

Trasicor®

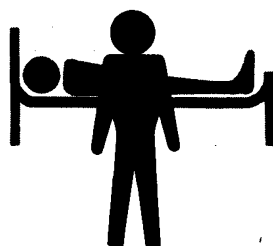

"...there are good reasons for believing that oxprenolol (Trasicor) should become an integral part of all antihypertensive therapy."¹

Highly Effective

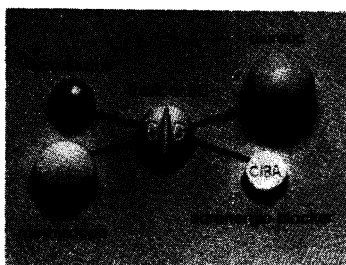

Numerous studies²⁻⁶ have shown that Trasicor, particularly in combination with a diuretic, reduces diastolic BP to near normal levels with high patient acceptability. This is important because it is the quality of control rather than the initial severity of hypertension which influences the prognosis.⁷

No Postural Hypotension

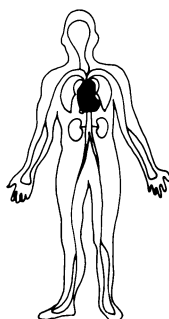

Trasicor gives effective BP control without exercise or postural hypotension⁴ and with 'strikingly few side effects'.⁸

Suitable in any Combination

Trasicor can be combined successfully with other antihypertensive agents such as diuretics (e.g. Navidrex K), hydralazine, adrenergic blockers (e.g. Ismelin) and methyl dopa.

Cardioprotective

Cardioprotection before infarction

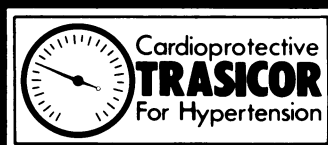

A three-year prospective study suggests that beta-blockers significantly reduce the risk of myocardial infarction and sudden death in IHD patients, with or without hypertension.⁹

Cardioprotection after infarction

Two recent prospective studies from Sweden showed a statistically significant reduction in sudden death^{10,11} and re-infarction¹¹ in patients treated with a non-selective beta-blocker.

Trasicor tablets (oxprenolol hydrochloride) 20mg, 40mg, 80mg, 160mg available in Securitainers of 100.

“Inderal: Britain’s
most tried and trusted
Beta Blocker.”

How can ICI
support a claim like that?

With ten years of unequalled clinical experience supported by a mass of documented evidence.

Ten years of widespread clinical use and over 5,000 papers published on the many different aspects of the drug indicate that 'Inderal' is the most tried and trusted beta blocker. 'Inderal' has withstood the test of long-term worldwide use and is currently prescribed more often than all other beta blockers put together. Let some of the evidence during the past ten years speak for itself.

With the introduction of propranolol ['Inderal'], . . . a new dimension in antianginal, anti-ischemic therapy has been made available.

American Journal Cardiology, 1968, 21, 44.

Numerous trials have confirmed its effect, and it is the drug of choice for patients who do not respond to conventional methods of treatment.

British Medical Journal, 1966, 2, 1311.

. . . propranolol ['Inderal'] counteracts in part an undesirable effect of nitroglycerin, namely tachycardia. This drug combination is easily the most effective and reliable pharmacological means available for increasing exercise capacity in anginal patients.

Cardiovascular Beta Adrenergic Responses, 1970. ed. Kattus, Ross & Hall, Los Angeles: University of California Press, p. 200.

We conclude that propranolol ['Inderal'] produces objective and subjective improvement in unselected angina pectoris patients . . .

Clinical Pharmacology and Therapeutics, 1974, 15, 203.

Of all the beta-blocking drugs which are available, most experience has been gained with propranolol ['Inderal'] . . .

Update, 1975, 10, 403.

In the treatment of Angina Pectoris there is no better beta blocker than Inderal.

A doctor can gain a lot from 5 years in the Royal Navy.

As a qualified doctor, you can join the Royal Navy for 3 or 5 years on a Short Service Commission.

In that time, you'll spend up to a year practising medicine in a Naval ship.

