Acthar Gel therapy

In an acute episode of bronchospasm which has failed to respond to conventional bronchodilator therapy two intramuscular injections of 200 units of Acthar Gel at a 72 hour interval can control the exacerbation and obviate the need for steroids.

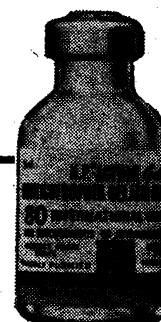

● After the initial response of the bronchospasm to one injection lasting up to 72 hours or more, 5 of the 12 patients required only one further injection of 200 i.u. of corticotrophin (Acthar Gel) before discharge from hospital, without requiring steroid therapy in any form ●¹

A week ago her problem was her skin

She didn't know when it started. All she knew was the more she scratched the worse it got – and then it started to spread. She complained of the irritation and was too embarrassed to meet her friends. It was only then that she realised that something must be done; and done quickly. Her doctor told her it was eczema and prescribed Propaderm cream.

Propaderm relieves skin problems

Propaderm can be used for all conditions responsive to topical steroid therapy. Propaderm is beclomethasone dipropionate – a powerful topical steroid. So powerful that in a recent trial 94% of 252 patients with eczema or psoriasis showed good results when treated with Propaderm (cream, ointment and ointment with 3% aureomycin BP). Propaderm is fast acting. In the same trial the majority of patients who responded to Propaderm did so in the first week of treatment.

"All three preparations of the drug which were tested were found to be superior to previous treatments. No side effects were reported."

'Keflex'

cephalexin monohydrate

Keflex multi

cephalexin monohydrate

A broad spectrum for UTI

Clinical reports show that a satisfactory clinical response is obtained in 93% of patients with acute infections and 80% of patients with chronic infections due to frequently encountered urinary pathogens such as E. coli, Proteus mirabilis, and Klebsiella.

A broad spectrum for bronchitis

In this condition where the infection is frequently of mixed aetiology, 'Keflex' clears purulent sputum and clinical improvement has been shown in over 90% of patients studied. Susceptible organisms include Haemophilus influenzae, Streptococcus pneumoniae, and Staphylococcus aureus.

K Dosage

The usual adult dose is 250 mg every six hours. For more severe infections or those caused by less susceptible organisms, 500 mg every six hours may be needed. In appropriate cases up to 4G per day may be given.

Precautions Any patient who has demonstrated some form of allergy, particularly to drugs, should receive antibiotics, including cephalixin, cautiously and then only when necessary. If severe reaction, individual idiosyncrasy, or allergy should occur, treatment should be discontinued.

The safety of cephalixin for use in pregnancy has not been established.

In patients being treated with cephalixin, a false-positive reaction for glucose in the urine may occur with Benedict's or Fehling's solutions, or with copper sulphate test tablets.

Adverse Reactions have been infrequent and mild. The most frequent was mild diarrhoea reported in slightly over 2 per cent of 1230 patients studied. Nausea was reported in about 1 per cent. Skin reactions including rash, pruritus, and dermatitis were also reported in 1 per cent of patients. Other side effects reported more rarely have been vomiting, monilial vaginitis, dizziness, headache, and abdominal pain.

Contra-indication 'Keflex' is contra-indicated in persons who have shown hypersensitivity to cephalosporins.

'Keflex' is available in green and white capsules containing 250 mg cephalixin (as the monohydrate). Further information is available on request.

Ceporex

cephalexin

in acute urinary tract infections, including pyelonephritis,
gives a clinical success rate of over 80%*

Summary

Ceporex, the new cephalosporin antibiotic from Glaxo, is the most completely absorbed oral antibiotic available, and gives very high tissue and urine levels within an hour of administration. In addition Ceporex has other advantages. It kills the gram-negative bacteria responsible for the majority of urinary tract infections, and this, together with its low toxicity, makes it ideally suited to the treatment of acute cystitis, pyelonephritis and other urinary tract infections. It can also be used in patients hypersensitive to the penicillins.

Indications

Gram-positive and gram-negative bacterial infections of the urinary tract, respiratory tract, soft tissues and skin due to susceptible organisms. Acute and chronic pyelonephritis, cystitis, prostatitis and asymptomatic bacteriuria.

