

Penbritin

Territory

Penbritin destroys the bacteria which commonly cause otitis media and upper respiratory infections. Its spectrum of activity includes streptococci—now less sensitive to tetracyclines than they were—and Haemophilus influenzae. This pathogen often causes otitis media in the young and is insensitive to oral penicillins V and G.

Penbritin's decisive bacteria-destroying action, so important in treating infections in children, contrasts with the tetracyclines and erythromycins which merely inhibit bacterial growth.

As a penicillin Penbritin has a well-documented record of safety. In contrast it has been suggested that tetracyclines are "absolutely contra-indicated for children aged under 8" because of serious effects on tooth development.

(Brit. med. J. (1970), 4, 509).

Acceptability is important in choosing an antibiotic for children. Penbritin syrup, paediatric tablets and the new paediatric suspension are extremely acceptable to the young. And at the normal children's dosage, Penbritin syrup's N.H.S. cost is just 8½p a day.

Usual children's dosage: 125mg. q.i.d. ½ – 1hr a.c.

Contra-indication: Penicillin hypersensitivity.

Side effects: As with other penicillins.

three faces of Valium* Roche

1 Valium Roche in simple anxiety

Anxiety may be a physical, as well as an emotional state. Often, it presents as a rather bizarre pattern of largely physical symptoms, things like headache, 'dyspepsia', insomnia, muscular pains and disturbances of appetite.

Hundreds of clinical trials, involving tens of thousands of patients in almost every country in the world have shown that Valium Roche affords remarkable symptomatic relief in such cases, 'curing' a long list of apparently intractable physical symptoms.

2 Valium Roche in psychosomatic illness

Sometimes, anxiety disturbs physiological or bio-chemical function to the point of producing functional or structural disorders. Such conditions take on a life of their own and demand – in addition to the relief of anxiety – active, specific treatment.

In such cases Valium Roche curbs anxiety and – coupled with specific treatment – helps to ease or eradicate a long list of conditions involving the skin, gastro-intestinal tract, the heart and circulation, the muscles and the organs of reproduction and excretion.

3 Valium Roche in organic disease

Even patients whose clinical condition is clearly organic can become excessively anxious. When they do, the anxiety and its physical effects may hinder recovery or – in conditions like myocardial infarction – amount to a major complication.

Valium Roche has been used in many such cases. Invariably, it produces a sharp improvement in the patient's emotional outlook and attitude. Where anxiety has produced an increase in sensations of pain or discomfort Valium Roche can afford dramatic relief from organic symptoms.

* The Metabolic Factors

Brit. med. J., 1971, 2, 67.

'Slow-wave sleep (stages 3 and 4), often considered 'worth more' than stages 1 and 2 (Dement and Greenberg, 1966) is now thought to be an obligatory condition for the large nocturnal secretion of growth hormone (Sassin et al, 1969a, 1969b). Growth hormone is a lipolytic agent (Fain et al, 1965; Hunter, 1968), and the possibility arises that fenfluramine might partly reduce weight by an action on the brain that leads both to slow-wave sleep increase and to growth hormone secretion increase . . . First results of some current experiments strengthen our expectation that serial blood samples during sleep contain higher growth hormone levels during fenfluramine intake with weight loss.'

Lancet, 1969, I, 498.

'From the analysis of the blood samples, the elevated plasma free fatty acids, glycerol, and ketone levels, and the reduced triglyceride levels suggest that in man, fat mobilisation is enhanced and lipid synthesis is reduced by fenfluramine.'

S.A.M.J. Supplement, 19th June, 1971, p.22.

'During human forearm perfusion fenfluramine had a biphasic effect on glucose uptake by skeletal muscle. There was a prompt increase in glucose uptake, which disappeared after ninety minutes, coinciding with release of free fatty acids from both muscle and adipose tissue. The disappearance rate of glucose injected intravenously (K value) was accelerated by fenfluramine, provided free fatty acid release had not occurred.'

