the diuretic that entirely obviates the need for potassium supplements

'Moduretic' is a completely new diuretic from Merck Sharp & Dohme that induces a highly effective diuresis as well as helping the body to conserve its natural balance of potassium.

'Moduretic' offers the physician the means of treating patients with a diuretic while avoiding the limitations imposed by potassium supplements. Indeed, 'Moduretic' conserves body potassium so effectively that potassium supplements are contra-indicated.

'Moduretic' is available as peach-coloured, diamond-shaped tablets containing 5 mg amiloride hydrochloride/MSD and 50 mg hydrochlorothiazide/MSD.

Detailed information is available to physicians on request.

'Moduretic' is a registered trademark.

MEDICOVISION ROCHE

Tutorials by world leaders in medicine and surgery for every post-graduate medical centre Medicovision* distils the knowledge and experience of leading figures in many fields of medicine into a series of closed-circuit colour television presentations. Each presentation is a concise (15-20 minute) review of a subject of direct relevance and interest to general practitioners. The latest thinking is discussed, the latest techniques are explained and demonstrated.

The presentations are produced by combining two very different disciplines. The medical consultants have complete editorial freedom and control over the content of the programme. Presentation is in the hands of professional writers, directors and cameramen of outstanding skill and talent. Between them they achieve a quality of communication which is probably unique in the field of medical teaching. *trade mark

The greatest invention since the car.

Luxury pad on wheels. Magic carpet. Incomparable. Effortless . . .

These are some of the ways people describe the Citroen D Special. They're pretty well right. In fact the safe, silent, graceful, aerodynamic Citroen D Special is far removed from its lesser rival, the ordinary motor car.

Which tends to make you think it's way out of your price range. How wrong can you be.

The Citroen D Special starts from £1494·38 (ex works inc. p.t.) Drive one soon. You may find yourself lost for words.

The size of the problem

*The Metabolic Factors

Brit. med. J., 1971, 2, 67.

'Slow-wave sleep (stages 3 and 4), often considered 'worth more' than stages 1 and 2 (Dement and Greenberg, 1966) is now thought to be an obligatory condition for the large nocturnal secretion of growth hormone (Sassin et al, 1969a, 1969b). Growth hormone is a lipolytic agent (Fain et al, 1965; Hunter, 1968), and the possibility arises that fenfluramine might partly reduce weight by an action on the brain that leads both to slow-wave sleep increase and to growth hormone secretion increase... First results of some current experiments strengthen our expectation that serial blood samples during sleep contain higher growth hormone levels during fenfluramine intake with weight loss.'

Lancet, 1969, 1, 498.

'From the analysis of the blood samples, the elevated plasma free fatty acids, glycerol, and ketone levels, and the reduced triglyceride levels suggest that in man, fat mobilisation is enhanced and lipid synthesis is reduced by fenfluramine.'

S.A.M.J. Supplement, 19th June, 1971, p.22.

'During human forearm perfusion fenfluramine had a biphasic effect on glucose uptake by skeletal muscle. There was a prompt increase in glucose uptake, which disappeared after ninety minutes, coinciding with release of free fatty acids from both muscle and adipose tissue. The disappearance rate of glucose injected intravenously (K value) was accelerated by fenfluramine, provided free fatty acid release had not occurred.'

S.A.M.J. Supplement, 19th June, 1971, p.30.

'Fenfluramine alone for five weeks without dietary restriction produced an improvement in glucose tolerance and a decrease in insulin secretion from fourteen to fifty per cent during the oral glucose tolerance test (OGTT), in five out of six non-diabetic subjects who were from ten to thitry per cent overweight.'

S.A.M.J. Supplement, 19th June, 1971, p.28.

'Fenfluramine (Ponderax), an anti-obesity agent, increases muscle uptake of glucose (Butterfield and Whichelow, 1968) and promotes fat mobilization, decreasing triglyceride levels and increasing NEFA (Pawan, 1969). It might, therefore, be expected to reduce or reverse the biochemical abnormalities found in patients with arterial disease.'

* The Lack of Stimulation

J. Pharm. Pharmac., 1967, 19, 338.

'These findings indicate that fenfluramine in therapeutic doses does not influence the critical flicker frequency, and this is in keeping with the clinical absence of central stimulation associated with its use.'

