

A burning problem.

Now from Beecham: an oral penicillin specifically for Urinary Tract Infections.

Urinary tract infections are rarely as simple as they seem. Patients with renal infection may present with no symptoms other than dysuria and frequency. And management is very often complicated by relapse and recurrence.

Now Beecham have introduced Uticillin, a powerful oral penicillin indicated specifically for the treatment of urinary tract infections such as cystitis and pyelonephritis. Uticillin will successfully treat 9 out of 10 patients first time, with a reduced risk of relapse.

Uticillin has the inherent safety of penicillin. Unlike many urinary antibacterials, Uticillin can be prescribed both in pregnancy and when the possibility of pregnancy must be considered.

And the dosage is simple to remember, 1 tablet three times a day.

Uticillin. The decisive answer to acute and chronic urinary tract infections.

Adult dosage: Simple urinary tract infections, 1 tablet (500 mg) t.i.d.

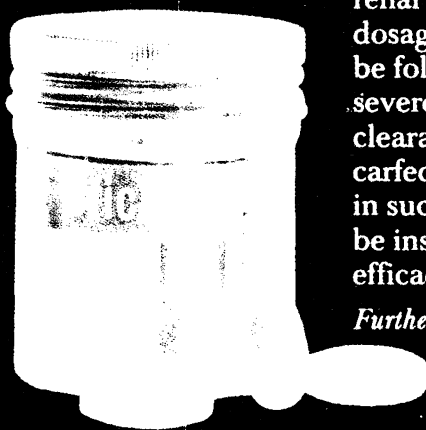

Complicated and recurrent urinary tract infections, 2 tablets (1g) t.i.d.

Contra-indication: Penicillin hypersensitivity.

Side-effects: As with other penicillins.

Precaution: In mild and moderate degrees of renal impairment, the normal dosage recommendations should be followed. In patients with severe renal failure (creatinine clearance of 10 ml/min or less) carfecillin is not recommended; in such patients urine levels may be insufficient for therapeutic efficacy.

NEW from

Cardiovascular Research

For angina. For hypertension.

Merck Sharp & Dohme is pleased to announce the introduction of Blocadren — a significant product of original research which provides practitioners with an effective pharmacological method of managing the long-term clinical effects of angina and hypertension, while permitting most patients to live a more normal life-style.

Introducing a new beta-adrenergic blocking agent.

One strength tablet. Same average daily dosage. For hypertension. For angina.

For the patient with angina— restricted by pain

A world-wide double-blind co-operative study was conducted by 29 investigators. Three hundred and seven patients completed the study.

Fewer anginal attacks

Patients receiving 'Blocadren' showed a drop from an average of 12 anginal attacks per week to under 4 attacks per week. Compared to placebo, twice as many patients on 'Blocadren' were free of anginal attacks (30% vs 13%).

Less severe anginal attacks

Investigators reported either no anginal episodes or only mild episodes in 67% of patients treated with 'Blocadren'.

Reduced intake of glyceryl trinitrate

Patients receiving 'Blocadren' showed a reduction from a pretreatment average weekly intake of glyceryl trinitrate 10.6 tablets to 3.2 tablets at the completion of the study. Compared to placebo, twice as many patients on 'Blocadren' had no need for glyceryl trinitrate (39% 'Blocadren' vs 19% placebo).

Stress tolerance improved

Patients receiving 'Blocadren' required significantly more stress to produce an anginal attack than did the patients receiving placebo (Week 28; $p < 0.01$).

Remarkable overall response

Good to excellent response was reported in 71% of patients treated with 'Blocadren', compared to only 26% of patients on placebo.

For the patient with hypertension— an asymptomatic risk

The asymptomatic hypertensive patient is 'at risk' for two reasons: side effects of medication may cause him to discontinue therapy, and inadequate control may result in progressive organ damage. 'Blocadren' can help remedy both problems.

Effective in 4 out of 5 patients

Clinical effectiveness was confirmed in 80% of patients treated with 'Blocadren' in a world-wide double-blind co-operative hypertension study.

Significant reduction in diastolic pressure

The average of the co-operative study and five other studies showed that 4 out of 5 patients responded with significant reduction in pressure (defined as a reduction of 10 mm Hg or more, or a drop to 90 mm Hg, in supine diastolic pressure). Percentage of patients responding in individual studies ranged from 64 to 94%.

Used safely with thiazide

In another study, 'Blocadren' was safely administered to 24 patients concurrently with hydrochlorothiazide.

One major product for two major problems.

'Blocadren' is supplied as half-scored 10 mg tablets. NOTE: As with all beta-adrenergic blocking agents, there are important contra-indications to the use of 'Blocadren', particularly congestive heart failure, allergic rhinitis, bronchospasm, and asthma. Measurement of reversibility of bronchospasm...

VENTOLIN SETS A HIGHER STANDARD IN BRONCHODILATOR THERAPY

"...salbutamol (Ventolin) is at present the drug against which all newer bronchodilator drugs must be compared."

(Practitioner, 1973, 211, 801)

EFFECTIVENESS. Measurement of the effectiveness of a bronchodilator drug in reversing airways obstruction can be achieved with such simple instruments as the Wright Peak Flow Meter or the more recently introduced Peak Flow Gauge. The illustration shows the Peak Flow Gauge in use.

A large number of clinical trials has clearly demonstrated again and again that Ventolin is more effective than other bronchodilators such as isoprenaline and orciprenaline, whilst more recent trials against newer bronchodilator drugs have failed to reveal any significant advantages over Ventolin in this respect.

SELECTIVITY. The high degree of selectivity of Ventolin for bronchial muscle, with therapeutic doses having no discernible effect on the heart, has been an outstanding feature of the clinical trials. In consequence, Ventolin is still the only adrenergic bronchodilator which is indicated for asthmatic or chronic bronchitic patients who also have any form of heart disease or hypertension.

A LONG DURATION OF ACTION. In the clinical trials in which the duration of action has been investigated it has been clearly shown that Ventolin, whether given by inhalation or orally, has a duration of at least four hours and usually of 6 to 7 hours.

The availability of Ventolin Spandets means that the patient with nocturnal bronchospasm can be sure of effective bronchodilatation all through the night.

VENTOLIN "... the most widely used bronchodilator drug ..." (Brit. med. J., 1973, 4, 448)

Available in a wide range of preparations to suit each individual need.

Ventolin Inhaler — for metered-dose aerosol bronchodilator therapy.

Ventolin Tablets 2mg and 4mg — for routine oral bronchodilator therapy.