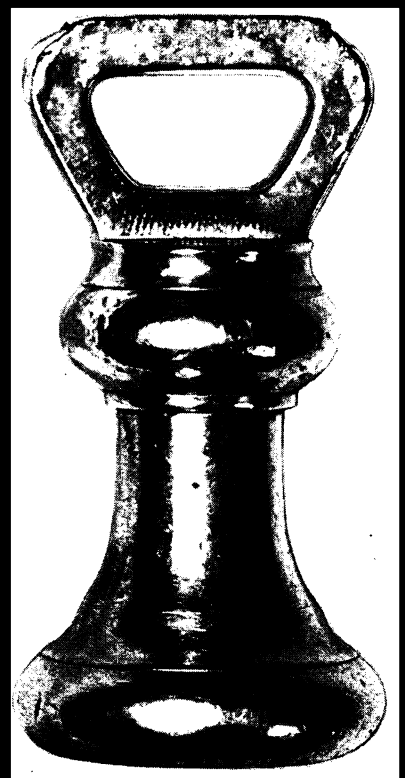

S.A.M.J. Supplement, 19th June, 1971, p.30.

'Fenfluramine alone for five weeks without dietary restriction produced an improvement in glucose tolerance and a decrease in insulin secretion from fourteen to fifty per cent during the oral glucose tolerance test (OGTT), in five out of six non-diabetic subjects who were from ten to thirty per cent overweight.'

S.A.M.J. Supplement, 19th June, 1971, p.28.

'Fenfluramine (Ponderax), an anti-obesity agent, increases muscle uptake of glucose (Butterfield and Whichelow, 1968) and promotes fat mobilization, decreasing triglyceride levels and increasing NEFA (Pawan, 1969). It might, therefore, be expected to reduce or reverse the biochemical abnormalities found in patients with arterial disease.'

FENFLURAMINE

* The Lack of Stimulation

J. Pharm. Pharmac., 1967, 19, 338.

'These findings indicate that fenfluramine in therapeutic doses does not influence the critical flicker frequency, and this is in keeping with the clinical absence of central stimulation associated with its use.'

J. New Drugs, 1966, 6, 123.

'Stimulation was common in the phenmetrazine group whereas sedation was seen with fenfluramine. There was a slight lowering of blood pressure in the fenfluramine groups.'

Presse Médicale, 1965, 4, 181.

'The dosage used was 60 mg. day in adults and 20-40 mg./day in children. This was maintained for one month, then depending upon whether or not the bodyweight had returned to normal, the dosage was retained or diminished. In some cases a daily diet of 900-1,000 calories was prescribed. A calimative effect was noticed in all patients after one or two months' treatment.' (Translated from original French)

Brit. J. Psychiat., 1969, 115, 963.

'Patients who had predominantly symptoms of anxiety noted relief of these symptoms by fenfluramine. Depressed patients, however, often felt rather more depressed on fenfluramine.

Side effects, mainly lethargy and diarrhoea, occurred in ten of thirty-five patients who received fenfluramine. It was concluded that fenfluramine was the anorectic of choice for the tense and anxious obese patient.'

* The Lack of Abuse Risk

Brit. med. J., 1971, 2, 70.

'Young drug-takers in London seem not to choose fenfluramine according to Hawks (1970), of the Addiction Research Unit, Institute of Psychiatry (confirmed by personal communication, Hawks, 1971). Amphetamine addicts do not credit fenfluramine with effects qualitatively similar to those of amphetamine (Gotestam and Gunne, 1971). Isolated reports of young persons who have experimented with fenfluramine above the recommended dose indicate that their experiences were unpleasant (Brandon, 1969; Riley et al, 1969).'

S.A.M.J. Supplement, 19th June, 1971, p.32.

'Twenty-two amphetamine dependent subjects, all imprisoned drug abusers, were used for evaluation of the subjective effects of two weight-reducing drugs, AN. 448 and fenfluramine, in a double-blind study with cross-over design.