J. New Drugs, 1966, 6, 123.

'Stimulation was common in the phenmetrazine group whereas sedation was seen with fenfluramine. There was a slight lowering of blood pressure in the fenfluramine groups.'

Presse Médicale, 1965, 4, 181.

'The dosage used was 60 mg. day in adults and 20-40 mg./day in children. This was maintained for one month, then depending upon whether or not the bodyweight had returned to normal, the dosage was retained or diminished. In some cases a daily diet of 900-1,000 calories was prescribed. A calmative effect was noticed in all patients after one or two months' treatment.' (Translated from original French)

Brit. J. Psychiat., 1969, 115, 963.

Patients who had predominantly symptoms of anxiety noted relief of these symptoms by fenfluramine. Depressed patients, however, often felt rather more depressed on fenfluramine.

Side effects, mainly lethargy and diarrhoea, occurred in ten of thirty-five patients who received fenfluramine. It was concluded that fenfluramine was the anorectic of choice for the tense and anxious obese patient.' *The Lack of Abuse Risk

Brit. med. J., 1971, 2, 70.

'Young drug-takers in London seem not to choose fenfluramine according to Hawks (1970), of the Addiction Research Unit, Institute of Psychiatry (confirmed by personal communication, Hawks, 1971). Amphetamine addicts do not credit fenfluramine with effects qualitatively similar to those of amphetamine (Gotestam and Gunne, 1971). Isolated reports of young persons who have experimented with fenfluramine above the recommended dose indicate that their experiences were unpleasant (Brandon, 1969; Riley et al, 1969).'

S.A.M.J. Supplement, 19th June, 1971, p.32.

'Twenty-two amphetamine dependent subjects, all imprisoned drug abusers, were used for evaluation of the subjective effects of two weight-reducing drugs, AN. 448 and fenfluramine, in a double-blind study with cross-over design.

After administration of AN 448 there was an increased number of responses rated as 'similarity to amphetamine' compared with placebo. The self-rating of CS effect, however, did not differ from placebo following AN. 448. Fenfluramine was without effect in both ratings: CS effect and 'similarity to amphetamine'.'

S.A.M.J. Supplement, 19th June, 1971, p.32.

'Six amphetamine-dependent women were treated for their dependence using fenfluramine as a substitute. Treatment was successful in five out of the six. The single relapse was in a woman with a severely disturbed personality who was also taking other dependence-producing drugs. The rationale for treatment and side-effects are discussed.

Professor Beckett: Are there any withdrawal symptoms after the use of fenfluramine?

Jones: We have not noticed any such withdrawal effects.'

When a child has tonsillitis Ceporex Syrup reduces the risks and improves the results

Tonsillitis treated with penicillin can result in diarrhoea. And penicillin-hypersensitivity rashes are another problem which can complicate therapy.

Ceporex (cephalexin) is ideally suited for tonsillitis treatment. It is clinically as effective as penicillin G against the beta-haemolytic streptococci, but is less likely to produce side effects. It is very well tolerated by children of all ages and can normally be used in penicillin-hypersensitive patients. And Ceporex also achieves a rapid result since it produces high blood levels within an hour of administration, penetrates the tissues quickly and is not metabolised in the body so it remains fully active to fight infection.

Ceporex Syrup has a pleasant blackcurrant flavour which encourages children to finish the course. It comes in two strengths for children: 125mg and 250mg.

Children get on well with Ceporex Syrup Ceporex safety

Considering its efficacy and the relative freedom from side effects, we conclude that it is as good a drug as penicillin G and certainly is a valuable addition to the therapeutic armamentarium of beta-haemolytic streptococcal infections in children."

(89 children wit beta-haemolytic streptococcal infections.)

"The response to therapy was uniformly good, and no significant toxic effects were encountered.'

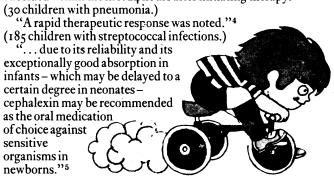

"Cephalexin appears to be a highly effective drug in the treatment of bacterial pneumonias of older infants and children who are able to take oral medication. The drug has the added advantage of low toxicity.

