Protect the new patient from her own forgetfulness.

Lyndiol 2·5 provides contraception from the very first tablet without any reliance upon other contraceptive methods. It has by far the lowest failure rate (0·003 per Hundred Women Years)¹, due in part to the prolonged activity of lynestrenol²: if a patient forgets a tablet she takes it the following day and is still protected. The easily-remembered same-day dosage regimen fortifies the medical advantages of Lyndiol 2·5 and further protects the patient from her own forgetfulness. An extremely low incidence of side-effects³ reinforces the logic of protecting the new patient with Lyndiol 2·5.

Duncan's Diseases of Metabolism

New 6th Edition!

BY PHILIP K. BONDY, MD, Ensign Professor of Medicine, Yale University School of Medicine

Two Volume Set 1413 pages. 594 illustrations. £16 11s. 6d. (single volumes at £8 18s. 6d. each)

The discoveries and gains in the study of metabolism and problems of metabolic diseases have been numerous since the publication of the last edition of this book. This has necessitated an entirely new approach to the field, and contributors to this new edition are, almost without exception, new to this edition.

The present text is designed to give a rational structure upon which studies of the field of metabolic diseases can be organized, and to discuss those diseases of metabolism which are of particular interest because of their frequency or because they are useful in illustrating the meaning of this organizational structure.

In the discussions of the diseases included in the book, the practical information necessary for modern diagnosis and therapy is provided. Enough references are included to permit the reader to determine for himself the nature of the evidence which has led to a given conclusion and to encourage a more extensive study of the subject than can be included in the book itself.

CONTENTS:

Section I. Genetics—Gene Structure and Function: Inborn Errors of Metabolism: Molecular Diseases.

Section II. Intermediary Metabolism—Interrelation of Carbohydrate, Protein and Fat Metabolism: Disorders of Carbohydrate Metabolism: Disorders of Lipid Metabolism: The Sphingolipidoses: Disorders of Amino Acid Metabolism: Disorders of Purine and Pyrimidine Metabolism: Disorders of Porphyrin Metabolism: Disorders of Bilirubin Metabolism: Disorders of Connective Tissue.

The era of the oral cephalosporin has arrived

'Keflex'

cephalexin monohydrate

Keflex[®] multi

cephalexin monohydrate

A broad spectrum for UTI

Clinical reports show that a satisfactory clinical response is obtained in 93% of patients with acute infections and 80% of patients with chronic infections due to frequently encountered urinary pathogens such as E. coli, Proteus mirabilis, and Klebsiella.

K Dosage

The usual adult dose is 250 mg every six hours. For more severe infections or those caused by less susceptible organisms, 500 mg every six hours may be needed. In appropriate cases up to 4G per day may be given.

Precautions Any patient who has demonstrated some form of allergy, particularly to drugs, should receive antibiotics, including cephalixin, cautiously and then only when necessary. If severe reaction, individual idiosyncrasy, or allergy should occur, treatment should be discontinued.

The safety of cephalixin for use in pregnancy has not been established.

In patients being treated with cephalixin, a false positive reaction for glucose in the urine may occur with Benedict's or Fehling's solutions, or with Copper sulphate test tablets.

Adverse Reactions have been infrequent and mild. The most frequent was mild diarrhoea reported in slightly over 2 per cent of 1230 patients studied. Nausea was reported in about 1 per cent. Skin reactions including rash, pruritus, and dermatitis were also reported in 1 per cent of patients. Other side effects reported more rarely have been vomiting, monilial vaginitis, dizziness, headache, and abdominal pain.

Contra-indication 'Keflex' is contra-indicated in persons who have shown hypersensitivity to cephalosporins.

'Keflex' is available in green and white capsules containing 250 mg cephalixin (as the monohydrate). Further information is available on request.

Ell Lilly & Company, Limited, Basingstoke, Hants.

A broad spectrum for bronchitis

In this condition where the infection is frequently of mixed aetiology, 'Keflex' clears purulent sputum and clinical improvement has been shown in over 90% of patients studied. Susceptible organisms include Haemophilus influenzae, Streptococcus pneumoniae, and Staphylococcus aureus.