After administration of AN 448 there was an increased number of responses rated as 'similarity to amphetamine' compared with placebo. The self-rating of CS effect, however, did not differ from placebo following AN. 448. Fenfluramine was without effect in both ratings: CS effect and 'similarity to amphetamine'.

S.A.M.J. Supplement, 19th June, 1971, p.32.

'Six amphetamine-dependent women were treated for their dependence using fenfluramine as a substitute. Treatment was successful in five out of the six. The single relapse was in a woman with a severely disturbed personality who was also taking other dependence-producing drugs. The rationale for treatment and side-effects are discussed.

Professor Beckett: Are there any withdrawal symptoms after the use of fenfluramine?

Jones: We have not noticed any such withdrawal effects.'

When a child has a chest infection Ceporex Syrup reduces the risks and improves the results

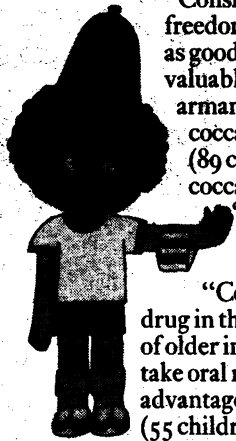

Chest infections treated with ampicillin can result in rashes or diarrhoea – risks that are particularly to be avoided when the patient is a child. Penicillin-hypersensitivity and resistant staphylococci are other problems which can complicate treatment.

Ceporex (cephalexin) is ideally suited for the treatment of chest infections. It is as effective as the penicillins against the pathogens responsible for the majority of common respiratory conditions, but produces a low incidence of side effects. In addition, Ceporex is effective against penicillin-resistant staphylococci and can normally be used safely in patients hypersensitive to the penicillins. It is well tolerated by children of all ages, including neonates. And Ceporex achieves a rapid result since it produces high blood levels within an hour of administration, penetrates the tissues quickly and is not metabolised in the body so it remains fully active to fight infection.

Ceporex Syrup has a pleasant blackcurrant flavour which encourages children to finish the course.

Children get on well with Ceporex Syrup

Ceporex safety

"Considering its efficacy and the relative freedom from side effects, we conclude that it is as good a drug as penicillin G and certainly is a valuable addition to the therapeutic armamentarium of beta-haemolytic streptococcal infections in children,"¹
(89 children with beta-haemolytic streptococcal infections.)

"The response to therapy was uniformly good, and no significant toxic effects were encountered."²

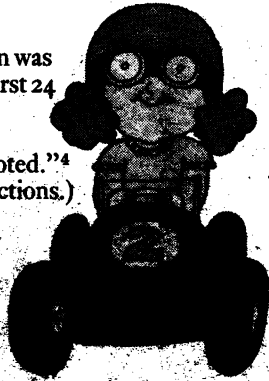

"Cephalexin appears to be a highly effective drug in the treatment of bacterial pneumonias of older infants and children who are able to take oral medication. The drug has the added advantage of low toxicity."³
(55 children with bacterial pneumonia.)

Ceporex speed

"The clinical response to cephalexin was prompt. Fever subsided within the first 24 hours after initiating therapy."³
(30 children with pneumonia.)

"A rapid therapeutic response was noted."⁴
(185 children with streptococcal infections.)

"... due to its reliability and its exceptionally good absorption in infants - which may be delayed to a certain degree in neonates - cephalexin may be recommended as the oral medication of choice against sensitive organisms in newborns."⁵

Less side effects with Ceporex

"No side effects from cephalexin were noted. The medication was accepted without difficulty. There was no nausea, vomiting or diarrhoea, and no rashes were observed."²
(55 children with bacterial pneumonia.)

"We have not encountered any side effects due to cephalexin."⁶
(21 patients with cystic fibrosis.)

"Tolerance of the drug was satisfactory with absence of nausea, vomiting or diarrhoea."³
(30 children with pneumonia.)

As a doctor, you'd be better off abroad. Or would you?

Obviously, the decision's a difficult one. Especially if you're only just about to register.

So may we suggest something?