Ventolin Syrup — fruit-flavoured for ready acceptability by children.

Ventolin Spandets — sustained-action tablets, particularly suitable where nocturnal bronchospasm is a problem.

Ventolin Inhaler contains salbutamol BP. All the oral preparations of Ventolin contain salbutamol BP as sulphate.

Beta-Cardone

Increased exercise tolerance.

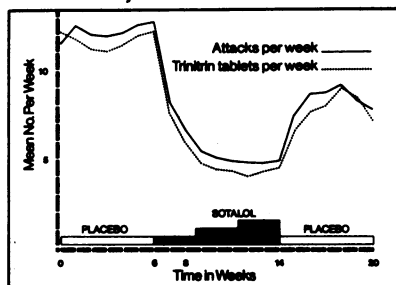

Beta-Cardone significantly prolongs the duration of exercise effort in patients with angina pectoris. The illustration below, based on six case studies, demonstrates this effect in patients exercised on a bicycle ergometer.

In this test the protective effect of Beta-Cardone was shown by a marked reduction in S-T segment depression throughout: at rest, at the point of pain, and after exercise.

Adapted from Postgrad. med. J. (1970) (Nov. Suppl.) 77

Fewer anginal attacks, reduced trinitrin dependence.

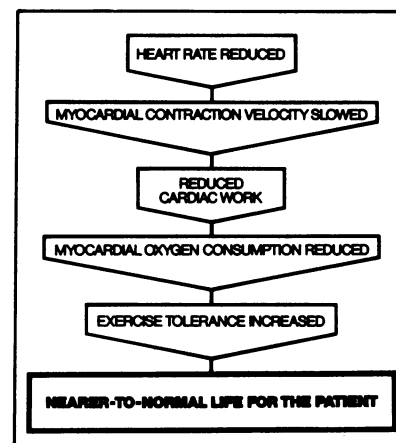

The increased exercise tolerance induced by sotalol results in fewer anginal attacks and decreased need for trinitrin. The graph summarises the results of a double-blind, crossover, multi-centre study involving 146 patients.

92% were given a dose of between 240mg and 480mg per day; 93% reported fewer attacks during sotalol therapy and 71% had a reduction of 50% or more. Compared with the baseline period, the lowered attack rate was confirmed by the parallel reduction in the usage of trinitrin tablets.

Multicentre Study in Angina. Unpublished.

Beta-Cardone helps the anginal patient to live with his condition.

The anginal patient lives under the constant threat of painful attack. Beta-Cardone, with its pure beta-blocking activity, takes him step by logical step toward the enjoyment of a less troubled, more normal life.

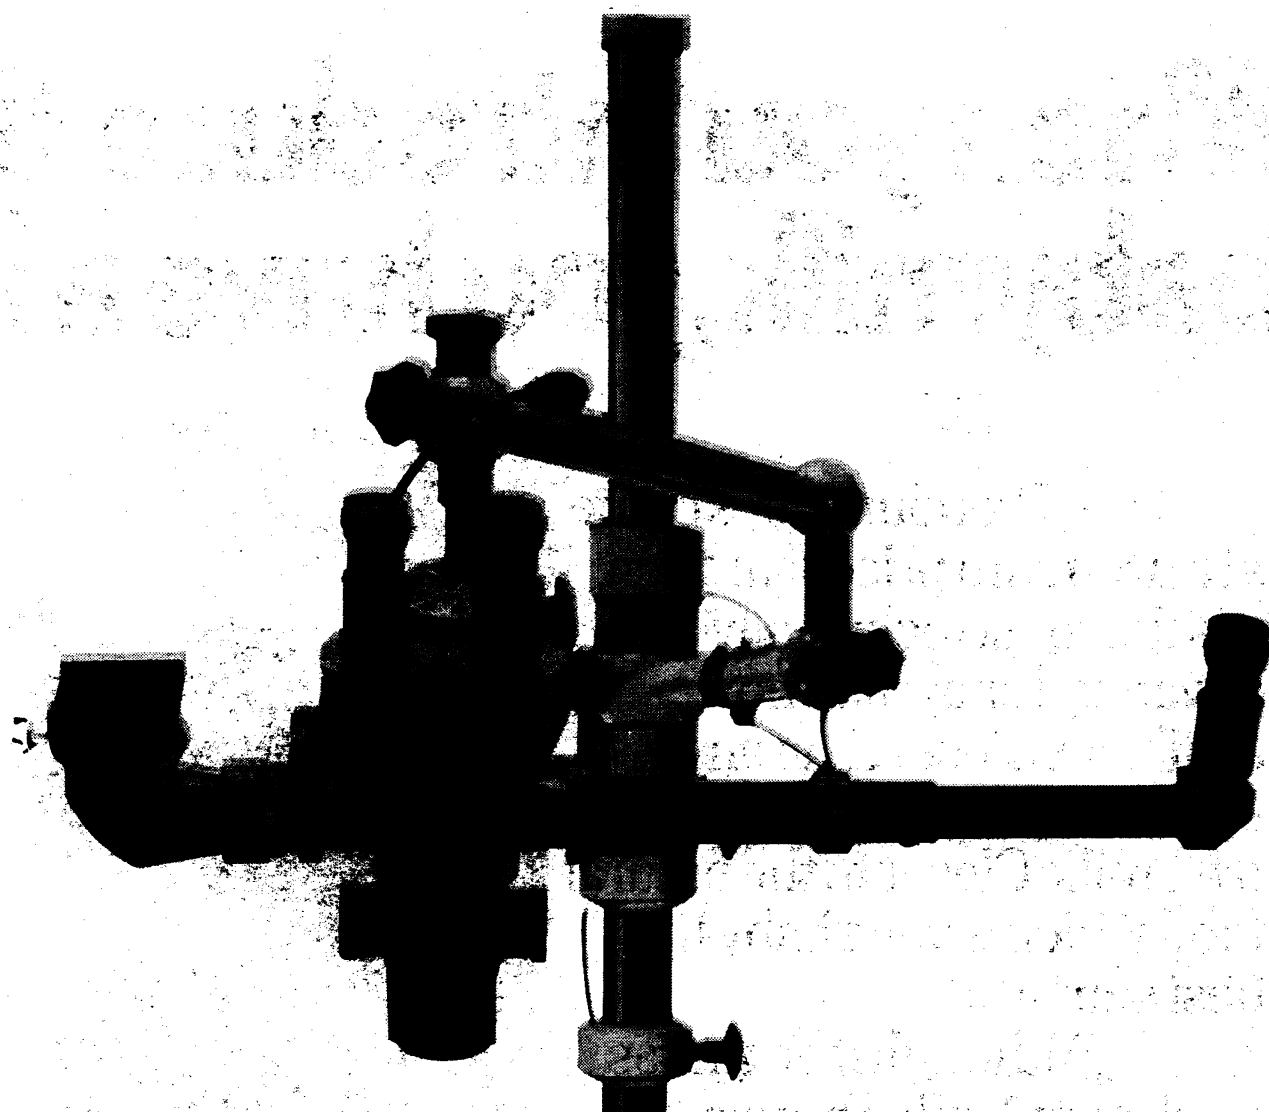

BETA-CARDONE preparations of sotalol hydrochloride are available as TABLETS 40 mg (basic NHS cost £2.93 per 100 tablet pack), TABLETS 80 mg (£4.35 per 100), and INJECTION 10 mg in 5 ml (£4.41 per 10 ampoules)