XXJ1

A broad spectrum for throat and ear infections

The spectrum of 'Keflex' covers the most common pathogens in throat and ear infections, and produced a good clinical response in 97% of infections the majority of which were due to streptococci.

Children, respiratory infections and Penbritin

Penbritin is successful against the wide range of bacteria which may cause tonsillitis, pharyngitis, bronchitis and other respiratory infections.

Penbritin kills the organisms rather than merely inhibiting them, and so minimises the risk of relapse or complications. In paediatrics this is especially important, since a child's natural defences can be inadequate.

Penbritin has all the safety of a penicillin and can be prescribed with confidence for all age groups. It does not stain teeth nor is it deposited in the bones of young children.

Penbritin is available as a pleasant syrup which encourages children to finish the prescribed course.

Full information is available on request.

New oral antibiotic

Ceporex

cephalexin

in acute urinary tract infections, including pyelonephritis,
gives a clinical success rate of over 80%*

Summary

Ceporex, the new cephalosporin antibiotic from Glaxo, is the most completely absorbed oral antibiotic available, and gives very high tissue and urine levels within an hour of administration. In addition Ceporex has other advantages. It kills the gram-negative bacteria responsible for the majority of urinary tract infections, and this, together with its low toxicity, makes it ideally suited to the treatment of acute cystitis, pyelonephritis and other urinary tract infections. It can also be used in patients hypersensitive to the penicillins.

Indications

Gram-positive and gram-negative bacterial infections of the urinary tract, respiratory tract, soft tissues and skin due to susceptible organisms. Acute and chronic pyelonephritis, cystitis, prostatitis and asymptomatic bacteriuria.

Upper respiratory tract infections such as bacterial tonsillitis and pharyngitis. Otitis media and externa, sinusitis and other infections of the ear, nose and throat.

Pneumonia, bronchopneumonia and post-operative chest infections. Bronchitis and bronchiectasis. Furunculitis, erysipelas, cellulitis, abscess, lymphangitis, pyoderma and other skin, wound or soft tissue infections.

Gonorrhoea (when penicillin is unsuitable) Bone and joint infections including osteomyelitis and septic arthritis. Gynaecological and obstetric infections

Temporary replacement of penicillin prophylaxis in patients with rheumatic heart disease whilst undergoing dental treatment.

Administration and Dosage

Ceporex is administered orally. The adult dosage in urinary tract infections: 250 to 500 mg 6-hourly.

Adverse reactions and precautions

A small proportion of patients receiving cephalexin may experience gastro-intestinal disturbances such as nausea, vomiting, anorexia and general abdominal discomfort. As with all broad-spectrum antibiotics, superinfection can occur (often monilial) and sometimes a vulvo-vaginitis. Reversible neutropenia has occurred in a few patients, but is very rare. Generalised drug rashes—urticarial or maculopapular—are uncommon. When renal function is very markedly impaired, Ceporex may accumulate in the serum and tissues, unless the dosage is suitably reduced.

Contra-indications

Cephalexin is contra-indicated in persons who have shown hypersensitivity to cephalosporins.

dramatic disappearance of bronchitis pathogens

'... a combination of trimethoprim and sulphamethoxazole provided effective prophylaxis in chronic bronchitis. It dramatically diminished sputum volume, rendered it mucoid and abolished pathogens.'¹

This combination, available as SEPTRIN*, swiftly eradicates a wide range of organisms including the pathogens common in bronchitis—H. influenzae, Pneumococci and Klebsiella sp.

SEPTRIN has been compared in a trial with ampicillin in treating exacerbations of chronic bronchitis. SEPTRIN produced a significantly greater reduction in sputum volume and of sputum purulence and the trial also showed that SEPTRIN produced a better overall clinical response in the bronchitic patients.²

DOCTOR, WILL PROBABLY SUFFER FROM URINARY FREQUENCY...

It is a statistical fact that urinary frequency, the bane of old age, awaits the majority of us.

