

FEB 5 1925

Medical Libl

E

The

British Medical Journal

THE JOURNAL OF THE BRITISH MEDICAL ASSOCIATION,
Including an Epitome of Current Medical Literature.
WITH SUPPLEMENT.

No. 3343.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 24, 1925.

Price 1/3

"ORGANOTHERAPY in GENERAL PRACTICE"

253 pp., with Therapeutic Index, Tables, and Bibliography.

"Organotherapy in General Practice" is offered to the medical profession in the hope that it will prove of real service in supplying a condensed, dependable text-book covering the entire field, and be of value to the general practitioner in the diagnosis and treatment of those conditions in which Organotherapy is now the accepted method of treatment.

The books devoted to this subject usually cover only one gland, one section or one phase of the subject—purely physiological aspects or diseases of the endocrine glands themselves. Original research is usually reported in scientific journals of high character but very small circulation, and often does not come to the attention of the general practitioner for a long time.

The growth of this form of therapy has been steady and progressive in all parts of the world, so that to-day it forms a substantial part of all medical practice, and endocrine preparations of some type are included in the pharmacopœias of Great Britain, the United States, and France.

The purpose of this book will have been accomplished if the general practitioner is aided in some degree in using Organotherapy in his everyday practice, for it furnishes an effective means for the treatment, relief, and cure of many human ailments which are beyond aid by the older agents of the physician's armamentarium.

A copy of this book will be sent free and post-paid to members of the Medical Profession on request.

G. W. CARNRICK CO.,

417, CANAL STREET, NEW YORK.

LONDON AGENTS: BROOKS & WarBURTON (American Drug Supply Co.) Ltd., 40/42, LEXINGTON STREET, LONDON, W.1.