Upper respiratory tract infections such as bacterial tonsillitis and pharyngitis. Otitis media and externa, sinusitis and other infections of the ear, nose and throat.

Pneumonia, bronchopneumonia and post-operative chest infections. Bronchitis and bronchiectasis. Furunculitis, erysipelas, cellulitis, abscess, lymphangitis, pyoderma and other skin, wound or soft tissue infections.

Gonorrhoea (when penicillin is unsuitable)

Bone and joint infections including osteomyelitis and septic arthritis.

Gynaecological and obstetric infections

Temporary replacement of penicillin prophylaxis in patients with rheumatic heart disease whilst undergoing dental treatment.

Administration and Dosage

Ceporex is administered orally. The adult dosage in urinary tract infections: 250 to 500 mg 6-hourly.

Adverse reactions and precautions

A small proportion of patients receiving cephalixin may experience gastro-intestinal disturbances such as nausea, vomiting, anorexia and general abdominal discomfort. As with all broad-spectrum antibiotics, superinfection can occur (often monilial) and sometimes a vulvo-vaginitis. Reversible neutropenia has occurred in a few patients, but is very rare. Generalised drug rashes—urticarial or maculopapular—are uncommon. When renal function is very markedly impaired, Ceporex may accumulate in the serum and tissues, unless the dosage is suitably reduced.

Contra-indications

Cephalixin is contra-indicated in persons who have shown hypersensitivity to cephalosporins.

An 'up-to-date' measurement of obesity

To consider the definition of obesity as being synonymous with overweight is incorrect. The continued use of height-weight tables to designate underweight/overweight is a retarding influence on the accumulation of knowledge regarding obesity and is subject to severe limitations.

Weighing a person does not differentiate between individual variations in body composition, build or structure. It is possible for some people to be obese without being overweight and vice versa.

In reality one is trying to assess the degree of fatness as the criterion of obesity and this should be based on direct measurement, not on inferred values from weight.

It is surprising that, although skinfold measurement was first suggested in 1890 and has been used in clinics for several decades, skinfold measurements are not in general use.

The measurement is quick, simple and reproducible. Evaluation of fat density from skinfold thickness measurements correlates well with values obtained from other more elaborate methods.

With the free availability of simple skinfold calipers, Selpharm Laboratories Ltd. hope that this measurement will become a routine diagnostic test for obesity and as a result more knowledge will be gathered on this widespread disease.

EXACERBATIONS OF BRONCHITIS

the benefits of uninterrupted Bisolvon therapy during the bronchitic's acute
infected phases

Bisolvon disrupts the feltwork of AMPS (acid mucopolysaccharide) fibres responsible for the viscosity of mucoïd sputum, but takes about ten days of continuous treatment to reach its full effect. The patient should then be producing thinner and less sputum than originally. This beneficial effect of Bisolvon is maintained for as long as treatment continues.

During an infective exacerbation bacterial action causes the breakdown of cells and cell nuclei, producing DNA (desoxyribonucleic acid) fibres and fragmentation of existing AMPS fibres. DNA fibres therefore predominate in purulent sputum.

At this stage it is very important to maintain Bisolvon therapy, together with an effective antibacterial. This ensures that once the infection is brought under control (therefore eliminating DNA fibres) AMPS fibres do not re-form to raise sputum viscosity.

Bisolvomycin capsules, containing Bisolvon with oxytetracycline, have been developed to enable Bisolvon therapy to be conveniently maintained during the bronchitic's infective exacerbations.

Turquoise blue/grey capsules printed with the Company symbol.

Each capsule contains:

Bisolvon (bromhexine hydrochloride) 8mg.
oxytetracycline hydrochloride B.P. 250mg.

Further information on Bisolvomycin can be obtained from:

Boehringer Ingelheim Limited Isleworth Middlesex

Contra-indications

Bisolvon: There are no absolute contra-indications, but observe caution in patients with gastric ulcer.

Oxytetracycline: Known tetracycline allergy; should not be given in pregnancy or in presence of renal or hepatic dysfunction. The concurrent administration of antacids should be avoided.