"Nocturnal frequency of micturition is present in 64% of the total elderly population (70% of males and 61% of females of 65 years and over)."¹

The results of a recent double-blind crossover trial of Cetiprin suggest that "the drug may alter the established habit of rising at night to pass urine".² Cetiprin blocks the innervation and increases bladder capacity but as frequency of urination may have become established as a habit as well as a physiological weakness, it is wise to persist with treatment for at least 14 to 21 days. Improvement in the patient's condition is manifested by the enjoyment of uninterrupted sleep and a new feeling of physical and mental well-being.

Dosage:

Adults and Geriatric patients:

1. Nightly tenesmus: 100 mg at bedtime. In chronic cases it may be necessary to use 200 mg and reduce the dose when control is established.
2. Urinary frequency and severe incontinence in old people: 100-200 mg three times daily.

Contraindications:

Large residual urine retention; glaucoma; gastric retention. Rarely, dryness of the mouth is an unwanted effect.

New oral antibiotic

Ceporex

cephalexin

for respiratory tract infections gives a clinical success rate over 85% in pneumonia*

Summary

Ceporex, the new cephalosporin antibiotic from Glaxo, is the most completely absorbed oral antibiotic available, and gives very high blood and tissue levels within an hour of administration. In addition Ceporex has other advantages. Its wide range of activity includes most gram-positive organisms, (including penicillin-resistant staphylococci) and most of the gram-negative organisms which can be responsible for respiratory tract disease. Its rapid kill of sensitive bacteria, and low toxicity make Ceporex ideally suited to the treatment of pneumonia and other respiratory tract infections. It can also be used safely in patients hypersensitive to the penicillins.

Indications

Gram-positive and gram-negative bacterial infections of the urinary tract, respiratory tract, soft tissues and skin due to susceptible organisms. Acute and chronic pyelonephritis, cystitis, prostatitis, and asymptomatic bacteriuria.

Upper respiratory tract infections such as bacterial tonsillitis and pharyngitis.

Otitis media and externa, sinusitis and other infections of the ear, nose and throat.

Pneumonia, bronchopneumonia and post-operative chest infections. Bronchitis and bronchiectasis. Furunculitis, erysipelas, cellulitis, abscess, lymphangitis, pyoderma and other skin, wound or soft tissue infections.

Gonorrhoea (when penicillin is unsuitable)

Bone and joint infections including osteomyelitis and septic arthritis.

Gynaecological and obstetric infections.

Temporary replacement of penicillin prophylaxis in patients with rheumatic heart disease whilst undergoing dental treatment.

Administration and Dosage

Ceporex is administered orally. The adult dosage in Pneumonias and bronchopneumonias: 500 mg to 1 g, 6-hourly.

Upper respiratory tract infections: 250 mg 6-hourly.

Adverse reactions and precautions

A small proportion of patients receiving cephalixin may experience gastro-intestinal disturbances such as nausea, vomiting, anorexia and general abdominal discomfort. As with all broad-spectrum antibiotics, superinfection can occur (often monilial) and sometimes a vulvo-vaginitis. Reversible neutropenia has occurred in a few patients, but is very rare. Generalised drug rashes – urticarial or maculopapular are uncommon. When renal function is very markedly impaired, Ceporex may accumulate in the serum and tissues, unless the dosage is suitably reduced.

Patients do like it.

D-VAC Pollens vaccine makes desensitisation a practical proposition for GPs.

Each dose of D-VAC* Pollens is supplied in a unique disposable syringe that automatically, in one injection, delivers first the inert "depot" shield and then the active core containing the twelve grass pollens responsible for over 90 per cent. of cases of classical hay-fever and pollen asthma. The prescription should be for the whole course — and should state when the first injection is to be given (February 9th — March 7th). The three injections will be despatched at four-week intervals to arrive a few days before they are needed. Injections are made to advance order only.

How the Renault 16 fell into shape.