When you introduce the babymilk, you have a lot

True, Premium does come at a premium price. But, then, it is the most technically advanced babymilk now available. Closer than any other babymilk to a mother's own milk. Closer to the natural food which gives a baby the best start in life.

Although it begins as fresh cows' milk, the way Premium is modified makes it unique.

To align it with breast milk, the protein in Premium is adjusted to corresponding levels, while the casein to soluble protein ratio is similarly based.

The solute load is kept low. Sodium and potassium levels are reduced. The calcium and phosphorus ratio is regulated to provide satisfactory absorption.

most expensive of explaining to do.

Vitamin levels follow the published nutritional requirements of babies. And lactose is the sole carbohydrate.

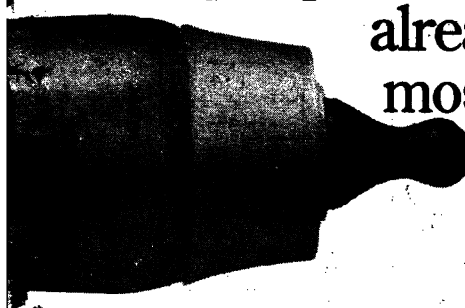

Then there are the fats, specially blended to match the fatty acid pattern so perfectly set by mother's milk.

It takes no time at all to mix Premium into the complete and naturally balanced food it is. A food that's easy to digest, that leaves babies well satisfied.

Premium helps a baby to grow sturdily, to gain weight naturally and to develop just like a breast-fed baby. For mothers who are not breast feeding, here is the best possible food they can give, when a special diet isn't prescribed.

So this is Premium. A very important step forward. A very important addition to what already is the biggest, most comprehensive baby milks range.

“Bread is a good food and, in my opinion, we should be a healthier people if present trends were reversed and we began to eat more bread and less of other foods”

Who said that? An impoverished baker? An overweight jam-butt enthusiast? Neither. In fact, it was said recently at a nutrition conference in London by an eminent medical nutritionist, Reader in Physiology at one of our leading Universities and a well-known medical author of a standard work on human nutrition and dietetics.

Nor was he trying to demonstrate any eccentricity: the same kind of observation is being made by more and more nutritionists on more and more public platforms.

“The nutrients bread supplies, particularly B vitamins, iron and calcium, are among the nutrients most likely to be lacking in other foods. Bread is, of course, a source of protein too” says Dr. Sally Parsonage, food scientist and nutrition expert writing in the journal Slimming and Nutrition.

The new-look loaf

What has changed, then? How has the schoolboys’ “filler” suddenly become a vital ingredient in the nation’s dietary needs? The answer is, nothing has changed: bread has played an important part in keeping Britain healthy for centuries, and at no time was this more evident than during the Second World War. The truth is that since the war, with increasing affluence, certain foods have gained status at the expense of others. In the process the real value of bread has been ignored, but there are increasing signs of an improved understanding.

Man cannot live by bread alone. True for bread – as for any other single food. But the fact remains that, on a dietetic level, he could have a very good try. According to the National Food Survey’s latest published figures, even on the present consumption (34·4 oz. or about 1½ large loaves per person per week) bread is a major source of essential nutrients and energy. In the average daily diet, bread and flour supply more thiamine

What do you pay for what you get?

In large population areas, the standard 28 oz. wrapped, sliced white loaf can normally be bought for 14½p or less. To keep the price down to this level, bread has been subsidised since March. Before we decide what 14½p means in terms of food value, it would be wise to consider just what that amount of money buys in other foods in nutritional terms.

(See table of Comparative Nutritional Values)

How the Government uses its loaf

Today's white loaf has been recognised by successive Governments as being vital to a nation's health. Since 1947, an independent Food Standards Committee, set up by the Government, and comprising eminent medical and scientific authorities, has regularly reviewed all the factors governing the composition of bread and flour, and sets strict standards. The latest report on bread and flour was published in May 1974.

Essential minerals and vitamins, which would otherwise be reduced in the milling of wheat into white flour, are replaced to maintain the nutrient value of every loaf sold. There is probably no item of food more carefully scrutinised by impartial experts to ensure a wholesome and nutritional product. 'Good bread' says the eminent medical nutritionist 'is an essential item in a good meal'.

Dr. Sally Parsonage goes further and writes that "A sandwich of two slices of buttered bread, 3 oz. cheese and a sliced tomato provides the same protein and vitamins as a bowl of tomato soup, 3 oz. boiled gammon, gravy, peas and a boiled potato." There's food for thought.

asthma immunisation made easy.

10,000 causes of asthma.

This bed is alive. Crawling with Dermatophagoides pteronyssinus, the common house dust mite.

The mite is found "... almost everywhere that human beings live, but particularly where they sleep".

Brit. med. J., (1969), 2, 723. It has also been identified as "... the most common cause of allergic asthma in this country, particularly in children". Brit. med. J., (1970), 2, 501.

The house dust mite is an extremely potent allergen. In fact it has been calculated that the inhalation of mite material in an amount weighing less than one whole live mite would be capable of precipitating an allergic reaction.

The mite population lives on human skin scales. Each of us sheds about 5 g. of dander a week and 0.5 g.-1 g. of this accumulates in beds and bedding, an amount which can support up to 10,000 mites. For most people, this thriving subculture means little. But to the allergic asthmatic it could mean the difference between a dream and a nightmare.

It is now firmly established that the house dust mite is one of the most important allergens in the home environment. It is the main cause of allergic asthma in many patients.