Precaution

Bisolvon: When patients under treatment for tuberculosis are also receiving Bisolvon, continue sputum cultures for tubercle bacilli for at least 3 months before assuming a negative result.

Oxytetracycline: Teeth staining may occur in children.

Side-effects

Bisolvon: Mild gastro-intestinal side-effects may occasionally be caused. A transient rise in serum transaminase levels may be observed in a few patients. These should fall again with continuation of Bisolvon treatment.

Oxytetracycline: May cause nausea, diarrhoea and symptoms resulting from the overgrowth of resistant organisms; in particular, overgrowth of Candida albicans may cause irritation of mouth, anus or vagina. Drug fever or rashes rarely occur.

An aid to oral hygiene

Maintenance of oral hygiene during the post-operative period, especially among geriatric patients, is obviously essential. But at the same time this can prove to be somewhat time-consuming for the nursing staff.

However, recent experience in a London hospital has shown that the patient can help to provide his own nursing care, with the minimum of effort.

This experience covers patients who are fed intravenously and post-operative cases who find normal eating and drinking difficult. These patients often exhibit signs of mouth infection very quickly, and treatment for this can often cause considerable discomfort.

A more pleasant treatment is possible in many cases, for it has been found that giving the patient chewing gum promotes salivary gland activity. Patients are encouraged to chew gum at two-hourly periods, and this treatment frequently allays the symptoms and produces a considerable improvement in the condition of the tongue and mucosa. Quite striking results have been noted after carrying out this treatment for a 24-hour period.

ANTIBIOTICS AND THE INTESTINAL FLORA

Treatment with broad spectrum antibiotics suppresses the normal flora, which may be replaced by abnormal resistant organisms causing diarrhoea.

This change can be prevented or reversed by the implantation of Lactobacillus acidophilus which has been rendered antibiotic-resistant, and is thus able to multiply freely under these abnormal conditions. The products of growth of the organism are inimical to that of many other bacteria^{1, 2} and thus contribute to its rapid preponderance over other species.

Oral treatment with antibiotic-resistant L. acidophilus in the form of ENPAC has been shown to eliminate Candida from the faeces of infants with antibiotic-induced diarrhoea, with relief of symptoms succeeded by rapid gain in weight³ and greatly to reduce the numbers of staphylococci in the faeces of patients treated with tetracyclines.⁴

cephalexin

for respiratory tract infections gives a clinical success rate over 85% in pneumonia*

Summary

Ceporex, the new cephalosporin antibiotic from Glaxo, is the most completely absorbed oral antibiotic available, and gives very high blood and tissue levels within an hour of administration. In addition Ceporex has other advantages. Its wide range of activity includes most gram-positive organisms, (including penicillin-resistant staphylococci) and most of the gram-negative organisms which can be responsible for respiratory tract disease. Its rapid kill of sensitive bacteria, and low toxicity make Ceporex ideally suited to the treatment of pneumonia and other respiratory tract infections. It can also be used safely in patients hypersensitive to the penicillins.

Indications

Gram-positive and gram-negative bacterial infections of the urinary tract, respiratory tract, soft tissues and skin due to susceptible organisms. Acute and chronic pyelonephritis, cystitis, prostatitis, and asymptomatic bacteriuria.

Upper respiratory tract infections such as bacterial tonsillitis and pharyngitis.

Otitis media and externa, sinusitis and other infections of the ear, nose and throat.

Pneumonia, bronchopneumonia and post-operative chest infections. Bronchitis and bronchiectasis. Furunculitis, erysipelas, cellulitis, abscess, lymphangitis, pyoderma and other skin, wound or soft tissue infections.

Gonorrhoea (when penicillin is unsuitable)

Bone and joint infections including osteomyelitis and septic arthritis.

Gynaecological and obstetric infections.

Temporary replacement of penicillin prophylaxis in patients with rheumatic heart disease whilst undergoing dental treatment.

Administration and Dosage

Ceporex is administered orally. The adult dosage in Pneumonias and bronchopneumonias: 500 mg to 1 g, 6-hourly.