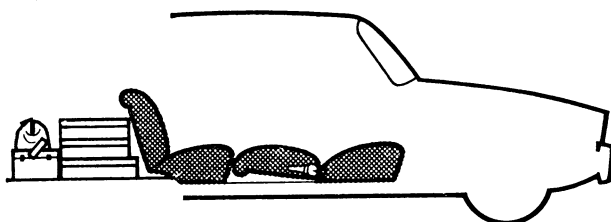

Most people who buy a Renault 16 do a lot of serious motoring. They buy it because it's a good-looking, fast car, but they also need it to be comfortable.

So we decided the 16 ought to have more than ordinarily comfortable seats (reclining front seats for the Grand Luxe and the 16TS). We had them specially designed, and they're perfectly moulded to support you in all the right places.

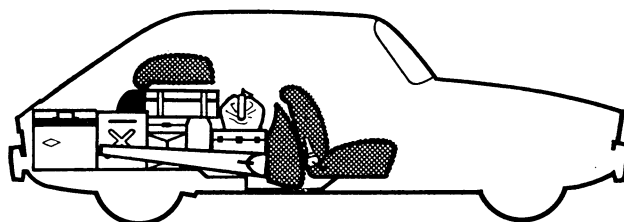

For a speedy car, the Renault 16 is also very sensible. With the front passenger seat in this relaxing position, you'll still have room for all the luggage you need.

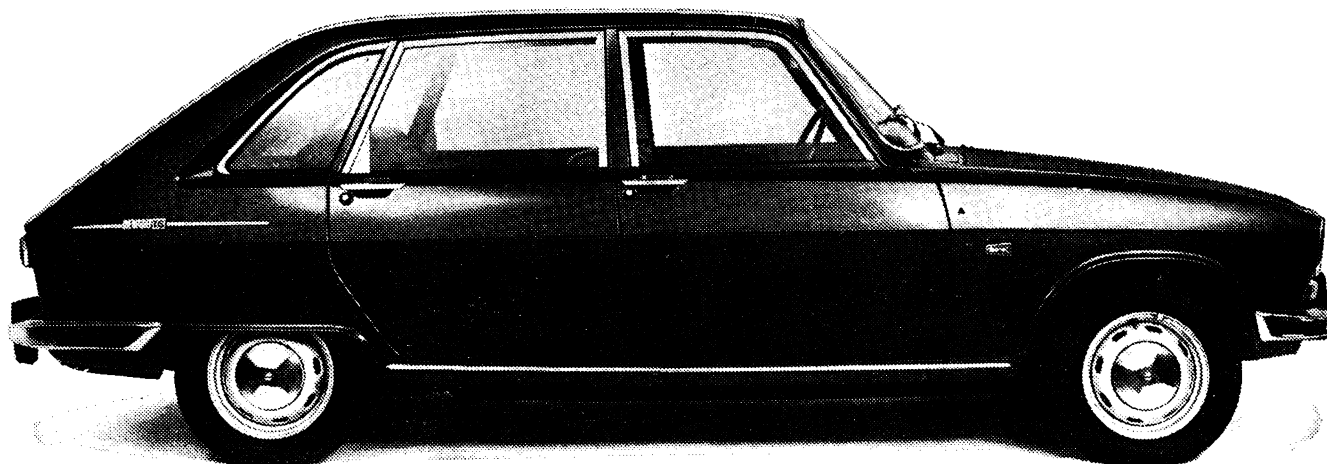

The 16 has a five-bearing, 1½ litre aluminium engine and, of course, front-wheel drive for extra traction and powerful road-holding. And best of all, you'll consistently get around 30 miles to a gallon of petrol.

We didn't forget that people who travel a lot are quite happy to sleep in the car. We think the Renault 16 will make them happier. With the two front seats fully down you'll be able to sleep comfortably. And you won't have to move your luggage either.

For bulky loads, the 16 can give you a staggering amount of space. This way, it's a generous 25½ cu. ft. Radial-ply tyres are standard with the 16, so you'll get better grip and more wear. And with Renault's faultless all-round independent suspension, the 16 smooths out all the lumps and bumps in the worst roads

RENAULT  16

So now you know what goes on inside the Renault 16, take a look at the outside. Beautiful. It's the kind of shape everyone would like to be in. Renault 16 from £970 inc. p.t., ex. works.