(55 children with bacterial pneumonia.)

Ceporex speed

The clinical response to cephalexin was prompt. Fever subsided within the first 24 hours after initiating therapy.'

Less side effects with Ceporex

"No side effects from cephalexin were noted. The medication was accepted without difficulty. There was no nausea, vomiting or diarrhoea, and no rashes were observed."²

(55 children with bacterial pneumonia.)
"We have not encountered any side effects due to cephalexin."6

(21 patients with cystic fibrosis.)
"Tolerance of the drug was satisfactory with absence of nausea, vomiting or diarrhoea."3 (30 children with pneumonia.)

The changing background of diuretic therapy

...in congestive cardiac failure

Diuretic therapy

The traditional approach to C.C.F. was rest, digitalis to improve cardiac function, and a diuretic to reduce oedema. The diuretic could be mild, moderate or potent, according to the doctor's judgement.

The problem of potassium loss

Under diuresis the reduction in plasma volume leads to a compensatory increase in the secretion of aldosterone. This causes reabsorption of sodium and water in exchange for potassium. The result is a feeling of general ill-health in the patient, and a growing risk of digitalis intoxication.

Diuretic with potassium supplements

To moderate the effects of potassium loss doctors have tried supplemental potassium, in the hope that the extra potassium ingested might compensate for that being excreted.

Is the problem solved?

Unfortunately this has shortcomings. Extracellular potassium is easily replaced, but if the intracellular levels have been disturbed the problem of correction is extremely difficult. Without constant electrolyte checks potassium supplements are at best a hit or miss solution, and the long-term risk of bowel ulceration can never be ignored.

• The role of spironolactone . . .

to supplement and enhance the effectiveness of your chosen diuretic.

To obviate many of the hazards already mentioned more and more doctors are now adding Aldactone-A to the initial regimen of digitalis and a diuretic. By its unique action Aldactone-A effectively reduces potassium loss caused by conventional diuretics, and eliminates the need for potassium supplements.

Aldactone-A will combat the effects of diuretic-induced secondary aldosteronism. By its synergism with the more proximally acting diuretic Aldactone-A will provide a smooth, increased diuresis, with the later possibility of a reduction in diuretic dosage.

Used from the start of therapy, Aldactone-A will:—

- Reduce the long-term hazards of thiazide therapy e.g. drug-induced diabetes, gout.
- Not normally allow refractory states to develop.
- Eliminate the need for potassium supplements.
- Avoid the "washed out" feeling common to so many patients on long-term diuretic therapy.
- Improve the long-term prognosis.

It is almost totally absorbed 1 – 80% in one hour. 2 It has unusual capacity to penetrate tissue³ giving it a distinct clinical advantage in stubborn infections such as otitis media, sinusitis and bronchitis. It has a range of activity exceeding that of ampicillin, erythromycin, cephalexin, and the new antibacterial/sulphonamide mixtures. It is, unlike the penicillins, effective against L-forms and Mycoplasma pneumoniae. And finally, fewer than 1% of 2,290 patients taking it experienced diarrhoea.4

Actifed and Space age Medicine

The astronaut above is about to be subjected to G-forces in a massive centrifuge. In these situations it was thought that G-forces might restrict astronauts from performing vital tasks. To overcome this, an ingenious device which bounces light into the eye, can be made to actuate a switch or system, whenever the pupil crosses the path of the beam. This sight switch has already been adapted to help paraplegics to help themselves.

In the space programme, medical benefit has been a two-way exchange. Of the medicines taken on Apollo flights, ACTIFED* has been repeatedly chosen as the decongestant. Chances are you have over 100 Psoriatics on your list... ...Alphosyl could help them.

A great many people in Britain suffer from Psoriasis. On average, more than 100 for every G.P. in the country. And that's why every G.P. should know about Alphosyl.

Alphosyl Lotion is the most widely prescribed treatment specifically for Psoriasis. Patients get complete clearing or a marked improvement without systemic reactions, without uncomfortable restrictive dressings and without serious side effects or contraindications.

