Betnovate Ointment

the classic answer to dry, scaling dermatoses

A simple case for low-cost Betnovate Ointment

A 26 year old woman with a 6 months history of eczema of fingers, previously untreated, responded well to treatment twice daily with Betnovate Ointment with occlusion at night.

Presentation

Betnovate Ointment (0.1% betamethasone as 17-valerate) in 15, 30 and 100 gram tubes

Also available

Betnovate Cream and Lotion ; Betnovate-A Ointment ; Betnovate-C Cream and Ointment ; Betnovate-N Cream, Ointment, Lotion and Tulle ; Betnovate Scalp Application ; Betnovate Rectal Ointment ; Betnovate Compound Suppositories

Indications

All non-infected steroid-responsive dermatoses including psoriasis.

Application

Apply a small quantity once or twice daily

Adverse reactions

Betnovate preparations are usually tolerated well but if signs of hypersensitivity appear, application should be stopped immediately. When used with occlusive dressings on extensive areas, or for prolonged periods, as with all topical steroids, there is a possibility of systemic absorption. Absorption is more likely in infants and children, and may occur even in the absence of occlusion.

PRACTICAL PSYCHIATRY

Most doctors who have been qualified for more than ten years received very little training in psychiatry as medical students. Yet psychiatric problems confront all those practising clinical medicine. The articles collected together in this book were written for the B.M.J. to give practical advice to general practitioners and others on how to recognize and cope with the more common forms of mental disorder. Many patients are anxious or depressed; when should the doctor try to do something about it? This is the sort of question the authors set out to answer. As far as possible they have avoided the use of psychiatric jargon, and case histories have been used freely to illustrate the points made. Any doctor who feels ignorant about psychological medicine will find here a readable introduction to the practical aspects of clinical psychiatry.

Desensitisation against hay-fever?

Never use it.

First, no time for all those injections.

Second, it doesn't work.

Third, patients don't like it.

...and fourth, I retired four years ago.

Which explains everything.

Times change.

Modern desensitisation means

D-VAC Pollens.

First, only three injections.

Second, success rates as high as 80 per cent.¹⁻⁶

Third, patients do like it.^{1,6}

D-VAC Pollens vaccine makes desensitisation a practical proposition for GPs.

Each dose of D-VAC*Pollens is supplied in a unique disposable syringe that automatically, in one injection, delivers first the inert "depot" shield and then the active core containing the twelve grass pollens responsible for over 90 per cent. of cases of classical hay-fever and pollen asthma.

The prescription should be for the whole course—and should state when the first injection is to be given (February 9th—March 7th). The three injections will be despatched at four-week intervals to arrive a few days before they are needed. Injections are made to advance order only.

New oral antibiotic

Ceporex

cephalexin

in acute urinary tract infections,
including pyelonephritis,
gives a clinical success rate of over 80%*

Summary

Ceporex, the new cephalosporin antibiotic from Glaxo, is the most completely absorbed oral antibiotic available, and gives very high tissue and urine levels within an hour of administration. In addition Ceporex has other advantages. It kills the gram-negative bacteria responsible for the majority of urinary tract infections, and this, together with its low toxicity, makes it ideally suited to the treatment of acute cystitis, pyelonephritis and other urinary tract infections. It can also be used in patients hypersensitive to the penicillins.

Indications

Gram-positive and gram-negative bacterial infections of the urinary tract, respiratory tract, soft tissues and skin due to susceptible organisms. Acute and chronic pyelonephritis, cystitis, prostatitis and asymptomatic bacteriuria.

Upper respiratory tract infections such as bacterial tonsillitis and pharyngitis. Otitis media and externa, sinusitis and other infections of the ear, nose and throat.

Pneumonia, bronchopneumonia and post-operative chest infections. Bronchitis and bronchiectasis. Furunculitis, erysipelas, cellulitis, abscess, lymphangitis, pyoderma and other skin, wound or soft tissue infections.

Gonorrhoea (when penicillin is unsuitable)

Bone and joint infections including osteomyelitis and septic arthritis.

Gynaecological and obstetric infections

Temporary replacement of penicillin prophylaxis in patients with rheumatic heart disease whilst undergoing dental treatment.

Administration and Dosage

Ceporex is administered orally. The adult dosage in urinary tract infections: 250 to 500 mg 6-hourly.

Adverse reactions and precautions

A small proportion of patients receiving cephalexin may experience gastro-intestinal disturbances such as nausea, vomiting, anorexia and general abdominal discomfort. As with all broad-spectrum antibiotics, superinfection can occur (often monilial) and sometimes a vulvo-vaginitis. Reversible neutropenia has occurred in a few patients, but is very rare. Generalised drug rashes—urticarial or maculopapular—are uncommon. When renal function is very markedly impaired, Ceporex may accumulate in the serum and tissues, unless the dosage is suitably reduced.

