

Prescribing Information

Presentation: NAPROSYN (naproxen) is a nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory agent, developed by Syntex Research. It is unrelated to salicylates or the corticosteroid hormones. It is presented as a yellow half-scored tablet containing 250 mg of naproxen, inscribed NAPROSYN on one side, and SYNTEX on the other.

Indications: NAPROSYN is indicated for the treatment of rheumatoid arthritis, osteoarthrosis (degenerative arthritis) and ankylosing spondylitis.

NAPROSYN has been shown to have striking anti-inflammatory properties when tested in classical animal test systems. In addition, it has marked analgesic and anti-pyretic actions. It exhibits its anti-inflammatory effect even in adrenalectomised animals, indicating that its action is not mediated through the pituitary-adrenal axis. It inhibits prostaglandin synthetase, as do other non-steroidal anti-inflammatory agents. As with other agents, however, the exact mechanism of its anti-inflammatory action is not known.

Dosage and Administration: The recommended starting dose (and usual maintenance dose) of NAPROSYN is 250 mg twice daily, usually given with the morning meal and about 12 hours later. Dosage adjustment within the range of 375 mg to 750 mg daily, maintaining twice-daily administration, may be required for long-term maintenance.

As safety and efficacy studies in children are not yet complete, the product is currently not recommended for use in children under 16 years of age.

Contra-indications: There are no known absolute contra-indications.

Special Precautions and Warnings: NAPROSYN has been found to be well tolerated by patients exhibiting dyspepsia with other similar agents. Nonetheless, episodes of gastro-intestinal bleeding have been reported in patients with NAPROSYN therapy. NAPROSYN should be given under close supervision to patients with a history of gastro-intestinal disease.

Due to the high plasma protein binding of NAPROSYN, patients simultaneously receiving hydantoins, anti-coagulants or a highly protein-bound sulphonamide should be observed for signs of over-dosage.

Occasional skin rashes and angio-oedema have been reported. Patients who have exhibited aspirin hypersensitivity in the past (usually as the angio-oedema/asthma syndrome) may exhibit the same phenomenon on NAPROSYN. The following additional occurrences have been reported with NAPROSYN but a causal relationship to NAPROSYN has not been established: abdominal discomfort, epigastric distress, headache, inability to concentrate, insomnia, thrombocytopenia, tinnitus, vertigo.

Sporadic abnormalities in laboratory tests (e.g. liver function tests) have occurred in patients on NAPROSYN therapy but no definite trend was seen in any test indicating toxicity.

Mild peripheral oedema has been observed in a few patients receiving NAPROSYN. Although sodium retention has not been reported in metabolic studies, it is possible that patients with questionable or compromised cardiac function may be at greater risk when taking NAPROSYN.

Teratology studies in rats and rabbits, at dose levels equivalent on a human multiple basis to those which have produced foetal abnormality with certain other nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory agents, e.g. aspirin, have not produced evidence of foetal damage with NAPROSYN. As with other drugs of this type, NAPROSYN produces delay in parturition in animals. The relevance of this finding to human patients is unknown. However, good medical practice indicates minimal drug usage in pregnancy, and use of this class of therapeutic agent requires cautious balancing of possible benefits against potential risks to the mother and foetus.

Overdosage: Should a patient ingest a large number of NAPROSYN tablets accidentally or purposefully, the stomach may be emptied and usual supportive measures employed. Animal studies indicate that the prompt administration of activated charcoal in adequate amounts would tend to reduce markedly the absorption of the drug.

Pharmaceutical Precautions: Protect from light. Legal Category: To be supplied on prescription only.

Package Quantities: NAPROSYN is supplied in canisters of 250 tablets. (N.H.S. cost – 14p per day.)

Further Information: In addition to the excellent therapeutic efficacy demonstrated by NAPROSYN in comparative clinical trials, good tolerance has been demonstrated, even in patients exhibiting multiple intolerance to other commonly used non-steroidal anti-inflammatory agents.