You could have the chance of working and living overseas for a time.

And you'll be able to do your General Professional Training in one of the clinical and medical scientific disciplines at a Naval hospital or an RN establishment.

At sea.

After a short Officers course at the Royal Naval College, Dartmouth, and a basic course in maritime medicine at the Institute of Naval Medicine, Alverstoke, you'll normally go to sea for about 12 months.

You'll be responsible for the medical care of some 250 to 500 men in your ship (and advise the Captain on health and environmental problems).

You won't lose touch with modern medicine, as you can visit local hospitals in ports of call and use the teaching aids provided by your Naval tutor.

Postgraduate training and specialisation.

After your sea-time, career counselling will determine your postgraduate training programme.

There are opportunities for General Professional Training in preparation for a clinical career in general practice, the hospital specialities, or the medical scientific disciplines such as Aviation, Underwater, Submarine and Nuclear Medicine; or in occupational and community medicine.

If you decide to transfer to a 16-year pensionable Commission, or a permanent Commission, you could move on to recognised higher training programmes which include research training and higher training posts in civilian units.

At Alverstoke, the Dean of Naval Medicine co-ordinates postgraduate medical training and research.

Naval hospitals.

The two largest are at Haslar (near Portsmouth) and Plymouth.

They undertake the care of Naval personnel, their families and NHS civilians, providing a broad spectrum of clinical material. Both hospitals are recognised for higher training in the major specialities.

There is a full range of modern, technical equipment, and the nursing and paramedical staff are highly skilled.

There are smaller hospitals in Malta and Gibraltar.

Salary.

If you join us immediately after registration, your salary will be £5,997 as a Surgeon Lieutenant.

You can, however, join at any age up to 39. In that case, your postgraduate experience is taken into account, and you could join as a Surgeon Lieutenant Commander earning £8,015 a year.

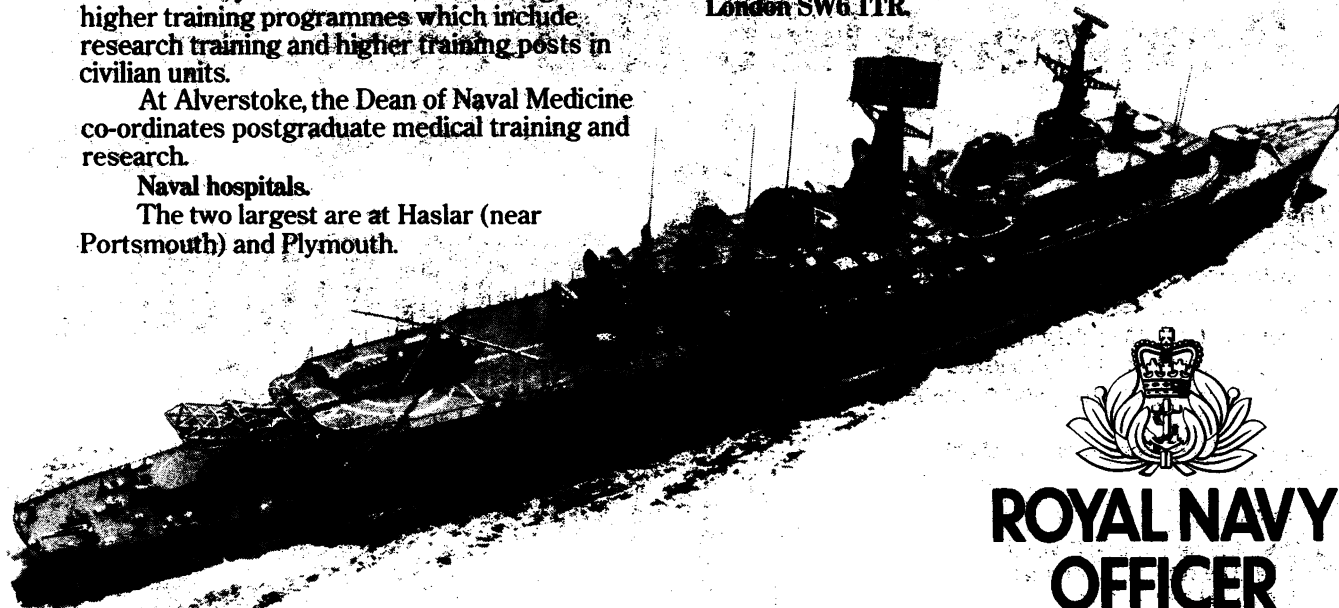

If you leave at the end of your 3 year Commission, you'll receive a tax-free gratuity of £1,500, or, after 5 years, £3,000.