Avoidance is Impossible

In the home, it is virtually impossible to remove every trace of the mite. The ubiquitous creature exists in beds, carpets, curtains, cushions - anywhere that human beings and domestic dust come together. Even immaculate dwellings produce dust samples rich in live mites, their excreta and dead remains - all potent allergens. This is why the most effective way of controlling house dust mite sensitivity is immunisation.

Migen - for the prevention of Asthma

Migen is a new short course vaccine which immunises against the house dust mite. So it does not simply treat the symptoms of asthma - it prevents them. Immunisation against the powerful house dust mite allergen can raise the patient's overall level of tolerance. If he is multi-sensitive he may well find that he no longer reacts to contact with other allergens which have previously provoked attacks. And the stress caused by fear of attack is reduced.

Migen is the first short course treatment that gives you, the family doctor, real control over asthma.

Migen and Simplicity

There was a time when immunisation was both a complicated and lengthy business. Not so with Migen. Just six injections form a course of treatment for asthma and perennial rhinitis. With each syringe pre-filled to ensure easy administration and accurate dosage.

Migen and Safety

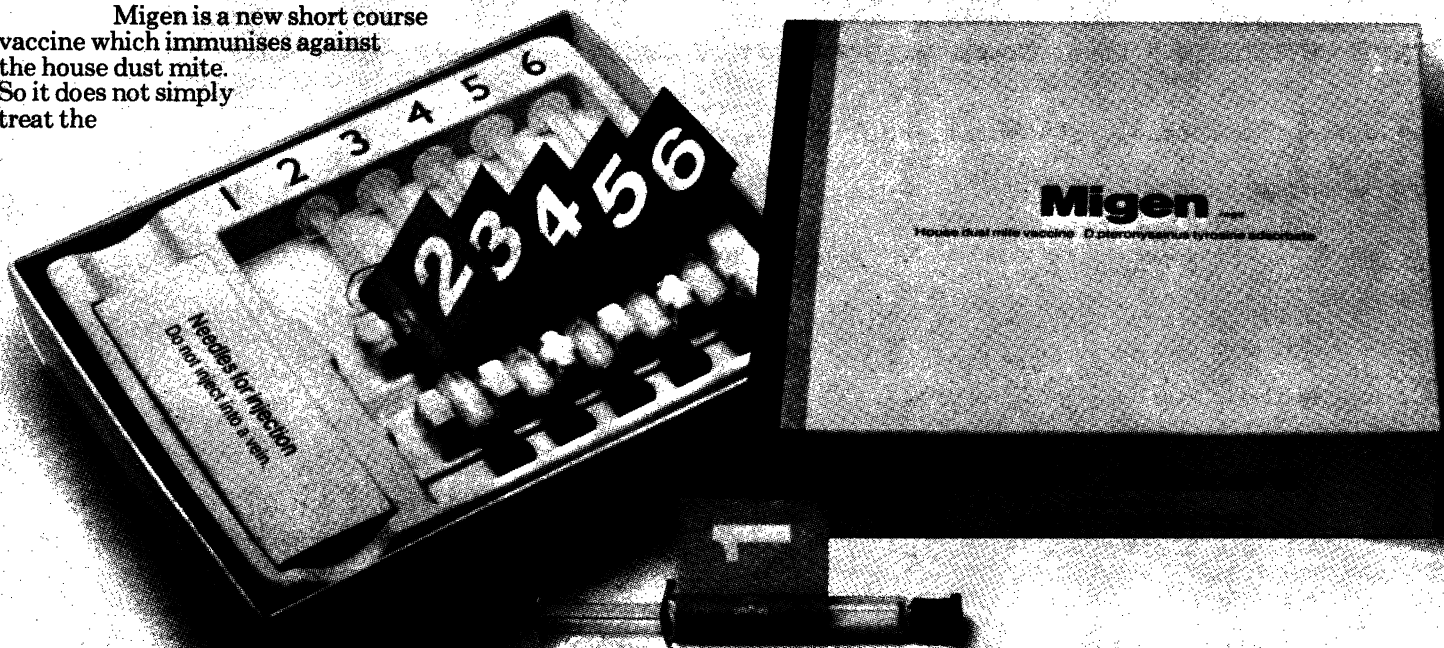

In Migen the active material is adsorbed on to tyrosine - a naturally occurring amino acid which is metabolised in the human body. The active material is therefore released slowly but completely for maximum effectiveness and minimum risk of adverse effects.

Diagnosis

Migen may usually be prescribed on the basis of a careful case history alone. A Diagnostic Aid has been devised to help identify, by case history, those patients who are most suitable for Migen treatment. If the diagnosis is still in doubt after the case study then the Migen Skin Test Kit may be used for confirmation. Both the Diagnostic Aid (which also includes notes for the guidance of patients) and the Skin Test Kit are available on request from Bencard.

Migen

Many products have been advocated for use in the treatment of asthma. Most have drawbacks that you and your patients suffer for the sake of some relief. Now Migen offers you an opportunity to treat the most common form of allergic asthma. From your surgery.

Migen Bencard

Migen is a tyrosine adsorbed vaccine prepared from pure extract of Dermatophagoides pteronyssinus. Full information on Migen (regd.) is available on request from Bencard, Freeport, Brentford, TW8 9BE.

This is what we call practising medicine.

A career in Naval medicine can be a rewarding experience. Opportunities to specialise abound. And perhaps above all else, there is an immense satisfaction to be gained from the wide variety of work you will be involved in.

At sea, for instance, you could be anywhere from the Mediterranean to the Pacific Ocean. Looking after the health and well being of the company of a modern warship.

And though you could spend as long as the first eighteen months of your five year Short Service Commission on board different ships, you need have no fear of losing contact with mainstream medicine. For no matter where you are, you will be kept informed of current medical opinion.

After this, the choice is yours. Post graduate medical training and a career in the clinical disciplines at one of our naval district general hospitals. Haslar or Plymouth, for instance, with their wide spectrum of clinical material drawn from naval personnel, their dependants and the local civilian population as well. There are also naval hospitals in Malta, Gibraltar and Mauritius, with opportunities for exchange appointments elsewhere.

Or you might prefer occupational medicine in our research orientated naval dockyards. Aviation medicine with its accent on rotary wing support of the Fleet. And for those with an administrative turn of mind, community medicine.

Royal Naval expertise in maritime medicine is recognised world wide and research into underwater medicine, nuclear medicine and the closed submarine environment is centred at the Institute of Naval Medicine at Alverstoke.

Naval general practice in well staffed and equipped medical centres extend as far afield as Hong Kong and Singapore. And new training schemes are now under way in the United Kingdom.