Contra-indications

Cephalexin is contra-indicated in persons who have shown hypersensitivity to cephalosporins.

New oral antibiotic

Ceporex

cephalexin

for respiratory tract infections gives a clinical success rate over 85%
in pneumonia*

Summary

Ceporex, the new cephalosporin antibiotic from Glaxo, is the most completely absorbed oral antibiotic available, and gives very high blood and tissue levels within an hour of administration. In addition Ceporex has other advantages. Its wide range of activity includes most gram-positive organisms, (including penicillin-resistant staphylococci) and most of the gram-negative organisms which can be responsible for respiratory tract disease. Its rapid kill of sensitive bacteria, and low toxicity make Ceporex ideally suited to the treatment of pneumonia and other respiratory tract infections. It can also be used safely in patients hypersensitive to the penicillins.

Indications

Gram-positive and gram-negative bacterial infections of the urinary tract, respiratory tract, soft tissues and skin due to susceptible organisms. Acute and chronic pyelonephritis, cystitis, prostatitis, and asymptomatic bacteriuria.

Upper respiratory tract infections such as bacterial tonsillitis and pharyngitis.

Gynaecological and obstetric infections.

Temporary replacement of penicillin prophylaxis in patients with rheumatic heart disease whilst undergoing dental treatment.

Administration and Dosage

Ceporex is administered orally. The adult dosage in Pneumonias and bronchopneumonias: 500 mg to 1 g, 6-hourly.

Upper respiratory tract infections: 250 mg 6-hourly.

New oral antibiotic

Ceporex

cephalexin

in soft tissue infections like cellulitis
gives a clinical success rate of over 85%*

Summary

Ceporex, a new cephalosporin antibiotic from Glaxo, is the most completely absorbed oral antibiotic available, and gives very high blood and tissue levels within an hour of administration. In addition Ceporex has other advantages. It is highly effective in skin and soft tissue infections, being equally active against penicillin-sensitive and penicillin-resistant staphylococci and more active against Strep. pyogenes. Gram-negative organisms which may be encountered are also sensitive. Its rapid kill of sensitive bacteria and low toxicity make Ceporex ideally suited to the treatment of skin and soft tissue infections. It can also be used safely in patients hypersensitive to the penicillins.

Indications

Gram-positive and gram-negative bacterial infections of the urinary tract, respiratory tract, soft tissues and skin due to susceptible

A broad spectrum for UTI

Clinical reports show that a satisfactory clinical response is obtained in 93% of patients with acute infections and 80% of patients with chronic infections due to frequently encountered urinary pathogens such as E. coli, Proteus mirabilis, and Klebsiella.

A broad spectrum for bronchitis

In this condition where the infection is frequently of mixed aetiology, 'Keflex' clears purulent sputum and clinical improvement has been shown in over 90% of patients studied. Susceptible organisms include Haemophilus influenzae, Streptococcus pneumoniae, and Staphylococcus aureus.

K Dosage

The usual adult dose is 250 mg every six hours. For more severe infections or those caused by less susceptible organisms, 500 mg every six hours may be needed. In appropriate cases up to 4G per day may be given.

Precautions Any patient who has demonstrated some form of allergy, particularly to drugs, should receive antibiotics, including cephalixin, cautiously and then only when necessary. If severe reaction, individual idiosyncrasy, or allergy should occur, treatment should be discontinued.

The safety of cephalixin for use in pregnancy has not been established.

In patients being treated with cephalixin, a positive reaction may occur with Benedict's or Fehling's solutions or with copper sulphate test tablets.

Adverse Reactions have been infrequent and mild. The most common was mild diarrhoea reported in slightly more than 1% of 1230 patients studied. Nausea was reported in 1 per cent.

Other effects reported more rarely included vomiting, monilial vaginitis, dizziness, headache, and abdominal pain.

Contra-indication 'Keflex' is contra-indicated in persons who have shown hypersensitivity to cephalosporins.

'Keflex' is available in green and white capsules containing 250 mg.

Searle announce Ovulen 50

The new formulation of Britain's leading oral contraceptive Ovulen.

Ovulen 50 contains only 50 micrograms of oestrogen (ethinyloestradiol B.P.). The progestogen content remains 1.0 mg of ethynodiol diacetate. Clinical trials since 1967 in 1043 patients over 9735 cycles have shown the new formulation, Ovulen 50, to be as effective and acceptable as Ovulen. Switching patients to Ovulen 50 from other brands presents no problem; the trials have shown that there is no need for other (mechanical) methods during the first weeks of the first cycle on Ovulen 50. Your patient should finish her current pack, wait seven days, and then start her new pack of Ovulen 50.