New oral antibiotic

cephalexin

in soft tissue infections like cellulitis gives a clinical success rate of over 85%*

Summary

Ceporex, a new cephalosporin antibiotic from Glaxo, is the most completely absorbed oral antibiotic available, and gives very high blood and tissue levels within an hour of administration. In addition Ceporex has other advantages. It is highly effective in skin and soft tissue infections, being equally active against penicillin-sensitive and penicillin-resistant staphylococci and more active against Strep. pyogenes. Gram-negative organisms which may be encountered are also sensitive. Its rapid kill of sensitive bacteria and low toxicity make Ceporex ideally suited to the treatment of skin and soft tissue infections. It can also be used safely in patients hypersensitive to the penicillins.

Indications

Gram-positive and gram-negative bacterial infections of the urinary tract, respiratory tract, soft tissues and skin due to susceptible organisms.

Acute and chronic pyelonephritis, cystitis, prostatitis and asymptomatic bacteriuria.

Upper respiratory tract infections such as bacterial tonsillitis and pharyngitis.

Otitis media and externa, sinusitis and other infections of the ear, nose and throat.

Pneumonia, bronchopneumonia and post-operative chest infections.

Bronchitis and bronchiectasis.

Furunculitis, erysipelas, cellulitis, abscess, lymphangitis, pyoderma and other skin, wound or soft tissue infections.

Gonorrhoea (when penicillin is unsuitable).

Bone and joint infections including osteomyelitis and septic arthritis.

Gynaecological and obstetric infections.

Temporary replacement of penicillin prophylaxis in patients with rheumatic heart disease whilst undergoing dental treatment.

Administration and Dosage

Ceporex is administered orally. The adult dosage in skin and superficial soft tissue infections: 250 to 500 mg 6-hourly.

Adverse reactions and precautions

A small proportion of patients receiving cephalixin may experience gastro-intestinal disturbances such as nausea, vomiting, anorexia and general abdominal discomfort. As with all broad-spectrum antibiotics, superinfection can occur (often monilial) and sometimes a vulvo-vaginitis. Reversible neutropenia has occurred in a few patients, but is very rare. Generalised drug rashes—urticarial or maculopapular—are uncommon. When renal function is very markedly impaired, Ceporex may accumulate in the serum and tissues, unless the dosage is suitably reduced.

Contra-indications

Cephalixin is contra-indicated in persons who have shown hypersensitivity to cephalosporins.

Presentation

Ceporex Capsules 250 mg and 500 mg: vials of 20.

M.Sc. SOCIAL MEDICINE

The next Academic Course leading to the degree of Master of Science in Social Medicine in the Faculty of Medicine of the University of London will start on September 28, 1970, and extend over two calendar years. The Course provides professional training for doctors wishing to specialize in social and community medicine and follow careers in

HEALTH-SERVICES ADMINISTRATION or TEACHING AND RESEARCH

The training has been designed to enable the graduate to participate in the administration of the National Health Service. There is a serious shortage of academic teachers of social medicine which it is also hoped that the course will help to meet.

The Course includes the study of statistics and epidemiology, social and behavioural sciences, the principles of management and social-service planning. It aims to integrate the theoretical and practical aspects of major issues in preventive medicine and medical care. During the second year each student will be attached to an academic or service unit in order to gain some experience in applying the relevant range of skills from epidemiology and operational research.

The Course will be limited to 12 students who must be medically qualified and have had at least three years' clinical experience post-registration.

A number of bursaries at the level of senior registrars' emoluments are available to suitable candidates from the Department of Health and Social Security, and others from the Medical Research Council.