Should you be moved or sent abroad at any time, all expenses will be paid by us. We will help you with accommodation (at very reasonable rents) and provide allowances for the education of your children, if you have a family.

If you enter the Royal Navy immediately after registration you will be given the rank of Surgeon Lieutenant and a salary of £4,099, rising to £4,249 after four years.

On the other hand, if you are older (up to the age of forty) and more experienced, we can offer you a number of opportunities in general practice and the specialities. And, depending on your post-registration experience, you could enter as a Surgeon Lieutenant Commander at a salary of £5,161, rising to £5,658.

Then, at the end of your five year Short Service Commission you could leave with a tax free gratuity of £3,000.

But if it is mutually agreeable, you could apply for a Full Career Commission or a 16 year pensionable commission. The choice is yours.

In the meantime if you would like further information, write giving details of your age and qualifications to Surgeon Commander L.C. Banks, R.N., (724BU12) Department of the Medical Director General (Naval), Empress State Building, Fulham, London SW6.

Pyrexia Juvenilis

Symptoms: Feverish desire to get on with a career combined with a reluctance to take sensible safeguards and protect it with insurance.

The Treatment

Think how long and hard you worked to get qualified. Then you probably worked arduous hours for little money as a hospital doctor. Now, at last, it's time to blossom out and enjoy life — and the career you've really been looking forward to.

But in all the excitement, may we remind you of the responsibilities you'll have, as well as the rewards? Think how disastrous it would be if sickness or accident put you out of action for a long period. Who would pay your bills?

This is where the Medical Sickness Society can help. Our insurance plan for young doctors contains non-cancellable sickness and accident insurance which could replace a high proportion of your income if you were prevented from working for a long period. And it would go on paying you until you were back earning again. Even if the worst happened and you could never work again, it would pay you until you reached retirement age. Premiums are modest, and once you are accepted, the Society cannot cancel the insurance or increase your premium because of long or frequent claims.

In addition, the plan includes high life assurance cover at low premiums, which can easily be adapted as your needs change, without further medical evidence.

The Medical Sickness Society is a mutual society providing protection for doctors and dentists only. This specialisation gives the Society a deep insight into the medical profession's financial needs, and helps to provide a personal and continuous service.

Listen to the difference between Amoxil and other

The difference which has given significantly longer periods of relief from acute exacerbations of chronic bronchitis than tetracyclines, ampicillin and cephalosporin.¹

The difference that makes Amoxil more effective than ampicillin in the treatment of chest infections.^{1,2,3,4}

The difference which takes over where the tetracyclines have done all you can expect of them in bronchitis—

so that significantly greater relief of all clinical symptoms, can be demonstrated.⁵

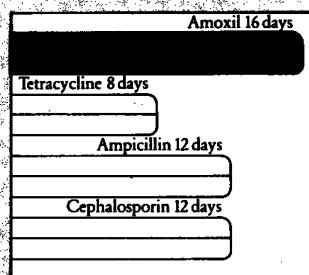

The difference that allows Amoxil to penetrate bronchial membrane barriers regardless of the degree of inflammation.⁴

The difference in absorption that means Amoxil can be taken t.d.s. with or without food—which means it is simpler for patients to take properly. To these differences must be added Amoxil's safety and the fact that it is one of the least expensive therapies for respiratory infections. No wonder doctors everywhere are recognising that Amoxil makes all the difference.

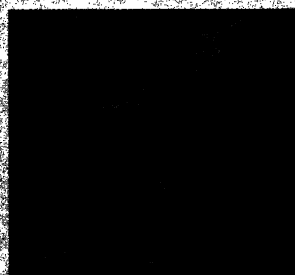

er antibiotics

6 In the cases of our severely sick in-patients, which of course cannot be compared with milder cases of out-patient practice, we found with amoxycillin [Amoxil] a clearly longer relapse rate than with other preparations.¹⁹ (These included various tetracyclines, ampicillin, chloramphenicol and cephalosporin).

6 Amoxycillin [Amoxil] was more effective than oxytetracycline when all the patients treated were considered together. Its superiority, however, was most marked in the case of the less severely affected patients, in whom the differences were highly significant.³⁹

6 The demonstration that amoxycillin [Amoxil] penetrates into bronchial secretions as efficiently when the mucosa is uninfamed as when it is inflamed, suggests that clearance of bacteria from the lower respiratory tract should be more easily accomplished with this drug than ampicillin. Further, there is the implication that organisms may be more readily cleared from the upper respiratory tract, which frequently acts as a reservoir of potential pathogens from which relapse of lower respiratory infection may stem.⁴⁹

Insomniacs are often treated for months or years with hypnotics. Yet without any real justification.¹

If sleeplessness is not relieved within the first two weeks, then it is almost certainly due to psychological disturbance — usually, if not always, depression.^{1,2} No hypnotic will resolve this.

Indeed, continued use may well actively maintain the depressive state.¹

'Surmontil', unlike hypnotics, is a complete treatment, at once powerfully antidepressant,³ anxiolytic⁴ and sedative.²

As such it provides, in once-nightly dosage, full rapid and lasting relief. From the beginning, sound, natural sleep.

From the first week on, disappearance of the causative anxious, depressed mood.

Before long, as a result, the ability to sleep unaided, allowing withdrawal of treatment.

When insomnia persists, therefore, treatment need not drag on. 'Surmontil' cures the patient, ends return visits and repeat prescriptions, saves you considerable time and trouble.

is the short answer to recurring insomnia.

THE RATIONALE FOR Hypovase^{} brand of prazosin hydrochloride ^{}Trade Mark IN ALL GRADES OF BENIGN HYPERTENSION

Hypovase is structurally unrelated to any other drug at present used in the treatment of hypertension, and was developed as the result of a carefully designed programme set up to discover a drug which would fulfil a series of ideal criteria in the treatment of hypertension.

It was postulated that such a drug would be effective in benign hypertension of all degrees of severity, and would reduce both standing and lying blood pressure, its action would be smooth and progressive in onset, no tolerance should develop to its antihypertensive effect, and it should be free from toxicity and have the lowest possible incidence of side-effects. A pre-requisite for all this would be that the drug should lower blood pressure, not by reducing the cardiac output, but by reducing the increased peripheral resistance which constitutes the fundamental pathological change in essential hypertension.

A number of drugs in current use reduce peripheral resistance, most by interfering with sympathetic nervous function, either at ganglionic or post-ganglionic level, or at the alpha-receptor sites. By its nature, this mode of action results in generalised autonomic effects, involving other organ systems, which are experienced by the patient as side-effects. In addition, the peripheral vasodilatation so produced is a generalised one, and affects the veins as well as the arterioles, so that pooling tends to occur, and orthostatic hypotension complicates treatment. Hydrallazine, the vasodilator effect of which is confined largely to the arterioles, also causes an increase in cardiac output, which may be hazardous in certain hypertensive patients, particularly those with concurrent coronary arterial disease.