A NEW LOOK AT INFECTIOUS DISEASES

(ISBN 0 900221 88 7)

from the British Medical Journal

Infectious diseases remain as much a medical challenge as ever, and the articles collected in book form under the title A New Look at Infectious Diseases cover many aspects of diagnosis and treatment. The widespread use of newer antibiotics, and increased risk of spread by travel are all dealt with, as well as the problems of diagnosis produced by present day doctors' unfamiliarity with many diseases, which were formerly so common and widespread.

SINEMET

puts levodopa in its place-in the brain

Levodopa therapy is aimed at replenishing dopamine, which is deficient in the corpus striatum of patients suffering from parkinsonism. But extensive metabolism of levodopa takes place in extracerebral tissues, often producing troublesome side effects.

By inhibiting this metabolism of levodopa only outside the brain, carbidopa, discovered by MSD, allows more levodopa to reach the brain, for conversion into dopamine.

'Sinemet' is a combination of levodopa and carbidopa. With a lower dose of levodopa in 'Sinemet', higher brain dopamine levels can be achieved. By reducing certain of the dose-limiting adverse reactions usually experienced with plain levodopa, 'Sinemet' permits more patients to obtain adequate relief.

Highly effective

'Sinemet' is highly effective at doses approximately one-fifth of those needed with plain levodopa.

Simplified dosagerapid response

'Sinemet' offers prompt relief of many of the major symptoms of Parkinson's disease - fully effective doses are usually reached within seven days compared with weeks or months with levodopa alone.

Reduced peripheral side effects

By reducing certain of the dose-limiting side effects produced by plain levodopa, 'Sinemet' permits more patients to obtain adequate relief

Ease of transfer

Patients maintained on levodopa can be easily transferred to 'Sinemet', with expectation of better patient acceptance and response.

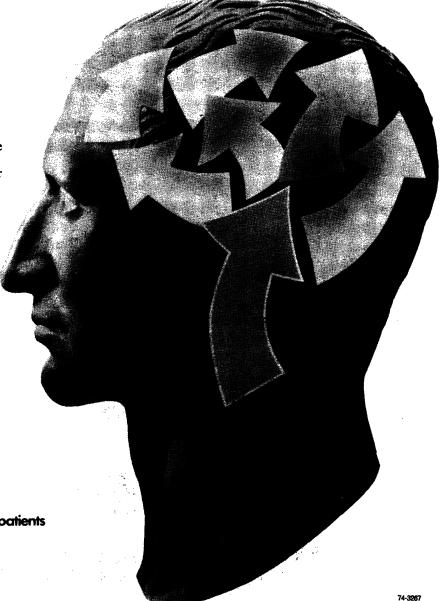

Fulfils the levodopa promise for more patients

Available as tablets containing 25 mg carbidopa and 250 mg levodopa. Detailed information is available to physicians on request ® denotes registered trademark.

Ostermilk Complete Formula for contented doctors, nurses and mothers.

Ostermilk Complete Formula, our new low-solute milk-food for babies, has now become the fastest growing baby milk-food in the country.

Clinical trials have clearly shown that babies on this Ostermilk are 'more contented'; they get more prolonged satisfaction between feeds, suffer less from regurgitation and severe wind and are less likely to have loose stools. Also, there is a considerable decrease in napkin rash.

Doctors have been quick to recognise the advantages of the new formula. The lower phosphorus content virtually eliminates the risk of hypocalcaemia and possible neonatal tetany. The low solute content reduces the chance of hypernatraemic dehydration. And the inclusion of carbohydrate as maltodextrin helps to overcome the problems of lactose intolerance.

Nurses, too, benefit from the new formula as it is available for hospital use in its ready-prepared form, Ostermilk Ready-to-Feed milk-food for babies. This system provides individual sterilized feeds in disposable glass bottles. So nursing staff spend less time with preparation and are more free to care for mothers and babies.