Rather than taking up a normal practice here or leaving the country, try the Royal Army Medical Corps. And you'll get the chance to do both.

Because, for some of the time, in the RAMC you're likely to see something of the world: in Germany, Cyprus, or maybe on exercises in countries from Canada to the Far East.

You can join for 3 or 5 years. And in that time you'll not only travel, you'll also gain valuable medical experience.

You'll hold the rank of Captain. And at say 24 years of age you earn around £3395 gross p.a. On top of that, there are all sorts of allowances.

Your surgery is well equipped by the Army. And you won't just be dealing with soldiers. There are wives and children to care for, too.

What's more, you get 6 weeks' paid leave every year.

At any time during your service, you can apply to stay on for a Regular Commission. And have the opportunity of specialising. In fact, around 70% of all Regular Officers do take up post-graduate studies.

Alternatively, you can leave at the end of your Short Service Commission. All the better for the experience and for a tax-free gratuity. You get £1500 after 3 years. £3000 after 5.

So think about it. And before you decide on anything, find out more about the RAMC.

Why not visit one of our military medical establishments and see for yourself how you'd get on?

If you want full details of the career, or would like to pay us a visit and meet an RAMC Officer, telephone 01-499 8040 extension 332 or write to:

A few hard facts about ear wax solvents

In the literature regarding the efficacy of ear wax solvents conclusions have been drawn based wholly on in vitro studies but their validity in clinical practice has been questioned.

A recently published report of in vitro studies of ear wax solvents with a controlled clinical trial—probably the first carefully designed and controlled work on the subject—compared the efficacy of six widely used solvents and again confirmed the importance of in vivo studies.

Cerumol was found to be the only product significantly more effective than the control.

Small wonder that CERUMOL remains the most widely prescribed ear wax preparation.

Diseases of the Urinary Tract

One of the most rapidly growing specialties over the last few years has been that of urology. Many doctors now in practice could not have been taught much of the present-day management of many urinary tract diseases. Last year the B.M.J. published a series of "Current Practice" articles on diseases in the urinary tract, and these have now been collected together in a booklet. Beside articles on the newer aspects of the specialty, the booklet contains articles on established methods of managing renal disorders. Any doctor who wishes to bring himself up to date on modern practice in this field will find this a readable account of the important aspects of the specialty.

Peugeot introduce the 504 Estates. Sheer panache-or a new bid for space supremacy?

Let's face it, probably a bit of both.

The Peugeot 504 estate has stacks of room for whatever you have in mind. Beehives or Davenports, golf clubs or water skis, Worcester Pearmain or whatever . . . It takes up to six in comfort. Plus a comfortable 40.6 cu. ft. of usable luggage space (66.4 cu. ft. with the rear seat down!) all carried in rare splendour.

The 504 family version has an extra folding bench seat so it takes two more people! And with the third seat down there's 22.95 cu. ft. of usable luggage space. It's just the thing for expanding families - and expanding cases.

But because Peugeot know that space isn't the only thing that counts, you'll find a lot of other particularly welcome touches.

Like individual armchair seats in the front for one thing. Fully adjustable. Fully reclining. Like built-in adjustable headrests. Because Peugeot insist that you're comfortable.

You'll also see a number of luxurious features: side window de-frosting and de-misting louvres; electric windscreen washers and wipers; heated rear window; cigar lighter.

And safety belts on the front seats. All as standard.

If we appear to be talking about a lot of small details, you can take for granted all the big things that make a Peugeot a Peugeot.

You'll find the same high engineering standards you get with Peugeot saloons. And the same peace and quiet.

Our famous suspension system helps make sure of that.

If you happen to have any cobbles handy you'll see what we mean.

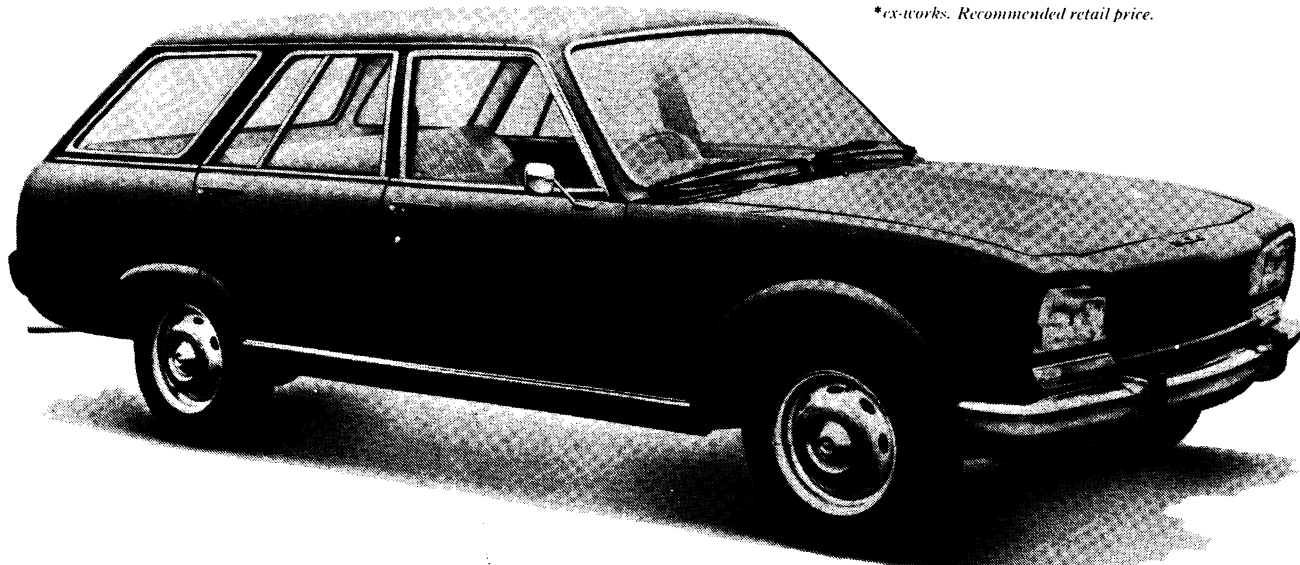

So - all in all, the new 504 estates are all you expect the 504 saloon to be. Only more so. Peugeot planned them that way. For all the family. Or whatever.

Peugeot 504 estate; 1971 c.c. 4-cylinder engine; compound double-barrelled carburettor; front wheel disc brakes.

5-6 seater estate £1,733.13. Automatic estate £1,914.37*.*

7-8 family estate £1,795.63. Automatic family estate £1,976.88*. Write or phone: Peugeot, 79-81 Uxbridge Rd., London, W.5. 01-579 5351 for a list of authorised dealers.*

SERVICES

Travel with the Navy for three years before you go into practice.

Just because you've finished your training, it doesn't mean you have to settle down into practice or a routine hospital job.

Especially when you can spend three years, as a naval doctor, seeing something of the world and getting a lot of useful experience on the way.

You'll get plenty of variety and all the responsibility you can handle. And at sea, as the only doctor on board your ship, you will find yourself having to cope with medical emergencies of every kind.

But you're more than just a doctor. Above all you are a naval officer—with the ever-changing scene and the full, satisfying life that every naval officer enjoys.

How do you become a naval doctor?

If you are in your pre-registration year or are already a qualified practitioner, you simply apply to join for a 3-year or 5-year commission. Then, if selected, you enter the Navy as a Surgeon-Lieutenant at £3,395 p.a. You are then given a short course in the special problems of maritime practice (including nuclear and underwater medicine) after which you take up your first appointment.