Further details and application forms may be obtained from the Registrar, London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine, Keppel Street (Gower Street), London W.C.1, to whom applications for admission should be addressed before March 1, 1970.

new[®] Alupent[®] Expectorant

Problem: in asthma and chronic bronchitis spasm + sputum = distress for the patient

Now, Alupent[®] = control of spasm and Bisolvon[®] = control of sputum

∴ Alupent + Bisolvon = control of spasm + control of sputum
But Alupent + Bisolvon = New Alupent Expectorant

∴ Alupent Expectorant = dual control of spasm and sputum
Quod Erat Demonstrandum

Composition: Each tablet contains Alupent[®] (orciprenaline sulphate B.P.) 20 mg. and Bisolvon[®] (bromhexine hydrochloride) 8 mg. Each 5 ml. mixture contains Alupent 10 mg. and Bisolvon 4 mg.

Indications: Alupent Expectorant is indicated in conditions in which both bronchospasm and thick, sticky, non-infected sputum are present, e.g. asthma, non-infected phases of chronic bronchitis. During infected episodes a suitable antibiotic should be given in addition to Alupent Expectorant.

Contra-Indications: Alupent: Alupent should not be given to patients with thyrotoxicosis. In view of the known interaction between sympathomimetic amines and mono-amine oxidase inhibitors, care should be exercised if it is proposed to administer an MAO inhibitor concurrently with Alupent.

Bisolvon: No absolute contra-indications but observe caution in the use of Bisolvon in patients with gastric ulceration.

Precautions: When patients under treatment for tuberculosis are receiving Bisolvon, sputum cultures for tubercle bacilli should be continued for at least three months before a negative result may be assumed.

Side-effects: Alupent: Transient sympathomimetic side-effects, such as tachycardia, headaches and dizziness may occur, but these are rarely severe and should respond to dosage adjustment. Abdominal discomfort and nausea may occur.

Bisolvon: Mild gastro-intestinal side effects may occur in some patients. During treatment with Bisolvon, a transient rise in serum transaminase levels may be observed in some patients but these levels should fall again as treatment continues, even in patients in whom there pre-exists some impairment in hepatic function.

Dosage: Tablets: Adults, 1 four times daily; children 5-10 years, $\frac{1}{2}$ three or four times daily; children under 5 years, mixture recommended.

Mixture: Adults, two 5 ml. spoonfuls four times daily; children 5-10 years, one 5 ml. spoonful three or four times daily; children under 5 years, one 5 ml. spoonful twice daily.

Availability: Tablets, containers of 30 and 250; Mixture, bottles of 300 ml.

Further information on Alupent Expectorant is available on request.

'(a) the soaker and waker' '(b) the saturated sleeper'

These are the descriptive titles given by one author* to two main groups of enuretic children. The 'soaker and waker' he describes as timid and apprehensive, though often intelligent. The 'saturated sleepers' are madcaps or tomboys who overexert themselves physically and mentally; they are often defiant and misinterpret attempts at control as lack of love. They are distinguished by their behaviour—'Those in the first group awake, howling, immediately after wetting the bed. Those in the second group, having exhausted themselves, sleep deeply and do not awake till the morrow.'

Many cases of functional enuresis respond favourably to 'Tryptizol', the well-established antidepressant with tranquillising properties. Most bedwetters who respond to 'Tryptizol' do so in the first few days of management and tend to improve as the duration of therapy is extended.

* Lancet, 1956, ii, 1336 (29 Dec)

Fucidin — parenterally

as well as orally

Clinicians often require a parenteral antibiotic in the treatment of severe staphylococcal infections. To meet this need LEO research over a three-year period has led to the development of Fucidin for intravenous infusion. This preparation widens the scope of Fucidin (sodium fusidate B.P.) which over the last seven years has been increasingly used as a potent ora/antistaphylococcal agent.

Fucidin for intravenous infusion.

Presented in packs of 2 ampoules one of which contains 580 mg diethanolamine fusidate B.P.C. as a dry powder (equivalent to 500 mg sodium fusidate B.P.) and the other 50 ml sterile phosphate-citrate buffer.

Detailed information on dosage, administration, applications and case-histories appears in the packing leaflet and also is available on request from