Upper respiratory tract infections: 250 mg 6-hourly.

Adverse reactions and precautions

A small proportion of patients receiving cephalixin may experience gastro-intestinal disturbances such as nausea, vomiting, anorexia and general abdominal discomfort. As with all broad-spectrum antibiotics, superinfection can occur (often monilial) and sometimes a vulvo-vaginitis. Reversible neutropenia has occurred in a few patients, but is very rare. Johnny went into hiding q.i.d. until the doctor prescribed 'Ilosone' Suspension

'Ilosone' excels in paediatric infections. But the flavour of the suspension (although important to Johnny) is only one of the reasons why it works so well. Against gram-positive cocci 'Ilosone' is much more active than, for example, the tetracyclines – and it will not discolour teeth or deposit in bone. Thus for infections such as tonsillitis, pharyngitis, pneumonia, otitis media and acute bronchitis – 'Ilosone' Suspension is a first-line treatment.

Protect the new patient from her own forgetfulness.

Lyndiol 2·5 provides contraception from the very first tablet without any reliance upon other contraceptive methods. It has by far the lowest failure rate (0·003 per Hundred Women Years)¹, due in part to the prolonged activity of lynestrenol²: if a patient forgets a tablet she takes it the following day and is still protected. The easily-remembered same-day dosage regimen fortifies the medical advantages of Lyndiol 2·5 and further protects the patient from her own forgetfulness. An extremely low incidence of side-effects³ reinforces the logic of protecting the new patient with Lyndiol 2·5.

More pain-free days

In angina pectoris, Inderal protects the heart from the oxygen-wasting effects of emotion and effort.

Through adrenergic beta-receptor blockade, 'Inderal' protects the heart from the action of adrenaline. There is a slowing of the heart-rate and reduction in the oxygen needs of the myocardium.

The results: more pain-free days; increased effort tolerance. 'Inderal' is the only treatment to have been proved consistently in double-blind clinical trials. Tests also show it to be effective in very severe cases of angina.

'Inderal' depends for its effect on a specific pharmacological action. Before using 'Inderal', it is important that doctors should read the detailed literature for information on dosage, precautions and contra-indications. We shall be glad to send you further information.

(ibuprofen)

The incident recreated here is taken from an actual report of the results achieved with Brufen. Many such reports about Brufen have been received, and provide convincing evidence of the very real benefits which this highly effective antirheumatic agent can bring to the arthritic. To those restricted by an arthritic condition, Brufen means the freedom of reduced stiffness, improved joint flexion and an extended range of pain-free movement. There is also a remarkable freedom from adverse effects, and Brufen is so well tolerated by the gastro-intestinal tract that the first dose of each day can be taken on an empty stomach, as soon as the patient is awake.

Brufen is ibuprofen, the first non-steroidal antirheumatic agent evolved entirely by British research.

We'll help you feel at home abroad.

We have a couple of helpful schemes for people who want to take a car abroad.

If you're about to leave Britain you can take a 'tax-free' Ford with you. And, before you go, you can run it in this country for up to 6 months. So with this in mind, we rustled up our personal Export Scheme.

But if you're coming home temporarily, you can also buy a Ford free of purchase tax. Provided you've been away at least a year. And you return abroad again within 12 months. In this case use our Visit Europe Scheme.

Both schemes mean that Ford's personal service doesn't stop at Dover. We'll arrange to ship your car anywhere in the world. And wherever you go, you'll find a Ford service depot. But if you do get stuck, we'll fly a spare part out specially.

So, although you're abroad, it won't seem all that far from home.

For Information about the Ford Visit Europe or Personal Export Schemes, contact your local Ford dealer. Or write to the Showroom Manager, Ford Motor Company Ltd., 88 Regent Street, London W1.

PRACTICAL PSYCHIATRY

from the British Medical Journal

Most doctors who have been qualified for more than ten years received very little training in psychiatry as medical students. Yet psychiatric problems confront all those practising clinical medicine. The articles collected together in this book were written for the B.M.J. to give practical advice to general practitioners and others on how to recognize and cope with the more common forms of mental disorder. Many patients are anxious or depressed; when should the doctor try to do something about it? This is the sort of question the authors set out to answer. As far as possible they have avoided the use of psychiatric jargon, and case histories have been used freely to illustrate the points made. Any doctor who feels ignorant about psychological medicine will find here a readable introduction to the practical aspects of clinical psychiatry.