One of the most important mediators of relaxation in plain muscle is cyclic 3', 5'-adenosine monophosphate (cyclic AMP). The levels of this substance in muscle are regulated by two enzymes, adenylyl cyclase, which increases the synthesis of cyclic AMP, and phosphodiesterase, which causes its degradation. Either of two mechanisms, therefore, (stimulation of adenylyl cyclase or inhibition of phosphodiesterase), can be expected to increase tissue levels of cyclic AMP and thus lead to a fall in blood pressure.

Inhibition of phosphodiesterase offered a more promising approach in the search for a new anti-hypertensive agent, particularly in the light of recent developments, which indicate that phosphodiesterase activity is increased in the arterial tissue of hypertensive rats compared with normal rats. Furthermore, a phosphodiesterase inhibitor with appropriate tissue distribution could cause vasodilatation without significant cardiac stimulation.

It was established in the course of a study of structure-action relationships, that certain chemical groupings were particularly effective as phosphodiesterase inhibitors. The most active of these was selected for further study. Tissue distribution studies, using radio-actively tagged material, showed that high concentrations of this compound were achieved in arteries and arterioles. The pharmacological action was found to be predominantly confined to the arterioles, indicating that the tissue distribution in these sites was relatively high. This compound was given the approved name prazosin (Hypovase).

Haemodynamic studies in hypertensive human patients confirmed that Hypovase produced a significant and substantial reduction in total peripheral resistance, while at the same time, there was no significant increase in heart rate or cardiac output. The central dynamics in these patients could be regarded as restored to normal.

The specificity of the vasodilator effect of Hypovase suggested that, in the absence of any venous dilatation and pooling, orthostatic hypotension would be unlikely. This was first tested in experimental animals. Dogs treated with Hypovase were suddenly changed from the horizontal to the vertical position. The effect of this in normal animals is to produce a transient fall in blood pressure, which is rapidly compensated by the action of the pressor receptors. Dogs treated with sympatholytic antihypertensive agents show a persistent fall in blood pressure, which manifests as postural hypotension. Dogs treated with Hypovase, however, showed a response similar in all respects to that of normal dogs, apart from the fact that the MAP was reduced by the drug before the change in position. No persistent fall in blood pressure below this level was produced by the change in position.

This experimental finding has been confirmed in human clinical trial, where the incidence of postural hypotension has been found to be extremely low. Clinical Trials have further demonstrated the following properties:

Hypovase reduces blood pressure smoothly in patients with all grades of benign essential and renal hypertension.

A thiazide diuretic may be added to enhance the effect.

Impotence and loss of libido do not occur.

Tolerance does not occur.

Hypovase may be given concurrently with cardiac glycosides, antidiabetic agents, anti-inflammatory/analgesic agents and uricosurics.

Hypovase reduces blood pressure without altering the cardiac output, heart rate, renal blood flow or glomerular filtration rate.

Hypovase is available as 2mg. and 5mg. scored tablets.

Heart Attacks—can they be predicted?

"The conclusion seems inescapable that the occurrence of a cardiovascular catastrophe in the hypertensive patient constitutes a medical failure rather than the first indication for treatment. Apparent medical trivia such as asymptomatic hypertension when accompanied by hypercholesterolaemia, impaired glucose tolerance, the cigarette habit or ECG abnormalities are responsible for the bulk of cardiovascular mortality. We must learn to diagnose cardiovascular disease on its way to happening, to recognise the hallmarks of increased vulnerability and to synthesize them into a composite risk estimate, and also how to deal with the cardiovascular disease precursors effectively."¹

"With a casual blood test for cholesterol and sugar, blood pressure determination, cigarette history and ECG examination, it is possible to identify a tenth of the asymptomatic population from which 25% of the coronary heart disease, 40% of the occlusive peripheral arterial disease, and 50% of the strokes and congestive failure will evolve."¹

"The Tell-Tale Heart", the title of Edgar Allan Poe's story has a second meaning for the general practitioner. The patient at risk to heart disease will often reveal this unwittingly by "Tell-Tale" signs.

First suspicions may be aroused by tobacco stained fingers, obesity, dyspnoea, raised blood pressure or a family history of heart disease. Glucose intolerance or an ECG abnormality may show at closer examination. Furthermore, a raised serum cholesterol level may also be found.

Each of the above factors significantly increases likelihood of C.H.D., the risk rising with the number of factors present.^{1,2}

A recent study proved the predictive use of these risk factors in a group of 5000 men. C.H.D. was twenty-nine times more common in the high risk group than in controls—smoking, raised cholesterol and raised blood pressure being the best predictors of C.H.D.²

Since medical opinion at present recommends reduction of these risk factors, moderation of smoking and eating habits may be advantageous. However, reduction of a major risk factor—raised serum cholesterol—is of prime importance and here therapy may be indicated with Secholex, a new palatable ion exchange gel. Taken alone, or with clofibrate, marked reductions in serum cholesterol are obtained.^{3,4,5}

In confusional states following acute febrile illness or surgery, alcoholic or drug-induced psychoses, and in peripheral neuritis associated with a malabsorption syndrome, patients should benefit from 2 days intensive intravenous administration of Parentrovite high potency B and C vitamins. After which, therapy can be continued by the intravenous or the intramuscular route for 5-7 days. This treatment rapidly assists a return to normal intracellular glucose metabolism, the consequence of which is a significant improvement in the patient's condition.

OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH (See also p. xxx.)

Attention is drawn to the British Medical Association's statement of policy on the Remuneration of Industrial Medical Officers as approved by the Representative Body, which is available on request from the Secretary.

National Coal Board Medical Service and Institute of Occupational Medicine

The Board are seeking able young doctors who are interested in making a career in occupational medicine. Candidates should preferably be under 35 years of age and have some experience in one or more of the following specialities — chest diseases, casualty surgery, dermatology, community or occupational medicine.

The range of occupational hazards in the coal industry is wide. It is, therefore, the Board's firm policy progressively to improve the working environment. The doctor's role in this work is a challenging one calling for competence both in clinical and preventive medicine.

Working in close collaboration, the Medical Service is responsible for occupational health matters in the coalfields while the Institute of Occupational Medicine in Edinburgh is the industry's research centre for medical and allied problems.