Out of hospital, mother finds Ostermilk Complete Formula, in its powder form, very quick and easy to prepare as it can be mixed in the bottle. She doesn't even have to add sugar. It really is complete.

We're sure that the increasing number of hospitals and mothers now using our new Ostermilk will lead to many more contented babies. And a great deal of satisfaction, too, among all those concerned with infant feeding and care.

No wonder doctors everywhere are recognising that Amoxil makes all the difference.

6 In the cases of our severely sick in patients, which of course cannot be compared with milder cases of out-patient practice, we found with amoxycillin [Amoxil] a clearly longer relapse rate than with other preparations.  (These included various tetracyclines, ampicillin, chloramphenical and cephalosporin).

4Amowycillin [Amoxil] was more effective than retus pline when all patients treated were lides et ingesties. Its moutry, nowewer was mos kod in the case of the less rely affected patients, in whom the differences were highly significant 57

(The demonstration that amoxycillin [Amoxil] penetrates into bronchial secretions as efficiently when the mucosa is uninflamed as when it is inflamed, suggests that clearance of batteria from the lower respiratory tract should be more easily accomplished with this drug than ampicillin.

Further, there is the implication that organisms may be more readily cleared from the upper respiratory tract, which frequently acts as a reservoir of potential pathogens from which relapse of lower respiratory infection may stem. 47

Logical alternative to the penicilins

Heart Attacks-can they be predicted?

"The conclusion seems inescapable that the occurrence of a cardiovascular catastrophe in the hypertensive patient constitutes a medical failure rather than the first indication for treatment. Apparent medical trivia such as asymptomatic hypertension when accompanied by hypercholesterolaemia, impaired glucose tolerance, the cigarette habit or ECG abnormalities are responsible for the bulk of cardiovascular mortality. We must learn to diagnose cardiovascular disease on its way to happening, to recognise the hallmarks of increased vulnerability and to synthesize them into a composite risk estimate, and also how to deal with the cardiovascular disease precursors effectively."

"With a casual blood test for cholesterol and sugar, blood pressure determination, cigarette history and ECG examination, it is possible to identify a tenth of the asymptomatic population from which 25% of the coronary heart disease, 40% of the occlusive peripheral arterial disease, and 50% of the strokes and congestive failure will evolve."

"The Tell-Tale Heart", the title of Edgar Allan Poe's story has a second meaning for the general practitioner. The patient at risk to heart disease will often reveal this unwittingly by "Tell-Tale" signs.

First suspicions may be aroused by tobacco stained fingers, obesity, dyspnoea, raised blood pressure or a family history of heart disease. Glucose intolerance or an ECG abnormality may show at closer examination. Furthermore, a raised serum cholesterol level may also be found.

Each of the above factors significantly increases likelihood of C.H.D., the risk rising with the number of factors present. 1,2

A recent study proved the predictive use of these risk factors in a group of 5000 men. C.H.D. was twenty-nine times more common in the high risk group than in controls – smoking, raised cholesterol and raised blood pressure being the best predictors of C.H.D.²

Since medical opinion at present recommends reduction of these risk factors, moderation of smoking and eating habits may be advantageous. However, reduction of a major risk factor – raised serum cholesterol – is of prime importance and here therapy may be indicated with Secholex, a new palatable ion exchange gel. Taken alone, or with clofibrate, marked reductions in serum cholesterol are obtained.^{3,4,5}

IN ALL GRADES OF BENIGN HYPERTENSION

Hypovase is structurally unrelated to any other drug at present used in the treatment of hypertension, and was developed as the result of a carefully designed programme set up to discover a drug which would fulfil a series of ideal criteria in the treatment of hypertension.