Alphosyl Lotion is the primary treatment, for use all over the body. And its effectiveness is backed up by the Cream and Application PC. The Cream is particularly effective in the intertrigenous areas, and Application PC removes scales from the scalp and prepares the head for treatment with the Lotion.

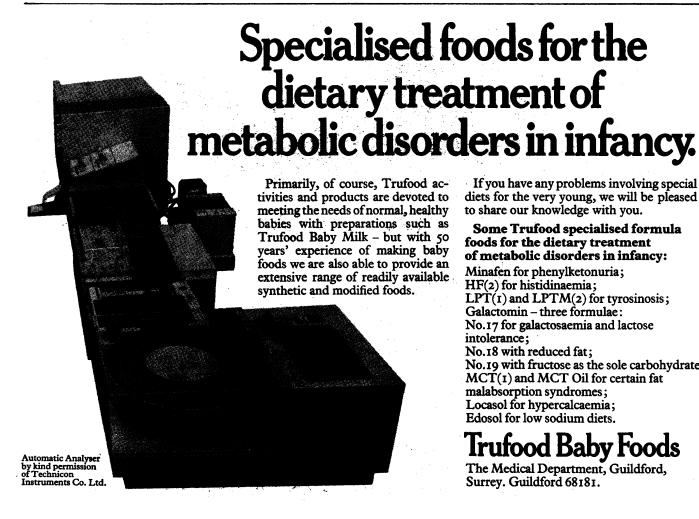

Alphosyl therapy (Lotion, Cream and Application PC) can be adjusted to suit the patients individual needs . . . or preferences.

Alphosyl is available as a 5% refined alcoholic extract of coal tar and allantoin $(2^{\circ}/_{\circ})$ in a Cream and Lotion. Alphosyl Application PC is a unique combination of coal tar extract (5%)and hexachlorophane (1%).

Day after day of freedom from asthmatic attack

The unique mode of action of disodium cromoglycate offers the asthmatic patient outstanding benefits. A prophylactic treatment, it prevents the onset of asthmatic episodes - thus minimising long-term damage to lung tissue. Freedom from asthma attacks permits a happier, more normal life for the asthmatic patient.

Published clinical reports confirm that with INTAL COMPOUND, the incidence and severity of acute attacks is considerably reduced – even in patients on conventional therapy such as bronchodilators, antihistamines and corticosteroids. Less time is lost from work or school, exercise tolerance is improved and a consistent clinical comment on disodium cromoglycate has been the total absence of serious side effects.

INTAL COMPOUND - supplied in SPINCAPS (each containing 20 mg disodium cromoglycate, and 0·1 mg Isoprenaline Sulphate BP in powder form, together with an inert carrier). For use in a special insufflator - SPINHALER.

What important developments are there in General Practice? Does the General Practice Team work successfully? What is the Family Doctor's future role in the Hospital Service? These and other questions are answered in The New General Practice 2 which, published two years after the first volume in this series, also deals with topics such as the use of computers, plans for the new towns, and Scandinavian developments in general practice. This second volume contains 27 articles published in the B.M.J. in the last two years. The introduction has been written by Professor J. D. E. SERVICES

• Are you in your Pre-Registration Year

-or recently fully registered?

Before you commit yourself to your permanent pattern of life, consider what the Royal Air Force has to offer.

The chance to practise total medical care, as a GP

Your first job would probably be a Junior Medical Officer on a large RAF Station. There would be at least one other doctor. Between you, you would have a 'list' of 2000 to 3000 people—servicemen and their families. You would meet all the usual clinical problems of a GP—and get plenty of experience in pediatrics. As well as this, you would be actively involved in the practice of aviation medicine and gain experience in the preventive, occupational and social fields.

Conditions of work are extremely good. You would have a consulting room in a specially built Medical Centre—like a small hospital with its own treatment room, theatre and resuscitation room, and wards for a dozen or so short-stay patients. There is a full secretarial and nursing staff. Your clinical freedom would be absolute.