There are vacancies in the Medical Service in the Yorkshire, Nottinghamshire, Lancashire/Staffordshire and South Wales coalfields with a further vacancy at the Institute of Occupational Medicine. It is envisaged that the successful candidate for the research post would probably work for two or three years on a specific project with the likelihood of obtaining a higher qualification and then transfer to the Medical Service. There is also the chance for a suitable candidate appointed to the Medical Service post to move at a later date to the Institute for a period.

Full training in occupational medicine will be given in all posts. In addition to close personal supervision of training within the mining industry, the Board will arrange for study periods averaging a month in each of the first three years. It would be expected that candidates should obtain the Diploma in Industrial Health or some higher qualification in this period.

The salary on appointment is likely to be between £4500 and £5000 depending on age and experience, but the range extends to £6150. For the able man there are excellent chances of promotion. Please apply in writing to:

OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH (See also p. xxvii)

Radiological Services

The National Coal Board recognises the problem posed by dust exposure in coal mines and has intensive programmes on dust control, dust measurement and medical supervision. The medical programme includes periodic chest radiographs of all miners. Mobile and static X-ray units operate from bases in six coalfields; some 80,000 chest films are taken each year. In addition, work is undertaken for other industries with a potential dust problem, e.g. asbestos, pottery, foundry. It is planned to extend the medical programme and two doctors are sought to join the present team of six. After training they would be employed in Scotland and Wales.

Applicants should have had experience in chest diseases or radiology and should have an interest in both. Training will be given in the radiological interpretation of industrial pulmonary disease. Association with local hospital services for chest diseases is encouraged. There is ample opportunity for research both in the clinical and epidemiological fields. Close liaison is, of course, maintained with the other doctors in the Board's Medical Service and there is opportunity for experience in the field of occupational health in general.

The starting salary would be dependent on ability and experience but is unlikely to be less than £5000 in a range going up to £6100. The range for fully experienced staff carries a maximum of £7100 and there are opportunities for promotion beyond that.

Medical Officers

You are offered the prospect of a tour of duty — for as little as one year — in Zambia, in which will give you both a wide range of professional experience and early responsibility. It is with the nation's major mining organisation, Nchanga Consolidated Copper Mines Ltd, with an international staff of technical specialists.

The company is responsible for providing full medical care to its employees — over 30,000 — and their families; the total of persons to be looked after is about 150,000.

There is a senior doctor staff of over 40, together with a full complement of specialists and 150 fully qualified nurses. The modern facilities include 5 well-equipped hospitals (814 beds), 16 clinics and 8 main first aid dressing stations.

General Duty Medical Officers will be involved in preventive and curative medicine, surgery, anaesthetics, gynaecology/obstetrics, public health and nutrition; and although the mines have a strict safety code an amount of accident work can be expected.

Contracts may be negotiated for periods of one to three years. Locums can also often be arranged.

Salaries will depend on experience, but the minimum is K11,275 gross per annum (£7,320 based on an exchange rate of K1.=65p). In addition there is a tax free settling-in allowance; subsidised Company private primary schools; a detached, furnished house with garden is provided for £3 per week; and children receiving secondary education overseas are granted up to £780 per child per year, tax free, towards school fees and two free return passages to visit their parents during holidays; interest free car loan available. Study leave is available, and there are 60 days standard annual leave.

Up to 33% of gross income can be sent home each month.

SMOOTH, GRADUAL REDUCTION OF ELEVATED BLOOD PRESSURE . . .

lying or standing, with no abrupt falls in blood pressure even during the first few days of treatment. The onset of effect is smooth and gradual, reaching the maximum for a given dose in 2 to 8 weeks.

SMOOTH CONTROL MAINTAINED WITH NO DEVELOPMENT OF TOLERANCE¹

EFFECTIVE IN ALL GRADES OF BENIGN HYPERTENSION

Clinical studies involving more than 1,000 patients to date have amply confirmed the efficacy of Hypovase in benign hypertension of all degrees of severity. In refractory cases, the addition of a thiazide to the regimen often produces a satisfactory response.

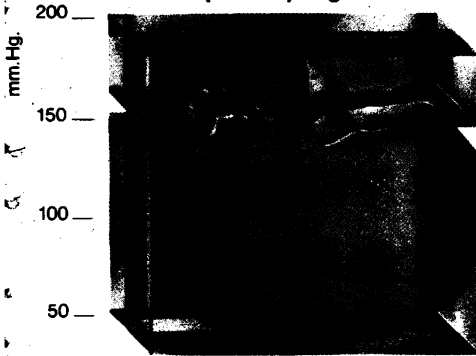

"The data cited show that...[Hypovase]...when given alone in divided doses ... induces a decline of mean arterial blood pressure of more than 15 mm. Hg in about three-quarters of ambulatory patients with mild to gross severity of disease..."

LOW INCIDENCE OF POSTURAL HYPOTENSION AND OTHER DISTRESSING HAEMODYNAMIC EFFECTS

IN DOGS, A NOTABLE ABSENCE OF ORTHOSTATIC CHANGES²

Tilt response:
untreated (control) dog

(fig. 1)

Tilt response: after administration of Hypovase 0.1 mg/kg. iv.

(fig. 2)

The normal haemodynamic pattern elicited when an untreated (control) animal is abruptly tilted from the horizontal position (fig. 1.) is closely approximated by the pattern obtained following administration of Hypovase (fig. 2.)

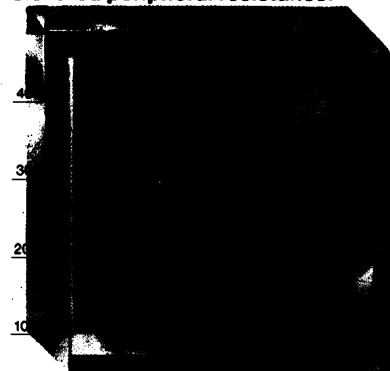

IN HUMANS, HYPOVASE APPEARS TO NORMALIZE SYSTEMIC CIRCULATION³

The following parameters were determined under increasing work loads.

No significant effect
on cardiac index

Significant reduction in elevated peripheral resistance.

— Before treatment
--- After treatment

on heart rate

Unlike many other antihypertensive agents, Hypovase appears to effect a normalization of the systemic circulation in benign essential hypertension. Orthostatic hypotension seldom occurs, cardiac output tends to improve with therapy, and adverse cardiovascular and renal changes are not a problem.