It was postulated that such a drug would be effective in benign hypertension of all degrees of severity, and would reduce both standing and lying blood pressure, its action would be smooth and progressive in onset, no tolerance should develop to its antihypertensive effect, and it should be free from toxicity and have the lowest possible incidence of side-effects. A pre-requisite for all this would be that the drug should lower blood pressure, not by reducing the cardiac output, but by reducing the increased peripheral resistance which constitutes the fundamental pathological change in essential hypertension.

A number of drugs in current use reduce peripheral resistance, most by interfering with sympathetic nervous function, either at ganglionic or post-ganglionic level, or at the alpha-receptor sites. By its nature, this mode of action results in generalised autonomic effects, involving other organ systems, which are experienced by the patient as side-effects. In addition, the peripheral vasodilatation so produced is a generalised one, and affects the veins as well as the arterioles, so that pooling tends to occur, and orthostatic hypotension complicates treatment. Hydrallazine, the vasodilator effect of which is confined largely to the arterioles, also causes an increase in cardiac output, which may be hazardous in certain hypertensive patients, particularly those with concurrent coronary arterial disease.

One of the most important mediators of relaxation in plain muscle is cyclic 3′, 5′-adenosine monophosphate (cyclic AMP). The levels of this substance in muscle are regulated by two enzymes, adenyl cyclase, which increases the synthesis of cyclic AMP, and phosphodiesterase, which causes its degradation. Either of two mechanisms, therefore, (stimulation of adenyl cyclase or inhibition of phosphodiesterase), can be expected to increase tissue levels of cyclic AMP and thus lead to a fall in blood pressure.

Inhibition of phosphodiesterase offered a more promising approach in the search for a new anti-hypertensive agent, particularly in the light of recent developments, which indicate that phosphodiesterase activity is increased in the arterial tissue of hypertensive rats compared with normal rats. Furthermore, a phosphodiesterase inhibitor with appropriate tissue distribution could cause vasodilatation without significant cardiac stimulation.

It was established in the course of a study of structure-action relationships, that certain chemical groupings were particularly effective as phosphodiesterase inhibitors. The most active of these was selected for further study. Tissue distribution studies, using radio-actively tagged material, showed that high concentrations of this compound were achieved in arteries and arterioles. The pharmacological action was found to be predominantly confined to the arterioles, indicating that the tissue distribution in these sites was relatively high. This compound was given the approved name prazosin (Hypovase).

Haemodynamic studies in hypertensive human patients confirmed that Hypovase produced a significant and substantial reduction in total peripheral resistance, while at the same time, there was no significant increase in heart rate or cardiac output. The central dynamics in these patients could be regarded as restored to normal.

The specificity of the vasodilator effect of Hypovase suggested that, in the absence of any venous dilatation and pooling, orthostatic hypotension would be unlikely. This was first tested in experimental animals. Dogs treated with Hypovase were suddenly changed from the horizontal to the vertical position. The effect of this in normal animals is to produce a transient fall in blood pressure, which is rapidly compensated by the action of the pressor receptors. Dogs treated with sympatholytic antihypertensive agents show a persistent fall in blood pressure, which manifests as postural hypotension. Dogs treated with Hypovase, however, showed a response similar in all respects to that of normal dogs, apart from the fact that the MAP was reduced by the drug before the change in position. No persistent fall in blood pressure below this level was produced by the change in position.

This experimental finding has been confirmed in human clinical trial, where the incidence of postural hypotension has been found to be extremely low. Clinical Trials have further demonstrated the following properties:

Hypovase reduces blood pressure smoothly in patients with all grades of benign essential and renal hypertension.

A thiazide diuretic may be added to enhance the effect.

Impotence and loss of libido do not occur.

Tolerance does not occur.

Hypovase may be given concurrently with cardiac glycosides, antidiabetic agents, anti-inflammatory/analgesic agents and uricosurics.

Hypovase reduces blood pressure without altering the cardiac output, heart rate, renal blood flow or glomerular filtration rate.