The chance to specialise, too

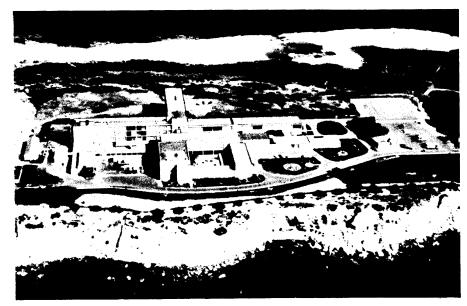

Because General Practice is so highly developed in the RAF, this does not mean you have no chance to specialise. The contrary is true. 47% of all RAF doctors are now working in specialist departments. On a 'full career' contract you have every opportunity to reach consultant status in your late or middle thirties—perhaps earlier.

The chance to study for higher qualifications

Any RAF doctor, whether specialist or GP (as long as he is not on the very shortest of contracts) can apply for six months study leave on full salary. On a permanent commission, he may have up to two years external study leave.

The chance to travel

The RAF operates in many different conditions and climates. Abroad, the RAF doctor looks after RAF personnel and their families and, very often, the local population as well. Your gain in clinical experience would be marked.

The RAF hospital at Akrotiri, Cyprus. It has 130 beds and can be adapted to accommodate up to 250. Here are a few figures for 1970: admissions, 4041, with an average length of stay of 11 days; X-Rays, 10,857; path lab tests, 53,703; anaesthetics, 2035. Medical staff is 22 doctors, 31 nurses, 25 nursing auxiliaries. The hospital has specialist departments of surgery, orthopaedic surgery, medicine, gynaecology and obstetrics, pathology, dentistry, neuropsychiatry, radiology and anaesthetics; and, in the tamarisk trees by Dreamers' Bay, perhaps the most beautiful location of any hospital, anywhere.

The chance of a good social and family life and family life

The RAF is a young community, with a full and active social life. There are facilities for almost every kind of sport and, which is most important, the time to enjoyyour family whileyou are still a young man. Living conditions are excellent. If you are single you live in the Officers' Mess, which has all the amenities of a good hotel. If you are married, you will nearly always have a furnished house that goes with the job; rent for this is very modest; and it can save a large financial outlay at the beginning of your career.

A realistic pay scale

Pay is based on the average earnings of a civilian GP. Immediately after full registration, the present basic salary is £3395; after 5 years it rises to £4106; after 13 years to £5110. There are various other allowances; for instance, with children at boarding school the figures are £330 (net) for one child, £723 (net) for two children, £1194 (net) for three children. There are tax-free gratuities of £1500 after 3 years, or £3000 after 5 years. After service of 16 years or more there is a pension, payable for life, and a generous terminal grant.

For full information please write, giving your age, nationality, and date of full registration, to Group Captain J. G. Donald, MB, ChB, DTM&H, RAF, Ministry of Defence, 1-6 Tavistock Square (724KC2), London, WC1H9NL. Or visit your nearest RAF Careers Information Office.

Overseas Development

The provision of skilled manpower is a vital element in Britain's aid to the developing countries. Your professional skills will be welcome and you will have the satisfaction of doing a challenging, responsible and worthwhile job. The emoluments shown are based on basic salary scales and allowances. Terms of service usually include free family passages, paid leave, education grants, subsidised accommodation and terminal gratuities. Which patients benefit most from Floxapen?

Young patient aged 4 Sore throat, temperature 101.4; "Pharyngitis, may develop into quinsy."

Elderly patient aged 73 Deep seated infection of knee which had failed to respond to penicillin G and tetracycline.

Diabetic aged 29 Presents with infected wound on left foot. "Only seemed a scratch at first," she says. You notice extensive reddening around the area.

You can recognise in your practice the patients who will most benefit from Floxapen, Beecham's new penicillin.

Patients who need a more effective antibiotic, in whom the risks of infection are greatest or where the consequences of inadequate treatment are serious. The young and elderly, diabetics, asthmatics, patients suffering severe infection, patients on steroids or recently discharged from hospital and those with a history of treatment failure, will all benefit from Floxapen's extra margin of activity.

Floxapen's absorption is unique in that both oral and injectable preparations achieve similarly high blood levels at a simple dose of 250 mg q.i.d.

Floxapen offers the traditional penicillin advantages of low toxicity and bactericidal action against streptococci, pneumococci, and staphylococci.

Moreover it destroys staphylococci resistant to other penicillins, which present an increasing problem in General Practice.