New oral antibiotic

cephalexin

in soft tissue infections like cellulitis
gives a clinical success rate of over 85%*

Summary

Ceporex, a new cephalosporin antibiotic from Glaxo, is the most completely absorbed oral antibiotic available, and gives very high blood and tissue levels within an hour of administration. In addition Ceporex has other advantages. It is highly effective in skin and soft tissue infections, being equally active against penicillin-sensitive and penicillin-resistant staphylococci and more active against Strep. pyogenes. Gram-negative organisms which may be encountered are also sensitive. Its rapid kill of sensitive bacteria and low toxicity make Ceporex ideally suited to the treatment of skin and soft tissue infections. It can also be used safely in patients hypersensitive to the penicillins.

Indications

Gram-positive and gram-negative bacterial infections of the urinary tract, respiratory tract, soft tissues and skin due to susceptible organisms.

Acute and chronic pyelonephritis, cystitis, prostatitis and asymptomatic bacteriuria.

Upper respiratory tract infections such as bacterial tonsillitis and pharyngitis.

Otitis media and externa, sinusitis and other infections of the ear, nose and throat.

Pneumonia, bronchopneumonia and post-operative chest infections.

Bronchitis and bronchiectasis. Furunculitis, erysipelas, cellulitis, abscess, lymphangitis, pyoderma and other skin, wound or soft tissue infections.

Gonorrhoea (when penicillin is unsuitable)

Bone and joint infections including osteomyelitis and septic arthritis.

Gynaecological and obstetric infections.

Temporary replacement of penicillin prophylaxis in patients with rheumatic heart disease whilst undergoing dental treatment.

Administration and Dosage

Ceporex is administered orally. The adult dosage in skin and superficial soft tissue infections: 250 to 500 mg 6-hourly.

Adverse reactions and precautions

A small proportion of patients receiving cephalixin may experience gastro-intestinal disturbances such as nausea, vomiting, anorexia and general abdominal discomfort. As with all broad-spectrum antibiotics, superinfection can occur (often monilial) and sometimes a vulvo-vaginitis. Reversible neutropenia has occurred in a few patients, but is very rare. Generalised drug rashes—urticarial or maculopapular—are uncommon. When renal function is very markedly impaired, Ceporex may accumulate in the serum and tissues, unless the dosage is suitably reduced.

Contra-indications

Cephalixin is contra-indicated in persons who have shown hypersensitivity to cephalosporins.

Presentation

FULL ANTISPASMODIC EFFECT FROM PRACTICAL
DOSE OF EPHEDRINE-PLEASANTLY FLAVOURED

FOR asthma and bronchitis

TESTS show that 2-Diethylaminoethyl- α -phenylbutyrate Citrate has a more pronounced bronchodilatory effect than ephedrine. Three parts of 2-Diethylaminoethyl- α -phenylbutyrate Citrate producing the same effect as 5 parts of ephedrine. It acts more rapidly than ephedrine, reaches maximum effect somewhat later and falls away at a slightly slower rate. With a mixture of the substances the curve of bronchial dilation showed that the effect produced was considerably greater than when double the quantity of each substance was administered separately.

4 mg. OF THE MIXED SUBSTANCES

NEW PRODUCT ANNOUNCEMENT

Duphalac makes laxatives obsolete

It would be hard to think of any other form of treatment that is prescribed so often and yet with such reluctance, or even downright misgiving, as laxatives. To the patient with habitual constipation, laxatives spell relief—provided they are taken continually. To the physician they appear as an unavoidable last resort, substituting one habit for the lack of another.

Duphalac brings a promise to both patient and physician—the promise of release from the laxative trap. For Duphalac is a non-laxative treatment for habitual constipation, providing relief without creating a laxative habit, and giving the patient's bowel mechanism a long-awaited chance to regain its normal rhythm.

