believe that basic research projects should be undertaken by multi-disciplined teams. Related development activities are merged into a single department embracing, inter alia, a Toxicology and Metabolism unit. There is an opportunity now for a doctor to join us and lead this unit. He will also be responsible for the human pharmacology studies which are part of both the research and development programmes. No age limits are set and the emphasis will be on a man of intellectual weight and fertile imagination. He must have had some research experience and be able to demonstrate that he has the personality to lead, stimulate and co-operate with other scientists. It may be possible for him to develop his own research interests for part of the time.

Industrial Medical Officer Worthing, Sussex

Most of the Division's employees are centred on the factories at Worthing and Crawley and the research establishments between Reigate and Dorking. The post is a new one and will be of interest to a doctor who is interested in the opportunity to undertake research in the field of industrial health with the clear aim of recommending to management such measures as are necessary to minimise risks to factory and laboratory employees. To do this effectively he will also be expected to conduct medical examinations, immunise employees, liaise with general practitioners and supervise nursing and first aid staff and facilities. A doctor in middle life is required who has retained sufficient interest in research to structure and progress diverse investigations. If he has no industrial health experience he will be given an early opportunity to study the activities of other companies and organisations where the service is well developed.

Medical Adviser Brentford, Middlesex

The medical adviser's role includes the assessment of new products, initiation and progression of clinical trials, advising on promotional material and the training of medical representatives. The vacancy exists on that side of the medical department which is concerned with the initial development of pharmaceuticals other than antibiotics. Some home and overseas travel will be involved. A car will be provided. Preference will be given to doctors who are under 40 and who are or could be of registrar status. A higher qualification or experience in pharmacology, physiology or a major clinical speciality would be advantageous. An essential requirement is the ability to work successfully with doctors of all levels within the profession.

Please write briefly, stating the job you are interested in, your qualifications and experience to:
