Clinical experience with chemotherapeutic agents*

Studies of 6,500 cases treated with cephalexin

A further 5,000 patients had been treated with cephalexin and reported in the world literature since a review of more than 1,500 cases was presented to the Sixth International Congress on Chemotherapy.

The infections reported were of the urinary tract (2,238); lower respiratory tract (1,235); ear, nose and throat (892); skin and soft tissue (610); genitals (959); septicaemia (28); endocarditis (4); osteo-articular infections (87); biliary tract infections (13); peritonitis (11); and intestinal infections (45). Satisfactory responses included (a) clinical and bacteriological cure and, (b) clinical cure or marked clinical improvement without full bacteriological clearance. A summary of the results obtained with infections of urinary and lower respiratory tracts, is given in the tables below:

Urinary tract infections treated with cephalexin

Infection	Number	Per cent satisfactory response
Cystitis, acute or simple	216	92
Cystitis, chronic or complicated	105	57
Pyelonephritis, acute or simple	222	88
Pyelonephritis, chronic or complicated	440	77
Unspecified	1,255	87

*Summary of papers presented at the VIIth International Congress of Chemotherapy, Prague, August 1971.

Lower respiratory infections treated with cephalexin

Infection	Number	Per cent satisfactory response
Pneumonia/bronchopneumonia	345	91
Bronchitis, acute	134	94
Chronic bronchitis/bronchiectasis	326	87
Lung abscess/empyema	32	81
Unspecified	416	87

The presenters of the survey emphasised the need for dosage to be adequate — particularly in lower respiratory infections. A statistically significant difference had been shown in favour of using 3 G to 4 G a day compared with 2 G a day for the treatment of these infections.

In most of the acute infections treated cephalexin had given excellent results. In certain chronic infections, particularly of the lung and bone, the response was not so rapid, but when treatment had been prolonged, clinical results had been very good. The adoption of higher doses, 4 G to 6 G or more daily, had widened the scope of cephalexin in the field of severe infections such as septicaemia and endocarditis. The results so far obtained with such infections had been encouraging although the number of cases treated was relatively small.

Even when cephalexin had been used in high dosage or for long periods, the tolerance had been good. Only rarely had treatment been discontinued because of side effects. When side effects had occurred they usually had been mild, many disappearing during treatment. Changes in haematological and biological parameters had been infrequent. There had been no evidence of nephrotoxicity. Cephalexin had been used successfully and safely in patients with impaired renal function, although accumulation of the antibiotic might occur in such patients unless dosage was decreased according to the creatinine clearance.

94% success rate with cephalexin in acute bronchitis

New clinical evidence* shows that cephalexin has achieved a 94% success rate in acute bronchitis. 87% clinical success rate was also noted in chronic bronchitis and bronchiectasis. The total number of bronchitic patients treated with cephalexin was 460.

These excellent results in bronchitis were achieved with a remarkably low incidence of side effects such as diarrhoea and sensitivity rashes. And it was noted that "No cross sensitivity was seen with cephalexin in the eight patients with a history of penicillin hypersensitivity."

Cephalexin in lower respiratory infections

Research workers from Royal Northern Hospital, London, expressed the opinion, on the basis of trials they described, that cephalixin was a suitable antibiotic for lower respiratory infections requiring treatment in hospital, and for urinary infections. For the respiratory infections, daily dosages of 3 G or 4 G produced a significantly quicker response as shown by X-ray, than 2 G—without increased incidence of side effects.

Nineteen men and 16 women (aged 21 to 85 years) with chronic urinary tract infection were treated with cephalixin 500 mg six hourly for 10 days. Twenty-eight of these had abnormal excretion of leucocytes. Sixty-one per cent of Escherichia coli infections; 80 per cent of Proteus mirabilis infections, and both cases of Klebsiella pneumoniae infection were cleared at 10 days. Overall eradication of pathogenic organisms was obtained in 68 per cent of the cases. The response rate after 14 days was 23 per cent.

Fifty in-patients with lower respiratory infections were given orally 2 G cephalixin per day (group A); a further 60 in-patients were given a dosage of 3 G or 4 G daily (group B). The groups received treatment for seven to ten days, they were matched for age.

Eighty of the patients had bronchopneumonia, 58 with chronic airways obstruction. Nine patients had lobar pneumonia, and 15 chronic bronchitis with airways obstruction, in whom the superimposed infection was the primary reason for hospital admission. All received physiotherapy, and 21 with airways obstruction were given a bronchodilator. Every patient with pneumonia was treated for 10 days. Forty-nine per cent of the pneumonia patients in group A showed complete resolution of radiological signs on day seven, compared with 72 per cent of those in group B—a significant difference. On the tenth day, however, no significant difference in radiological signs was detectable between the two groups. Clinical cure (clear X-ray, sterile sputum, no fever, no leucocytosis) at 10 days was obtained in 68 per cent of the patients in group A and in 81.5 per cent in group B, the difference not being significant. Bacteriological eradication was obtained in 73 per cent of group A and 91 per cent of group B patients, the difference being significant.

No cross sensitivity was seen with cephalixin in the eight patients with a history of penicillin hypersensitivity. The antibiotic was discontinued in five patients; in one for diarrhoea and four for vomiting, but in two cases the drug was not wholly to blame since vomiting continued after its withdrawal. Generally cephalixin was well tolerated.

Ceporex cephalixin

Contra-indication

Ceporex is contra-indicated in persons who have shown hypersensitivity to cephalosporins.

Precautions

In patients treated with Ceporex, a false-positive reaction for glucose in the urine may occur with Benedict's or Fehling's solutions, or with 'Clinitest' tablets, but not with enzyme-based tests such as 'Clinistix'.

Ceporex is usually tolerated well by patients allergic to penicillin, but cross-reaction can occur occasionally.

As with other antibiotics, Ceporex should be administered with caution in patients with a history of allergy, especially to drugs. When renal function is markedly reduced, Ceporex will accumulate in the serum and tissues unless dosage is suitably reduced.

Laboratory experiments with animals and clinical experience show no evidence of teratogenicity, but as with all drugs, caution is needed during pregnancy.

Adverse reactions

A small proportion of patients receiving Ceporex may experience gastrointestinal disturbances such as nausea, vomiting, diarrhoea, anorexia and general abdominal discomfort. As with all broad-spectrum antibiotics, superinfection (sometimes monilial) can occur, and may present as vulvo-vaginitis. Reversible neutropenia has occurred in a few patients, but is very rare.

Generalised drug rashes—urticarial or maculopapular—are uncommon.

Administration and dosage

Ceporex is administered orally. Treatment should continue for at least two days after the temperature has returned to normal and symptoms have subsided. However, in chronic, recurrent or complicated upper urinary tract infections a course of at least two weeks' duration may be necessary.

When renal function is considerably impaired, the dosage should be reduced. If the creatinine clearance is 20 to 50 ml/minute, the adult dosage of Ceporex should not exceed 3 grams/day; if between 5 and 20 ml/minute, not more than 1.5 grams daily; if the clearance is below 5 ml/minute, dosage should not exceed 500 mg/day.

Patients receiving intermittent dialysis should be given an additional 500 mg of Ceporex after each dialysis, i.e., a total dosage of up to 1 gram on that day.

New facts about oral Ceporex confirm very low incidence of side effects

New clinical data on cephalixin confirms the extremely low incidence of side effects accompanying the high clinical success rate.

"Even when cephalixin had been used in high dosage or for long periods, the tolerance had been good. Only rarely had treatment been discontinued because of side effects. When side effects had occurred they usually had been mild, many disappearing during treatment."*

It all adds up to the simple fact that in acute bronchitis, you can trust Ceporex to reduce the risks and improve the results.

The changing background of diuretic therapy

...in congestive cardiac failure

Searle

G. D. Searle & Co. Ltd.,
High Wycombe, Bucks.

Full information is available on request.

● Diuretic therapy

The traditional approach to C.C.F. was rest, digitalis to improve cardiac function, and a diuretic to reduce oedema. The diuretic could be mild, moderate or potent, according to the doctor's judgement.

The problem of potassium loss

Under diuresis the reduction in plasma volume leads to a compensatory increase in the secretion of aldosterone. This causes reabsorption of sodium and water in exchange for potassium. The result is a feeling of general ill-health in the patient, and a growing risk of digitalis intoxication.

● Diuretic with potassium supplements

To moderate the effects of potassium loss doctors have tried supplemental potassium, in the hope that the extra potassium ingested might compensate for that being excreted.

Is the problem solved?

Unfortunately this has shortcomings. Extracellular potassium is easily replaced, but if the intracellular levels have been disturbed the problem of correction is extremely difficult. Without constant electrolyte checks potassium supplements are at best a hit or miss solution, and the long-term risk of bowel ulceration can never be ignored.

● The role of spironolactone . . .

to supplement and enhance the effectiveness of your chosen diuretic.

To obviate many of the hazards already mentioned more and more doctors are now adding Aldactone-A to the initial regimen of digitalis and a diuretic. By its unique action Aldactone-A effectively reduces potassium loss caused by conventional diuretics, and eliminates the need for potassium supplements.

Aldactone-A will combat the effects of diuretic-induced secondary aldosteronism. By its synergism with the more proximally acting diuretic Aldactone-A will provide a smooth, increased diuresis, with the later possibility of a reduction in diuretic dosage.

Used from the start of therapy, Aldactone-A will:—

- Reduce the long-term hazards of thiazide therapy e.g. drug-induced diabetes, gout.
- Not normally allow refractory states to develop.
- Eliminate the need for potassium supplements.
- Avoid the "washed out" feeling common to so many patients on long-term diuretic therapy.
- Improve the long-term prognosis.

Day-to-day decisions confronting the G.P.

"What is hypertension and when should I treat it? Is further investigation necessary or desirable in this patient and if so, what investigations should I as a clinician do? Which of the many drugs now available should I use to treat my hypertensive patients? Should I use drugs alone or in combination and if so, for how long?"

Dr. R. L. Parsons, Lecturer in Clinical Pharmacology at a London Teaching Hospital answers these important and fundamental questions in a 15-minute recorded lecture, which is the first in the CIBA Postgraduate Medical Educational Series.

This recording will be sent to all general practitioners in the United Kingdom during December. Watch out for your copy.

A few hard facts about ear wax solvents

In the literature regarding the efficacy of ear wax solvents conclusions have been drawn based wholly on in vitro studies but their validity in clinical practice has been questioned.

A recently published report of in vitro studies of ear wax solvents with a controlled clinical trial—probably the first carefully designed and controlled work on the subject—compared the efficacy of six widely used solvents and again confirmed the importance of in vivo studies.

Cerumol was found to be the only product significantly more effective than the control.

Let the blood flow through

In the treatment of ischaemia due to intermittent claudication, cerebral arteriosclerosis and vasospastic disorders, Bradilan® has achieved excellent results. Because Bradilan employs tetranicotinoylfructose, the molecule of which is gradually hydrolised in the intestine, release is smooth and even—with no peaks or troughs. Consequently, efficient and prolonged vasodilation is maintained, with less risk of over dilation in flush areas. For the same reason, headaches are a rare occurrence. Bradilan acts directly on vessel walls and is especially indicated when ischaemia is due to vasospasm. Ideally, treatment should be continued for at least 12 weeks so that progress can be realistically evaluated.

EDUCATIONAL

University of London London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine Department of Public Health

(Director — Professor J. N. Morris, D.Sc., F.R.C.P., D.P.H.)

M.Sc. Social Medicine

The next Academic Course leading to the degree of Master of Science in Social Medicine in the Faculty of Medicine of the University of London will start on Oct. 2nd, 1972, and extend over two calendar years. The Course provides professional training for doctors wishing to specialize in social and community medicine and follow careers in

HEALTH SERVICES ADMINISTRATION or TEACHING AND RESEARCH

The training has been designed to fit the graduate for administrative posts in the reorganised National Health Service (1974), including the development of its information systems. There is a serious shortage of university teachers of social medicine which it is hoped that the Course will also help to meet.

The Course includes the study of statistics and epidemiology; social and behavioural sciences; the principles of management; social service planning and innovation. It aims to integrate theoretical and practical aspects of major issues in preventive medicine and medical care. During the second year each student will be attached to an academic or service unit in order to gain practical experience particularly in the application of epidemiological methods to problems in the field.

Applicants must be medically qualified with preferably three years' clinical experience post-registration.

A number of bursaries at the level of registrars' or senior registrars' emoluments are available to suitable candidates from the Department of Health and Social Security, and others from the Medical Research Council.

It may be possible to arrange for graduates coming straight from clinical work to spend several months with a Regional Hospital Board before the beginning of the Course, if they so wish.

Further details and application forms may be obtained from the Registrar (L), London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine, Keppel St. (Gower Street) London WC1E 7HT to whom applications for admission should be addressed before March 1st, 1972.

Betnovate is better. So is she.

Dermatitis: all the better for Betnovate

Dermatitis is ugly. It causes embarrassment, especially in public. Betnovate saves embarrassment.

Dermatitis patients respond better to Betnovate than to other topical steroids. This was demonstrated in two clinical trials,^{1,2} involving 916 patients and comparing Betnovate with five other leading topical steroids.

Their findings included:

"... whenever preferences were expressed, there were always more for betamethasone 17-valerate than for the other corticosteroids."¹

"Betamethasone 17-valerate was statistically superior to the other topical corticosteroids in fourteen of the twenty separate subdivisions of the trial; in no instance was it inferior."¹

"A better response is more likely with betamethasone 17-valerate than with any of the other corticosteroids tested."¹

"... response in psoriasis is a more stringent test of the efficacy of a corticosteroid than response in eczema. The superiority of betamethasone 17-valerate in this context is noteworthy."²

Betnovate gives rapid relief from itching and inflammation and thus achieves the best response. In dermatitis it's the one thing to remember because Betnovate is the most effective steroid you can prescribe.

An M&B Medical Product

Penbritin Territory

Penbritin destroys the bacteria which commonly cause upper respiratory infections and otitis media. Its spectrum of activity includes streptococci—now less sensitive to tetracyclines than they were—and Haemophilus influenzae. This pathogen often causes otitis media in the young and is insensitive to oral penicillin V and G.

Penbritin's decisive bacteria-destroying action, so important in treating infections in children, contrasts with the tetracyclines and erythromycins which merely inhibit bacterial growth.

As a penicillin Penbritin has a well-documented record of safety. In contrast it has been suggested that tetracyclines are "absolutely contra-indicated for children aged under 8" because of serious effects on tooth development.

(Brit. med. J. (1970), 4, 509).

Acceptability is important in choosing an antibiotic for children. Penbritin syrup, paediatric tablets and the new paediatric suspension are extremely acceptable to the young. And at the normal children's dosage, Penbritin syrup's N.H.S. cost is just 8½p a day.

Usual children's dosage: 125mg. q.i.d. ½—1 hr a.c.

Contra-indication: Penicillin hypersensitivity.

Side effects: As with other penicillins.

Further information is available on request.

Penbritin The right-first-time antibiotic for infections in children