Duphalac in Theory

Duphalac acts by changing the pattern of bacterial flora in the colon. It is a synthetic disaccharide (lactulose) which is not appreciably absorbed when taken orally, is not acted on by the enzymes that split naturally-occurring disaccharides, and so reaches the colon unaltered. Here it acts as a nutrient for saccharolytic bacteria and thus encourages them to increase their activity, giving rise to a fall in pH of the colonic contents and a marked change in the stool consistency. In clinical terms, the stool becomes softer and the natural peristalsis is restored.

Unlike laxatives which goad the bowel musculature into fitful action, Duphalac has no direct effect either on the smooth muscle or its innervation. It changes the colonic environment within the colon, which results in normal bowel movement and a softening of the stool.

The Clinical Evidence

Among trials confirming the value of Duphalac is a double-blind comparison with placebo.* The author eliminated all patients who did not need laxatives in the 3-week period after the treatment had ended; these were considered not truly constipated. Of the remaining 52 truly constipated patients (elderly, including both sexes) the success rate for lactulose was 80% and for placebo 33%. "The difference in success rate is highly significant ($P < 0.01$)."

This author further comments

"Lactulose is a completely harmless substance: in recommended doses an easy defaecation is obtained without cramps. It does not affect blood sugar levels in diabetic patients and in our experience it is not habit forming." *Gut, 1968, 9:84

The Patients for Duphalac

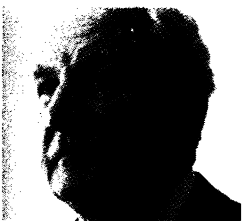

Duphalac is especially indicated for those patients whose chronic constipation results from a way of life which they cannot, or will not, change. Typical of these sufferers from "habitual constipation" are the young girl working in a busy office with a hectic social life and no time for leisure over meals – or for a regular bowel routine.

the elderly patient who cannot be bothered to answer the call to stool and who thus loses the bowel habit.

the busy executive, overworked, always in haste, who cannot allow the time or the tranquillity for proper bowel function the child with a thousand and one preoccupations which override all but the most urgent calls of nature.

N.B. It should be noted that the physiological reconditioning brought about by Duphalac takes up to 48 hours to produce a normal motion.

Duphalac is presented as a syrup containing lactulose 50% w/w, lactose 5% w/w, galactose 8% w/w, in bottles of 200 ml. and 2 litres.

Full prescribing information will be supplied on request.

SERVICES

What's in the R.A.F. for a young doctor?

Interesting out-of-the-rut medicine

The typical R.A.F. station doctor is a G.P. - with probably a lot of experience in pediatrics! He also has important responsibilities in aviation medicine, public health and industrial health. He does much more preventive work than most civilian doctors are able to do. There are wide opportunities for hospital practice - 47% of R.A.F. doctors are now working in specialist departments.

The chance to travel

You could live and work abroad, in many different conditions and climates, treating not only R.A.F. personnel and their families, but local populations. Your gain in clinical experience would be marked.

... a fair crack of the whip for the Doctor's wife

A Doctor's wife is a Doctor's wife. She should not also have to be his telephone-answerer, appointment-maker, dispenser and general auxiliary! In the R.A.F., these things are done by professionals: the typical R.A.F. doctor, on a typical R.A.F. station, works in a fully equipped Medical Centre, which he shares with another doctor; between them they would probably have about 12 staff—secretarial as well as nursing.

£3,000 (tax free) after 5 years

In the first case, you would probably join the R.A.F. for 5 years. If you decide to go back to civil life at the end of this time, you would take with you a tax-free honorarium of £3,000. (You might of course wish to stay on: you can apply after the first year.) Now for income: suppose you are a married man of 25, fully registered. If you were in the R.A.F., your income would be at least £2,522 p.a. The R.A.F. would probably provide you with a house, furnished right down to the last coffee-cup; for this, the rent would be £16 a month.

To find out more please write, giving your age, nationality, qualifications and date of full registration with General Medical Council, to The Directorate General of Medical Services, RAF (MAI (RAF)), Ministry of Defence (724QS4), 1-6 Tavistock Square, London W.C.1.