Abstracted from a Leading Article, Brit med J, (1969) 1, 525.†

- Trimethoprim not only attains therapeutic tissue levels, but is excreted unchanged in high concentration in the urine.

- Its minimum inhibitory concentration is extremely low.

UNIVERSITY OF EDINBURGH

Diploma in Tropical Medicine and Hygiene

The Course of Instruction for the Diploma in Tropical Medicine and Hygiene (D.T.M.&H. Univ. Edin.) consists of two Parts—Part I will be held from October 13 to December 18, 1970, Part II from January 11 to March 19, 1971. An examination is held after the conclusion of each Part.

The Part I Course comprises systematic instruction and practical work in Diseases of Tropical Climates, Protozoology, Helminthology, Entomology, Bacteriology, Virology and Elementary Statistics.

The Part II Course provides further instruction in Diseases of Tropical Climates and classes and seminars in Tropical Epidemiology and Hygiene, Applied Nutrition and Physiology, Arthropod Ecology, Tuberculosis, Venereal Diseases and Tropical Paediatrics, Ophthalmology, Surgery and Dermatology.

Clinical instruction is given in the Tropical Diseases Unit of the City Hospital. The other classes are held in the appropriate University departments and in the Lister Institute for Postgraduate Medical Education and Research.

To be eligible for admission to the Course and Examination for the Diploma candidates are required to hold medical qualifications registrable with the General Medical Council in Great Britain or of such other universities as are recognized for the purpose by the University Court.

The Course is designed to give medical men and women a better understanding of health problems and medical practice in the tropics. It is thus of value to those intending to hold public health or administrative posts in the tropics and is also appropriate for those proposing to offer tropical medicine as a selected subject in higher examinations or to undertake further study of parasitology.

The fee for the Course (including appearance at one diet of Part I and Part II Examinations) is £75. Matriculation and Enrolment Fee £10.

Fuller particulars, together with the form of application for admission, may be obtained from the Dean, Faculty of Medicine, University Medical School, Teviot Place, Edinburgh EH8 9AG, to whom application for admission should be submitted before April 30, 1970. Late applications will also be considered if vacancies are available. Please quote reference 8020/50.

PRACTICES(Executive Councils)

For vacancies (except those in Scotland) apply on Form E.C.16A, obtainable from the Executive Council. Mark envelopes "Vacancy."

REDDITCH—WORCESTERSHIRE

Applications are invited from registered medical practitioners for a vacancy at Redditch, which is being expanded to form Redditch New Town.

The successful applicant will be required to start practice on about July 1, 1970, and will be paid a Type D Initial Practice Allowance as described in E.C.N.631. This allowance takes the form of a guarantee that the doctor's net annual professional income from all sources, after allowing for practice expenses actually incurred and accepted by the Executive Council as reasonable, will be made up if necessary to an amount agreed with the Executive Council as the amount of his previous net annual professional income from all sources subject to a maximum of £4,000 per annum.

It will be expected that normally the doctor appointed will have been qualified as a doctor for about ten years, of which two should have been in hospital appointments and five in a busy general practice in this country.

It is intended that the doctor appointed will be responsible for all the new residents in a part of the Redditch New Town designated area known as Matchborough, which will consist entirely of new development, and that as the practice grows he will take additional partners. Practice accommodation will be provided in new premises to be adapted by the Development Corporation pending the erection of a permanent health centre. The Development Corporation will also consider favourably an application for tenancy of a residence. There is a general practitioner hospital in the centre of the existing town, and the new doctor would be expected to assist. A district general hospital is planned but will not be ready for some years.

The area in which expansion will take place is on the Warwickshire border in pleasant open countryside. Stratford-on-Avon, the Vale of Evesham and the Cotswolds are near, not to mention the attractions of Worcestershire itself.

This is a good opportunity for a suitably qualified and experienced doctor to become a leader in the field of medical services in a completely new area and, as time goes on, for him to influence developments and to become a central figure in the community.

Further details and Form E.C.16A may be obtained from the Clerk of the Worcestershire Executive Council, 99 High Street, Worcester. Telephone Worcester 25881. (H.6422)

Children, respiratory infections and Penbritin

Penbritin is successful against the wide range of bacteria which may cause tonsillitis, pharyngitis, bronchitis and other respiratory infections.

Penbritin kills the organisms rather than merely inhibiting them, and so minimises the risk of relapse or complications. In paediatrics this is especially important, since a child's natural defences can be inadequate.

Penbritin has all the safety of a penicillin and can be prescribed with confidence for all age groups. It does not stain teeth nor is it deposited in the bones of young children.

Penbritin is available as a pleasant syrup which encourages children to finish the prescribed course.

Full information is available on request.