Hypovase is available as 2mg. and 5mg. scored tablets.

Full information on request.

COMMERCIAL APPOINTMENTS (See alsp p. xvii)

Experimental TherapeuticsTwo Appointments Registrar to Consultant level

The Opportunities

Our client, Beechams Pharmaceuticals Research Division, is one of the leading British pharmaceutical research organisations with an international reputation for the quality of its contribution to medical science. The Company is now expanding its activities in the rapidly-growing field of clinical pharmacology, and wishes to appoint two research-orientated physicians, one at a very senior level and one at an intermediate or more junior level.

The Scope of the Appointments

The work involves detailed studies on novel drug substances to evaluate their potential for development as new medicines. It entails assessment of their advantages and disadvantages for human use, with a view to recommending molecular or formulation modifications and optimising their therapeutic profile.

The work embraces evaluation of the absorption characteristics of test compounds, their distribution and kinetics within the body, their metabolic profiles and their modes of action and interaction; it leads on to more fundamental pharmacodynamic studies and the development of new methodologies.

Practical exploratory work is carried out on healthy human volunteers at the Company's three main research centres – Brockham Park and Walton Oaks in Surrey, and Harlow in Essex – and also on patients at the Company's purpose-built Clinical Pharmacology Unit at the West Middlesex Hospital in Isleworth. The work is also likely to involve cooperative projects with academic clinical pharmacology units elsewhere in the UK and Europe.

The department has extensive scientific and clinical support services, and there is strong project liaison with basic research workers in chemistry, pharmacology, biochemistry, drug metabolism, toxicology, pathology and other disciplines. There is also close cooperation with the physicians responsible for formal clinical trials once the present investigative studies have indicated therapeutic promise.

Therapeutic fields in which the Company has particular interests embrace chemotherapy (including antivirals), cardiovascular and anti-inflammatory agents, allergy, obesity, metabolic disorders, anti-fertility, gastric secretion and psychotropics.

The Requirements of the Posts

Applications or enquiries are invited from research-minded physicians at all levels of experience who are potentially interested in a career in clinical pharmacology and therapeutics. The senior appointment calls for existing practical experience in this field, but for the other appointment appropriate training can be arranged. Minimum requirements, however, are three years' post-registration experience in good medical training positions, evidence of a good research/scientific mind, and a maturity of outlook.

The Benefits

Starting salaries will be at least at junior consultant level, and substantially higher for the senior man. All are strongly progressive on merit. Other benefits include a company car, non-contributory superannuation and generous assistance with relocation.

Please write for additional literature and an application form or, if you would like to discuss the appointments further, 'phone: Dr. A. E. F. Chandler (Reference ACA), Talentmark Limited, King House, 11 Westbourne Grove. London W2 4UA. Tel: 01-229 2266.

Medical Adviser Overseas Aid Projects £9,400

This appointment, based in London, offers you as a registered medical practitioner the opportunity to become involved in the Ministry of Overseas Development's aid projects in the developing countries. Your particular responsibilities will cover West and Central Africa, the Carribean and South America, and you will visit these areas several times a year spending some 10 weeks away annually.

The range of health projects undertaken is wide and will often be on a major scale, such as advice on setting up and running health services in these countries, with the associated problems of training and organisation. Often, too, the Ministry's industrial and social development programmes will call for detailed consideration of health aspects, and will enable you to apply your expertise within a broad multi-disciplinary context. Assessment of research, particularly into tropical diseases, is also an integral part of the post, and will keep you in constant contact with professional and academic institutions.

Applicants should preferably have had wide and varied experience in medical administration and public health at home and overseas.

The salary for this appointment will be £9,400 with non-contributory pension scheme.