If you decide to stay on, you can apply for a 16-year pensionable Commission or a permanent Commission.

The salary structure is based on an analogue computed from the average earnings of general practitioners in the NHS, with an additional X factor. There is extra pay for recognised postgraduate qualifications and Senior Specialist or Consultant status.

If you're posted overseas, you can, of course, take your family with you. There are, too, generous boarding school allowances for your children, starting at £807 for your first child.

For more information, write to Surgeon Commander L.C. Banks, MB B Ch MFC M RN, (724FM), Medical Directorate General (Navy), Ministry of Defence, Empress State Building, London SW6 1TR.

Some people take barbiturates because they can't face another day

Every year many thousands of people attempt to kill themselves with barbiturates. Some die. Most survive. But usually, only after intensive treatment, in hospital.

Virtually all of these patients could be transferred to Mogadon, which is much safer,¹ but just as effective in inducing sleep.² Moreover, it causes few of the barbiturates' many other problems.³⁻⁵

Patients may still try to kill themselves. But with Mogadon few, if any, would succeed and most would recover in less than 12 hours without treatment.¹

Mogadon: far safer, far better

APPOINTMENTS

Applicants for medical appointments are advised to check whether the post advertised is included in the Important Notice and to scrutinize carefully the remuneration and terms of service offered. Any member who is in doubt about these terms in relation to B.M.A. agreements should consult the Secretary of the Association.

Advertisers are reminded that the Race Relations Board insists that no descriptive term implying racial, national, or ethnic characteristics may be used in any advertisement. Further, readers are advised not to apply for any appointment which discriminates between applicants on grounds of creed or unreasonably on grounds of sex.

HOSPITAL APPOINTMENTS

Applicants should state names, address, age, nationality, and qualifications, and enclose (unless otherwise specified) one copy of each of three recent testimonials, with a short statement of experience and appointments held. Applications should be sent at once if no closing date is given: Canvassing disqualifies (Statutory Instrument, 1974, No. 361).

All National Health Service hospital appointments are in accordance with the Terms and Conditions of Service of Hospital Medical Staff.

Further details concerning standards of residential accommodation, telephone charges, removal allowances, study leave and other matters should be obtained from the Hospital Secretary; or by B.M.A. members from the Secretary, British Medical Association.

In particular, they will find full details of facilities provided in most hospitals in the United Kingdom in the current edition of the Hospital Gazetteer. If such details are not included members are advised to consult the Secretary of the B.M.A.

Applicants requiring hospital married accommodation are strongly advised to obtain, prior to interview, clarification in writing from the employing authority as to whether such accommodation will be available on appointment.

No advertisement may stipulate that a non-resident must live less than 10 miles from a hospital. Advertisements for post-registration house officers, senior house officers and registrars should state clearly whether the post is resident, i.e. compulsorily resident.

In all advertisements grade should be clearly indicated. Normally a consultant vacancy must be advertised as (a) part-time with the number of sessions clearly stated, or (b) whole-time with the option of maximum part-time.

In the view of the BMA, an advertiser should not insist on possession of English higher qualifications in preference to Scottish or Irish qualifications (or vice versa).

Goodbye to pain...

goodbye to gastric irritation

In Safapryn and Safapryn-Co, the aspirin is enteric-coated to pass intact through the stomach and dissolve in the alkaline fluid of the small intestine. Because there is no direct contact between the aspirin and gastric mucosa, there is little or no risk of gastric irritation, erosion or ulceration.