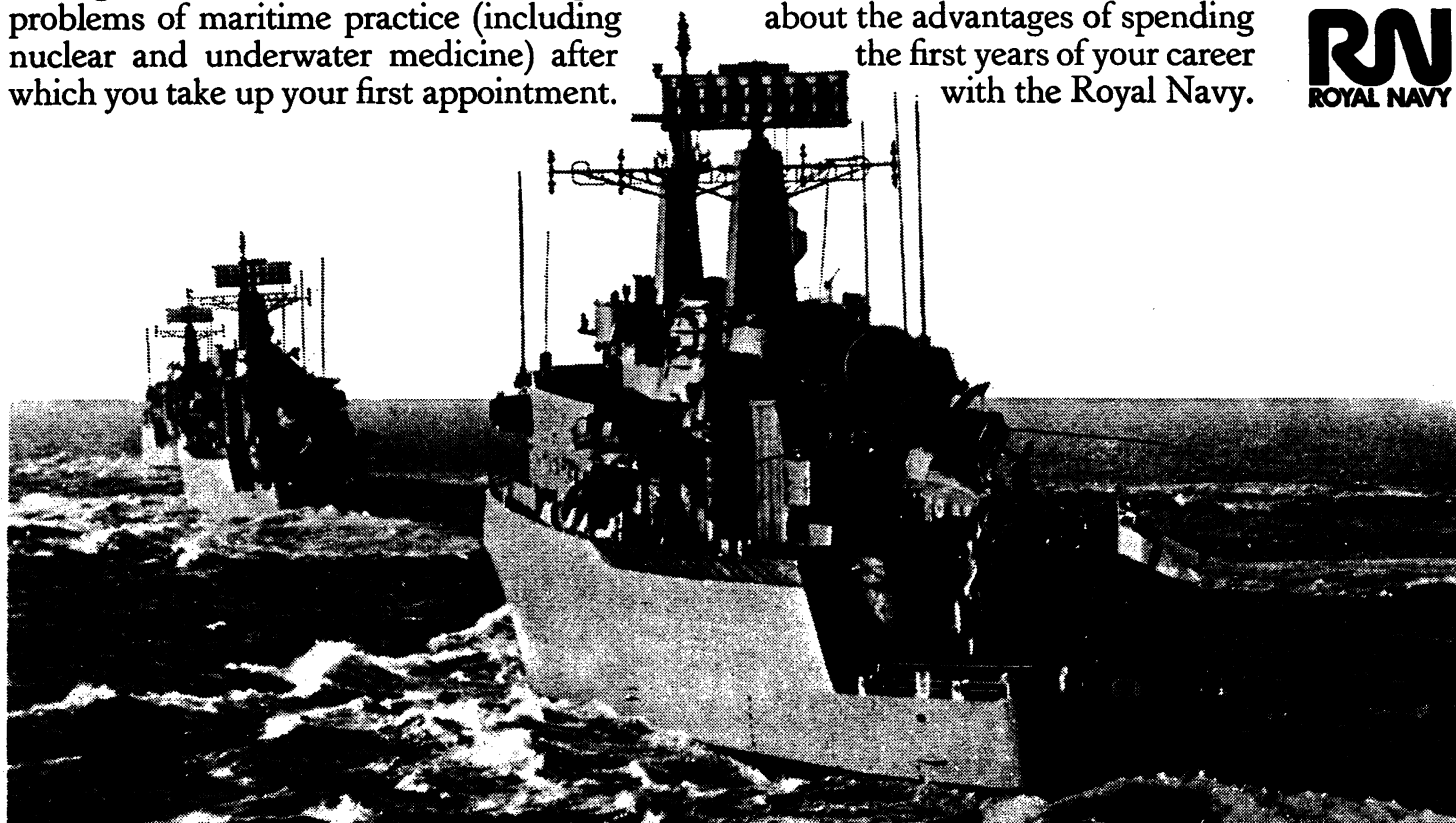

At sea, you would be looking after the health of a whole ship's company. Ashore, you may be looking after their families as well. (So we can even give you experience in obstetrics and paediatrics.)

And, at the end of your commission, you'll not only have a lot of useful experience and happy memories, but you'll also have a pretty useful tax-free gratuity. £1,500 after three years and £3,000 after five years.