UNIQUE MODE OF ACTION

Hypovase, unlike previous antihypertensive agents, produces a direct, specific relaxation of arteriolar smooth muscle to reduce elevated peripheral resistance – the major haemodynamic abnormality in essential hypertension. Because the effect is a specific action on the arterioles, there is no venous pooling... and no adverse effect on cardiac or renal mechanisms.

"In a group of 14 hypertensive patients a 10-week course of treatment with prazosin [Hypovase] 3 to 7.5 mg/day produced a significant reduction in mean blood pressure without serious side effects"

Brit. med. J., 1974, 2, 298-300

"Of 24 patients... only three showed little or no response and in many the blood pressure control has been very satisfactory. There was little postural effect and tolerance was not seen."

The kind of power you need in arthritis.

Prescribing Information

Presentation: NAPROSYN (naproxen) is a non-steroidal anti-inflammatory agent, developed by Syntex Research. It is unrelated to salicylates or the corticosteroid hormones. It is presented as a yellow half-scored tablet containing 250 mg of naproxen, inscribed NAPROSYN on one side, and SYNTEX on the other.

Indications: NAPROSYN is indicated for the treatment of rheumatoid arthritis, osteoarthritis (degenerative arthritis) and ankylosing spondylitis.

NAPROSYN has been shown to have striking anti-inflammatory properties when tested in classical animal test systems. In addition, it has marked analgesic and anti-pyretic actions. It exhibits its anti-inflammatory effect even in adrenalectomised animals, indicating that its action is not mediated through the pituitary-adrenal axis. It inhibits prostaglandin synthetase, as do other non-steroidal anti-inflammatory agents. As with other agents, however, the exact mechanism of its anti-inflammatory action is not known.

Dosage and Administration: The recommended starting dose (and usual maintenance dose) of NAPROSYN is 250 mg twice daily, usually given with the morning meal and about 12 hours later. Dosage adjustment within the range of 375 mg to 750 mg daily, maintaining twice-daily administration, may be required for long-term maintenance.

As safety and efficacy studies in children are not yet complete, the product is currently not recommended for use in children under 16 years of age.

Contra-indications: There are no known absolute contra-indications.

Special Precautions and Warnings: NAPROSYN has been found to be well tolerated by patients exhibiting dyspepsia with other similar agents. Nonetheless, episodes of gastro-intestinal bleeding have been reported in patients with NAPROSYN therapy. NAPROSYN should be given under close supervision to patients with a history of gastro-intestinal disease.

Due to the high plasma protein binding of NAPROSYN, patients simultaneously receiving hydantoins, anti-coagulants or a highly protein-bound sulphonamide should be observed for signs of over-dosage.

Occasional skin rashes and angio-oedema have been reported. Patients who have exhibited aspirin hypersensitivity in the past (usually as the angio-oedema/asthma syndrome) may exhibit the same phenomenon on NAPROSYN.

The following additional occurrences have been reported with NAPROSYN but a causal relationship to NAPROSYN has not been established: abdominal discomfort, epigastric distress, headache, inability to concentrate, insomnia, thrombocytopenia, tinnitus, vertigo.

Sporadic abnormalities in laboratory tests (e.g. liver function tests) have occurred in patients on NAPROSYN therapy but no definite trend was seen in any test indicating toxicity.

Mild peripheral oedema has been observed in a few patients receiving NAPROSYN. Although sodium retention has not been reported in metabolic studies, it is possible that patients with questionable or compromised cardiac function may be at greater risk when taking NAPROSYN.

Teratology studies in rats and rabbits, at dose levels equivalent on a human multiple basis to those which have produced foetal abnormality with certain other non-steroidal anti-inflammatory agents, e.g. aspirin, have not produced evidence of foetal damage with NAPROSYN. As with other drugs of this type, NAPROSYN produces delay in parturition in animals. The relevance of this finding to human patients is unknown. However, good medical practice indicates minimal drug usage in pregnancy, and use of this class of therapeutic agent requires cautious balancing of possible benefits against potential risks to the mother and foetus.

Overdosage: Should a patient ingest a large number of NAPROSYN tablets accidentally or purposefully, the stomach may be emptied and usual supportive measures employed. Animal studies indicate that the prompt administration of activated charcoal in adequate amounts would tend to reduce markedly the absorption of the drug.

Pharmaceutical Precautions: Protect from light.

Legal Category: To be supplied on prescription only.

Package Quantities: NAPROSYN is supplied in canisters of 250 tablets. (N.H.S. cost - 14p per day.)

Further Information: In addition to the excellent therapeutic efficacy demonstrated by NAPROSYN in comparative clinical trials, good tolerance has been demonstrated, even in patients exhibiting multiple intolerance to other commonly used non-steroidal anti-inflammatory agents.

IN PAIN, INFLAMED, IMMOBILE-

INDOCID®

Six merits of 'Indocid'

Analgesic

'Indocid' can relieve arthritic pain—promptly and effectively. Natural movement is encouraged. By night, the patient can relax and sleep more easily; and during the day, the physical and psychological benefits of reduced pain are considerable.

Anti-inflammatory

The powerful anti-inflammatory properties of 'Indocid' have been recognised for many years. Some patients respond so well to the reduction of inflammation and swelling that they are able to perform everyday tasks previously seen as impracticable.

Mobility

By relieving pain, swelling and inflammation, 'Indocid' encourages the patient to attempt more natural movement. 'Indocid' is often an important part of the management of the patient incapacitated by rheumatoid arthritis or osteoarthritis.

Efficacy

'Indocid' is established as a major antirheumatic agent. Relief of pain, reduction of inflammation, and the progressive increase in mobility—even in some who are severely disabled—enables many to enjoy a more active life.

Reliability

Many years of clinical use have proved the qualities of 'Indocid'.

Versatility

'Indocid' has proved valuable against a variety of arthritic conditions, and the number of formulations allow easy dosage adjustment to meet the need of the individual patient.

'Indocid' is indicated in the active stages of—

Rheumatoid arthritis

Osteoarthritis

Ankylosing spondylitis

Gout

Certain acute musculo-skeletal disorders

In the day and night control of a variety of arthritic conditions

Some people take barbiturates because they can't face another day

Every year many thousands of people attempt to kill themselves with barbiturates. Some die. Most survive. But usually only after intensive treatment, in hospital.

Virtually all of these patients could be transferred to Mogadon, which is much safer,¹ but just as effective in inducing sleep.² Moreover, it causes few of the barbiturates' many other problems.³⁻⁵

Patients may still try to kill themselves. But with Mogadon few, if any, would succeed and most would recover in less than 12 hours without treatment.¹

Mogadon: far safer, far better