Hypovase Practice of Practice

A NEW AGENT FOR THE TREATMENT OF HYPERTENSION

CONTROLS BLOOD PRESSURE SMOOTHLY

IN ALL GRADES OF BENIGN HYPERTENSION

WITH FEW DISTRESSING HAEMODYNAMIC EFFECTS

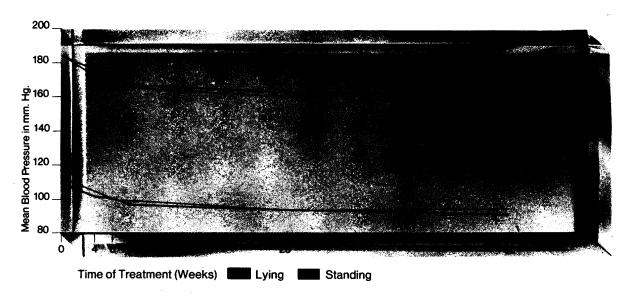

THROUGH A UNIQUE MODE OF ACTION

SMOOTH, GRADUAL REDUCTION OF ELEVATED BLOOD PRESSURE . . .

lying or standing, with no abrupt falls in blood pressure even during the first few days of treatment. The onset of effect is smooth and gradual, reaching the maximum for a given dose in 2 to 8 weeks.

SMOOTH CONTROL MAINTAINED WITH NO DEVELOPMENT OF TOLERANCE 1

EFFECTIVE IN ALL GRADES OF BENIGN HYPERTENSION

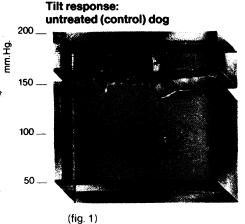

Clinical studies involving more than 1,000 patients to date have amply confirmed the efficacy of Hypovase in benign hypertension of all degrees of severity. In refractory cases, the addition of a thiazide to the regimen often produces a satisfactory response.

"The data cited show that...[Hypovase]... when given alone in divided doses ... induces a decline of mean arterial blood pressure of more than 15 mm. Hg in about three-quarters of ambulatory patients with mild to gross severity of disease..."

J. Clin. Pharmacol. 1970, 10, 408

LOW INCIDENCE OF POSTURAL HYPOTENSION AND OTHER DISTRESSING HAEMODYNAMIC EFFECTS

IN DOGS, A NOTABLE ABSENCE OF ORTHOSTATIC CHANGES²

Tilt response: after administration of Hypovase 0.1 mg/kg. iv.

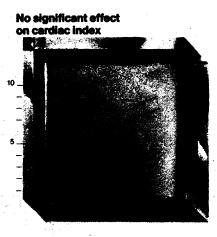

(fig. 2)

IN HUMANS, HYPOVASE APPEARS TO NORMALIZE SYSTEMIC CIRCULATION³

The following parameters were determined under increasing work loads.

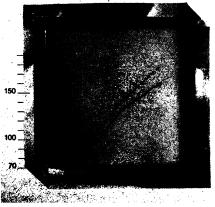

Significant reduction in elevated peripheral resistance

Before treatment

No significant effect on heart rate

Unlike many other antihypertensive agents. Hypovase appears to effect a normalization of the systemic circulation in benign essential hypertension. Orthostatic hypotension seldom occurs, cardiac output tends to improve with therapy, and adverse cardiovascular and renal changes are not a poble.

UNIQUE MODE OF ACTION

Hypovase, unlike previous antihypertensive agents, produces a direct, specific relaxation of arteriolar smooth muscle to reduce elevated peripheral resistance—the major haemodynamic abnormality in essential hypertension. Because the effect is a specific action on the arterioles, there is no venous pooling...and no adverse effect on cardiac or renal mechanisms.

"In a group of 14 hypertensive patients a 10-week course of treatment with prazosin [Hypovase]
3 to 7.5 mg/day produced a significant reduction in mean blood pressure without serious side effects."

Brit. med. J., 1974, 2, 298-300

"Of 24 patients...only three showed little or no response and in many the blood pressure control has been very satisfactory. There was little postural effect and tolerance was not seen."