Even if you're still at medical school, it's not too early to join us. Every year, we award about twenty-five Medical Cadetships to selected 2nd M.B. students. Each award pays for tuition fees and gives a salary of £1,814 a year in the rank of Surgeon Sub-Lieutenant. When you're registered, you're promoted to Surgeon Lieutenant and you begin your five-year commission.

Write now to Surgeon-Commander F. M. Kinsman, R.N., (724AA3), Dept. of the Medical Director-General (Navy), Empress State Building, London, S.W.6, and tell him your age and qualifications. In return he'll tell you more about the advantages of spending the first years of your career with the Royal Navy.

The engineering complexes on the copperbelt are among the most modern in the world.

The company is responsible for providing full medical care to its employees and their families. Its employees number over 30,000, and the total of persons to be looked after is about 150,000. Zambia is one of the most prosperous and rapidly developing of the newly independent African countries, but it still has to turn to the older countries for its medical staff (mostly to the U.K.) and there is still a lot to be done medically for its people, especially the children.

Where you fit in. N.C.C.M. Ltd. employs a staff of over 40 doctors and specialists, and approximately 147 fully qualified nurses. There are 5 well-equipped hospitals (814 beds), together with 16 clinics and 8 main first aid dressing stations.

General Duty Medical Officers will be involved in preventive and curative medicine, surgery, anaesthetics, gynaecology/obstetrics, public health and nutrition; and although the mines have a strict safety code, an amount of accident work can be expected.

Contracts may be negotiated for periods of one to three years. Locums can also often be arranged.

There will certainly be time to enjoy the almost unique facilities for recreation and social activity in an interesting African country.

Salaries will depend on experience, but the minimum is K7,200 (£4,200) per annum. In addition there is a cash settling-in allowance: a detached, furnished house with garden is provided for £1.50 per week: and children receiving secondary education overseas are granted up to £500 per child per year towards school fees and two free return passages to visit their parents during holidays.

Income Tax is lower than in the U.K. Also, Exchange Regulations allow you to send home up to 50% of gross income.

Transvasin at the summit

The summit of Annapurna 8090 metres high, was reached on 20th May 1970, by Owens and Day of the British Nepalese Army Expedition. During the 3-hour climb from Camp 5 at 7400 metres, oxygen breathing apparatus was used. The only previous ascent, by Herzog and Lachenal in 1950, took 8 hours. They had no oxygen and suffered severe frostbite, losing all their toes and Herzog his hands. The temperature at the summit for Owens and Day was -30°F .

ON ANNAPURNA the members of the British Nepalese Army Expedition chose Transvasin to relieve muscular pain. Three British climbers used it:

"One suffered badly strained back and chest muscles following involvement in an avalanche. The second developed severe intercostal fibrositis, and the third had badly bruised himself after falling 30 feet and jamming in a crevasse. Transvasin gave considerable relief to all three climbers."

Personal communication, 3rd September 1970.

Transvasin was also used with great success by many other members of the party who complained of various other aches and pains.

IN GENERAL PRACTICE too, Transvasin provides effective relief from muscular and rheumatic pains. It contains esters of nicotinic and salicylic acids which ensure a rapid hyperaemic and analgesic effect.

Available in 30 g tubes.

Basic NHS price 12½p, plus P.T.

Full information is available on request.

In future, look out for the Crooked Spire

As Manufacturers of one of the finest ranges of Surgical Dressings and kindred products in the country—including the famous Paddi Pads, Mene and Nikini feminine hygiene products—Robinsons of Chesterfield have a continuous commitment to product development and improvement.

This policy is reflected in the consistently high quality of their products—and in their growth over many years in a town at the heart of Britain's richest industrial areas.

For these reasons, Robinsons of Chesterfield have decided to adopt a corporate image for all their activities—and appropriately enough, it's Chesterfield's famous Crooked Spire. So the 'Stag' symbol—the crest of the Robinson family—which you have always associated with the Company will, in time, disappear.

Look out for the Crooked Spire sign—it's the new pointer to the quality and service you have come to expect from:
